Plane Engine Flaws Told in Army Trial

FRENCH PEOPLE SHOULD PICK RULERS: F.D.R.

Implies Rejection of De Gaulle Group.

Showdown Nears

ALGIERS, April 7 (AP).—A showdown between Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud neared tonight. Giraudists said most members of the French national committee opposed an attempt by De Gaulle to relegate the French commander to the unimportant post of "inspector general of the armies."

One informant said only three committee members favored De Gaulle's attempt to force Giraud to relinquish his position and authority as commander in chief of French land, sea, and air forces. Others close to Giraud said the 65 year old leader would quit rather than thus be shelved and humiliated.

De Gaulle was said to have drafted an ordinance naming Giraud inspector general.

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—President Roosevelt today said the principle of self-determination is the core of American policy toward France. By implication, he ruled out any pre-invasion recognition of the French committee of national liberation.

Mr. Roosevelt's position has been stated formally to the British with whom there must be agreement on the orders to be issued by the combined chiefs of staff to Gen. Eisenhower before an invasion of western Europe. As yet, the British have made no reply.

French Officials Barred.

Pending any joint action by the combined chiefs of staff, French officers assigned by the committee to Eisenhower's headquarters are not officially able to coöperate in preparations for ruling liberated areas of France.

Today's discussion of the French question by the chief executive at a news conference was his first since he announced on March 17 that he had arrived at a decision.

The question was raised when a reporter asked for comment on recognition of the French national committee, which is headed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle at Algiers.

How Do French Feel?

Mr. Roosevelt responded by saying that the real question is, what is self-determination? How do we know, he continued, how the people of France feel?

No one within his hearing, the President said, has lately been in France and if any one had, his knowledge would be limited because of the restricted area in which he would have been able to travel. Under those circumstances, Mr. Roosevelt said, would you let the determination of government be made by people who are not in France?

It is understood that the United States is strongly opposed to recognizing the French committee as a government for metropolitan France until after the committee has had a chance to prove that it can follow invading armies into France, have or win the support of the people, and actually do the governing. The British, on the other hand, have been ready to accept the committee's claim that it already has the support of the people of France.

8 Out of 12 Tested Pieces Found Faulty

Cincinnati, O., April 7 (AP).—Testimony that eight out of 12 Wright airplane engines torn down and rechecked on orders of Undersecretary of War Patterson had "dangerous defects" which might have caused failure in flight was given today at the court martial of three army air force officers charged with neglect of duty and conspiracy.

The witness, who said the 12 engines were selected "at random" from 100 returned by the AAF from a Columbus, O., depot last September, was Melvin L. Hiller, an army inspector at the Lockland plant of the Wright Aeronautical corporation.

Saying that his crew of inspectors had just finished reassembling the engines, he promised to bring in a summary of data on the remaining 88 next week, when the 11 member court resumes sessions after spending tomorrow visiting the plant.

Shipped Early in 1943.

The three officers accused of inspection malpractices at the plant are Lt. Col. Frank C. Greulich of Detroit, former chief inspector for the AAF materiel command; Maj. Walter Ryan, former inspection officer for the 14 state central district at Detroit, and Maj. William Bruckmann of Cincinnati, former AAF inspector in the plant.

Hiller told the court that the 100 engines had been shipped from Lockland between Jan. 26 and April 9, 1943. The latter date was a week after the Truman war production investigating committee had held a hearing here on complaints about engines produced at the Lockland plant.

The defects on the eight engines which Hiller described as "dangerous" on questioning by Maj. Henry C. Clausen, trial judge advocate, ranged from cracked master rod bearings installed despite previous rejection, to cylinder flaws, disintegrating bushings, and "soft" piston rings.

Charges Carelessness.

The other four engines, he added, had minor defects and all 12 showed evidence of mutilation thru careless assembly and handling of tools.

Hiller insisted when questioned by Col. Charles Chapman of the court that his inspection was "no more searching than production inspection should have been."

Asked by John C. Taylor, civilian counsel for Maj. Bruckmann, if the bearing defects could have been "fatigue cracks" that developed during the final test run, Hiller said this was possible but added: "If a bearing is cracked when it goes in, it will be cracked when it comes out."

Leopold Wroblewski, a company foundry inspector, testified that castings for superchargers sent from the Wright home plant in Paterson, N. J., and rejected here were used anyway, but rejections of castings from sources outside the company were sustained.

RUSSIANS TRAP GERMAN ARMY NEAR ODESSA

Reds 10 Miles from Black Sea Port.

LONDON, April 8 [Saturday]—(AP).—The Red army has sprung still another trap on the remnants of five or six German divisions, perhaps 25,000 to 50,000 men, 40 miles northwest of Odessa.

Moscow, in making this announcement early today, said the Russians had advanced thru 60 villages in a narrowing siege arc around the big Black sea port. Among the towns taken was one less than 10 miles northeast of Odessa. Others were 12 miles to the east, near the coast, 17 miles to the north, and 17 miles to the northwest.

Reds Advance 25 Miles.

Russian mobile units moving around Odessa's western flank drove to within 13 miles of the last German escape route into Rumania with the capture of Mayaki at the head of the Dniester river estuary.

The seizure of Mayaki in a 25 mile advance down the east bank of the Dniester put the Red army within 13 miles of a ferry terminus on the lower Dniester estuary. From Odessa a railway runs 18 miles southwest to the ferry terminus, whence boats ply the four mile wide Dniester to lower Bessarabia. The Russians said troops which had taken Mayaki were 18 miles west of Odessa.

The latest Russian trap was sprung north of Razdelnaya by units which previously had cut the last major escape route into Rumania at that point. Razdelnaya is about 30 miles northwest of Odessa.

5,000 Germans Slain.

Moscow's bulletin said more than 5,000 of the encircled Germans had been killed and more than 1,000 captured in two days' fighting. The remainder were "being wiped out," the Russians added.

In another Russian trap west of Skala in the southwest corner of the Ukraine, the Russians again repulsed German attempts to break out to the west. Moscow said 4,000 enemy troops were killed Thursday. The remnants of 15 German divisions are surrounded in that sector.

Southwest of Tarnopol in former Poland other Russian troops also beat down attacks by large forces of enemy infantry and tanks "which tried to break thru to aid the encircled grouping" at Tarnopol, the bulletin said. Tarnopol's German garrison has been surrounded since March 26. In street fighting the Russians have captured most of the town.

In Bessarabia a Russian army in a two day fight toppled a district center 20 miles north of Kishinev [Chisinau], provincial capital.

[German radio broadcast said axis troops were carrying out "disengagement" operations north of Odessa.]

THEIR EASTER EGG

MYSTERY OF BODY IN TRUNK OF AUTO SOLVED BY POLICE

Mildred Roloff and Ann Gerber, 1205 Sherwin av., yesterday evening were positive that they had spotted a murder car in Chase av., near Sheridan rd., and so were Lt. William Drury and his squad at the Rogers Park police station after they told their story.

"A hand and a foot were sticking out of the trunk of the car when it passed us," they said. "Then the driver stopped, stepped out, shoved the hand and foot inside, locked the trunk, and drove on. The license number was Ill. 90-085."

The police swung into feverish action. They traced the license number to a wholesale cigar distributing company and learned the company had several cars used by salesmen. Records were locked up for the night and no one knew who drove which car. Seven hours later, however, Drury and his men traced the car to George Newman, 1432 Chase av. Newman wasn't home so they stopped at the Birchwood garage, 1531 Birchwood av., where they questioned the mechanic, Gus Knobloch, 7356 Greenview av. He said he knew Newman well.

"Just this afternoon I was working on his car," he said. "He complained it was rattling, so I got into the trunk to listen for the noise while he drove. Then I had him lock me in the trunk so I could hear better."

Drury and his men exchanged wry glances.

BOY GIVES LIFE TO SPARE YANKS ESCAPING JAPS

HDQ. OF U. S. AIR COMMANDO FORCE, India-Burma border, March 23 [Delayed]—(AP).—The story now can be told of the slim American farm boy who, when only a few yards from safety, drowned rather than cry for help and give the position of his American and British friends to the enemy.

Sgt. Estel I. Nienaber of R. R. 2, Columbia, Mo., was with a party of American air Commandos and British troops escaping thru enemy territory. He was crew chief of a glider forced down over enemy territory in Burma during a night air invasion. When the group reached a river he and the other nonswimmers were told not to make any noise even if they could not make it across to the bank held by the allies.

Half way across, a swimmer escorting Nienaber became tired and went under when he halted to take off his shoes. When the swimmer came up Nienaber was 20 feet downstream. The lad's escort swam quickly toward him, but it was too late. With his lips clamped together Nienaber sank without making a sound. All attempts at a rescue failed.

WIFE OF HERO FIRED AFTER DEFYING UNION

Mrs. Martha Pramuk, 22, mother of an infant son and wife of an overseas hero, was the loser yesterday in her dispute with local 208 of the Building Service Employes' union [AFL] when she was dismissed as an elevator operator in the Calumet National bank building in Hammond.

Mrs. Pramuk, who had been a member of the local in 1942, returned to work in the building recently without paying a reinstatement fee of $5 and $1.50 dues that the union said she owed for her previous membership. Four other operators called a strike in the nine story building Thursday and yesterday the building management had to fire her to keep peace with the union.

Mrs. Pramuk contended that F. M. Oberg, union business agent, was wrong in maintaining that she owed the money. She said that under the union rules she was in good standing. William L. McFetridge, international president of the union, said that he would investigate.

St. Louis Kelly Slain in Brawl Over Politics

J. Livert Kelly.

J. Livert [St. Louis] Kelly, Negro labor leader, gambler, and political power in the south side Negro district, was shot and killed last night in a Democratic political brawl in the yard of Forrestville school, 4419 St. Lawrence av.

His slayer was Wendell Lyons, Negro, of 4848 Michigan av., brother-in-law of Ald. Grant [3d], Negro, a candidate for Democratic committeeman of that ward, for whom a political rally was being held at the time of the shooting.

Kelly, who was 50 and lived at 5324 Michigan av., was supporting County Commissioner Edward M. Sneed, Negro, Grant's opponent in the Tuesday primary. Earlier in the night Lyons had complained to Wabash av. police that Kelly was defacing Grant posters. Kelly went to the station and denied the charge, then later went to Ald. Grant's meeting, where he again denied the charge.

Dominates Union of 500.

Lyons took up the quarrel and he and Kelly went into the school yard. There a minute later Lyons fired two shots. One struck Kelly between the eyes. Lyons surrendered to police and said he fired in self-defense.

Kelly's death removed one of the city's most powerful Negro bosses, one who allegedly had achieved wealth from a combination of labor rackets, slot machine rackets, and politics. As president of local 444 of the Bartenders' union he dominated some 500 Negro bartenders and waiters.

Until two years ago Kelly also was boss of local 901-B, with a Negro membership, of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, but was kicked out—his only major defeat—with the ouster of Max Caldwell as head of local 1248 of the association.

Takes Over 1,000 Juke Boxes.

A year ago he reputedly took over in its entirety the 1,000 juke box business of Fats Robinson on the latter's death. In addition he allegedly was interested in several gambling concessions.

Kelly was a flashy dresser, a suave talker, and—police said—a vicious enemy. He used his fists to prove his authority, and few dared to oppose him in his union or other activities. He was said to have been a friend of Frank Nitti, Capone successor who committed suicide March 19, 1943, and of Danny Stanton, another Capone chief who was murdered May 5, 1943.

DANGER OF HAWAIIAN INVASION IS PAST, GOVERNOR TESTIFIES

HONOLULU, T. H., April 7 (AP).—Gov. Ingram M. Stainback of Hawaii testified in federal court today that "there is no possibility of a repetition of what happened here Dec. 7, 1941." His testimony, referring to the Pearl Harbor attack, was given as a witness for Lloyd C. Duncan, 25, civilian navy yard worker, seeking freedom from a jail sentence in a habeas corpus test case. Duncan was sentenced to six months by a military provost court for assaulting two marine sentries.

On cross-examination Stainback asserted his belief that the territory no longer is in imminent danger of invasion, as top ranking military commanders have declared.

Questioned by Garner Anthony, Duncan's attorney, Stainback declared he did not believe the public safety now requires the suspension of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus in the islands.

CHANCE OF RAIN ON EASTER SEEN BY FORECASTER

Maybe there'll be a little Easter rain tomorrow, but if there is, it won't be much, said Forecaster G. L. Canaday last night in an early forecast of the all-important Easter weather. But he added that maybe we'll get by without any. One thing tho, the Easter temperatures will be enjoyable, 55 degrees or a little higher, promised Canaday. And, he added, spring weather will be here before long. Today the temperature ought to reach about 50, he said, with skies clearing. Today will be a good April day, he said, and tomorrow really shouldn't be too much different.

GIRL, 16, HANGS HERSELF AFTER WORK QUARREL

Patricia Ferril, 16, of 3523 Jackson blvd., hanged herself yesterday after she quarreled with her sister, Margaret, over division of the housework.

Patricia's body, hanging by a scarf from a bedroom door, was found by her stepfather, Norman Dvorak. Her mother was at work in a war plant.

Margaret was mopping the kitchen floor at the time her sister died.

New Deal Lax in Jap Sneak, Says Bricker

BY THOMAS MORROW.

Gov. Bricker of Ohio, avowed candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, asserted last night that if the Roosevelt administration had taken indicated precautions the Pearl Harbor disaster could never have happened.

"I say this administration knew or should have known the danger of the Pacific," Bricker said, "and knowing should have taken steps to combat this danger."

He told his audience that retention of bases and installations thruout the world is an absolute necessity to the future safety of the United States. The people, he said, should be advised of what is going on in international and domestic affairs.

Must Guard Interests.

Tall, silver haired, and of imposing appearance, Bricker spoke to the Executive club in Hotel Sherman at noon and at an evening banquet in the Union League club. He asserted that the United States, in confronting post-war problems, must exercise an intelligent self-interest and enter into no secret commitments.

America's position in the world, the speaker said, is "dependent upon our remaining free at home and keeping our government in our own hands." He lashed burocratic control, deficit-financing, and urged his audience to recapture the spirit of free government — that pride which is lost when the individual becomes the subject of a government.

Prevent Future Attack.

Turning to the subject of bases, Bricker said their military value is being demonstrated under war time conditions and national prudence dictates that the country must retain those necessary to avoid future attack.

"The fact that the cost of constructing these bases and installations might have been borne primarily by any one of the allied nations is, of course, a factor but not necessarily the sole one," Bricker said. "The immediate proximity of any base to any nation should not in and of itself be controlling.

"This does not mean that the United States is abandoning its traditional nonimperialistic policy. We harbor no territorial ambitions. These strategic bases, far-flung tho they may appear by our customary measures of distance, actually will be only hours away in terms of future air speeds. They are our sentry posts in a fast moving world.

Won't Give Bases Away.

"Our gallant soldiers are not fighting their way, inch by inch, foot by foot against the Japs to win the Pacific Islands only to have our leaders give them all away with a grandiose gesture at some future conference table. The status of some of these bases necessarily will be the subject of diplomatic discussions, but we must not be outsmarted around a trading table. Good will and respect are acquired by a straightforward, honest policy of fair dealing and looking after our interests."

Bricker warned that whatever commitments are made, the United States must not only intend to keep but be able to keep them. The bases, he pointed out, would help develop and protect new trade routes, be indispensable in keeping open present and future communication lines, and be vital in preventing a second Pearl Harbor.

"Peace will come when the nations of the world realize that peace is profitable and it can be made so," the speaker continued.

Must Keep People Informed.

"We will not be attempting to impose our kind of government upon others or transgress their rights. Nor do we intend to have any one attempt to change our government, to which we are devoted. This program does not mean planning for the next war, but planning for the preservation of peace.

"The Republic, to be effective in a world sphere, must have the support of our people. They must be advised. They must know what is going on around the world and be enlightened on national as well as international affairs."

Bricker won his afternoon audience in the Sherman when he responded to a flowery introduction.

"That introduction," he said, "would embarrass a man—even in his home town."

Communist Browder Asks Re-election of Roosevelt

Detroit, Mich., April 7 (AP).—Communist Leader Earl Browder in a radio talk tonight urged the re-election of President Roosevelt.

NAVY DESTROYS 160-214 PLANES IN PALAU RAID

Torpedo Battleship Near Philippines.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, April 7 (AP).—Unchallenged by the Japanese fleet, strong American aircraft carrier task forces wrought havoc for three days less than 600 miles from the Philippines, sinking 28 enemy ships, damaging 18, bagging 160 to 214 planes, and spreading destruction over the Palau Islands and adjacent bases, it was disclosed today.

The American warships, operating more than 4,500 miles southwest of Pearl Harbor, emerged unscathed and only 25 of the hundreds of attacking carrier planes and 18 flyers were lost.

Again unable to draw out Nippon's navy, Adm. Raymond A. Spruance's fleet had to be content with two destroyers and "one unidentified combat ship" among the vessels sunk. The remainder largely were cargo ships and oilers.

Battleship Torpedoed.

However, a Japanese battleship was spotted the night of March 28 just before the three day fleet operation opened. As it fled the Palau region in the western Carolines, an American submarine rammed home a torpedo which caused "considerable damage." The battle wagon, however, limped away.

"There was no damage to our surface ships," today's war bulletin said. The Japanese radio had claimed two cruisers sunk and a battleship and at least two aircraft carriers damaged in the raid.

A navy spokesman described the task force as the most powerful ever to operate in the central Pacific.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, in breaking a protective radio silence of more than a week, disclosed that the Palaus, known as Japan's Singapore, bore the brunt of the attack of carrier planes but that Yap, Ulithi, and Woleai also were hit in operations extending thru March 29, 30, and 31.

Three Vessels Sunk at Sea.

At Palau on the first two days 25 ships were sunk. The other three enemy ships definitely sunk were small ones which fell victim to ships' gunfire at sea.

All 18 ships damaged, including the battleship, were in the Palau sector, 530 miles east of the Philippines.

In addition, several small ships were sunk at Ulithi.

Shoot Down 98 Planes.

The bulk of the planes were encountered over the Palaus, where 93 were shot out of the sky, 29 others probably were downed, 39 wiped out on the ground, and 20 others probably destroyed.

The American carrier planes were under command of Vice Adm. Mark A. Mitscher.

The Palaus were hit March 29 and 30; Yap and Ulithi March 30, and Woleai, about midway between Palau and Truk, Jap base in the central Carolines, on March 31.

Yap is about 250 miles northeast of Palau.

The following ground installations were destroyed at Palau:

Forty buildings at Arakabuesan, just west of the main island; four hangars and small buildings at the seaplane base, and more than 20 warehouses at Malakal harbor, near Arakabuesan.

Docks were extensively damaged and fires started.

Other Islands Pounded.

At Koror, Japanese administrative center of all the mandated territory, warehouses, dumps, and hangars were destroyed.

At Angaur, a small island at the southern tip of the cluster around Palau, a phosphate plant, docks, storage buildings were damaged.

At Babelthuap in the Palau Islands a dock was damaged.

At Yap Island, which in 1921 was the subject of bitter controversy between the United States and Japan over the control of the cable and other communications, airdrome facilities and buildings were damaged.

At Ulithi the radio station and docks were damaged and several small vessels sunk.

At Woleai seven Japanese planes were destroyed and five more probably were destroyed.

Nimitz said that during the nights preceding and following the Palau attacks, American carrier planes shot down 17 attacking planes and ships' anti-aircraft batteries bagged five more.

SINK JAP TANKER

ALLIED HDQ., Southwest Pacific, April 8 [Saturday] — (AP). — Allied planes in widely separated attacks have sunk an enemy oil tanker, set fire to a 7,000 ton merchantman, and hit Wakde Island near Hollandia for the first time, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

The merchant ship suffered two direct hits during a strong attack by Thunderbolt and Kittyhawk fighters. It last was seen blazing fiercely off New Guinea near Wewak.

The tanker was sent to the bottom near Timor in the Dutch East Indies. In addition Australian Beaufighters, long range attack ships, sank two barges and set fire to four others. Ashore they set fires visible for 50 miles at Koepang and Lautem.

Only One Plane Lost.

One allied plane failed to return from this attack.

Other targets of MacArthur's airmen were Hollandia, Cape St. George on New Ireland, and Bougainville in the Solomons.

Allied light naval units in night attacks sank two large barges near Bunabun harbor on the New Guinea coast and damaged others.

The Bougainville attacks were against enemy positions in the Empress Augusta bay area.

Bomb Wake 18th Time.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, April 7 (AP).—Army heavy bombers hit Wake Island, 2,300 miles west of here, with 44 tons of bombs Wednesday night, setting off heavy explosions in storage areas and a plane repair base.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced the raid today, the second this week, and also reported strikes the same day by American planes against Ponape, in the Caroline Islands, and four Japanese positions in the Marshalls. No planes were lost.

The attack on Wake was the 18th since that former American island was captured early in the war by a force of Japanese that overpowered a heroic handful of marines.

Sees 19 Ships at Truk.

WITH THE 7TH ARMY AIR FORCE IN THE MARSHALLS, April 4 [Delayed] (AP). — Indications of Japanese reenforcement of Truk were seen today in reports of 7th AAF pilots returning from the seventh straight raid on that enemy base in the central Caroline Islands.

Lt. James E. Byrne, 23, of Aurora, Ill., bombardier on the Nipponese Clipper, said he counted 19 ships in the lagoon where navy carrier planes struck a disastrous blow at Truk. He said it was too dark to discern what type of ships were in the anchorage.

A 'HOT WEATHER' NAVY VANISHES IN ALASKA WATERS

AN ALEUTIAN ISLAND BASE, April 7 (AP).—The establishment of a new 17th naval district setup for the Alaska area marks a departure from the pre-war "hot weather" navy, Rear Adm. F. E. M. Whiting, first commandant, said today. The creation of the district, he added, fixes permanent naval importance on the northern territory just as its military value was recognized when the Alaskan department was established last November.

"Three or four years ago," Adm. Whiting said, "our hot weather navy knew but little about operating this far north. We didn't even have clothing for it, but now I don't think any one can say our men are not adequately provided with cold weather gear."

The commandant said that in the four months he has been in the area navy bases along the Aleutians have advanced thru the building stage to the full operations stage. Adm. Whiting was captain of the battleship Massachusetts when "Big Mamie"—nickname of a new battleship—took part in the North African campaign by bombarding ships and forts at Casablanca, Nov. 8, 1942.

INVASION LOSSES WON'T BE HEAVY; BRADLEY STATES

Calls Opposite Tales 'All Tommyrot.'

WITH AN AMERICAN INFANTRY DIVISION SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 7 (AP).—When the Americans storm Adolf Hitler's ramparts from the west they will not wade into a blood bath but will go "in there punching, backed by massed naval fire and air power."

American infantry officers got this straight from Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the American ground forces, who told them today that assailing the Atlantic wall will be tough and "the greatest show on earth"—but asserted "this stuff about tremendous losses is tommyrot."

"Some of you won't come back," he said, "but it will be very few.

Day and Night Air Protection.

"In the Tunisian campaign we lost only an average of three or four men to 1,000 and certainly seeing a show like this ought to be worth the chance."

Gen. Bradley told the men that they would have air protection day and night and "naval gunfire that will surprise you. I have no fear of its outcome."

The infantrymen were warned that the Germans not only were tough but were likely to "play dirty" and Gen. Bradley urged the men not to trust the Germans. "Sometimes they will come out waving white flags and then open fire on you."

Gen. Bradley called for aggressiveness from the officers, saying "both England and the United States are behind you in this fight and I know lots of people who would give their shirts to be in it."

Allies Have Best Soldiers.

"We have the best soldiers and the best equipment and more of it than the Germans ever dreamed of," he said. "After a few days of it you won't have anything to worry about.

"They say Barnum and Bailey had the greatest show on earth, but that will be only a sideshow compared to the one you will be in.

"Put your men in the right frame of mind. You can't surrender in warfare. Fight it out to the last ammunition. It is much better to do that than to be made prisoner."

FIND BODY IN RIVER.

The body of John Serpitis, 52, a laborer who had been missing from his home at 3825 S. Emerald av., since March 28, was taken from the river at 34th and Iron sts., yesterday.

EVANSTON OFFICER MISSING IN ACTION, MOTHER INFORMED

First Lt. Gordon G. Baker of the army air forces has been reported missing in action, his mother, Mrs. Ethel K. Baker, 913 Monroe st., Evanston, learned recently. Lt. Baker has been overseas since May, and holds the air medal with three oak clusters. He was formerly an Evanston artist. Lt. Baker received his commission in January, 1941, in the coast artillery at Fort Bliss, Tex., and won his wings at Luke field, Ariz., in December, 1942, after a transfer to the army air forces.

Lt. G. G. Baker.

ILLINOISAN SPOTS JAP SHIP; 5 NAVY PLANES SEIZE IT

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—Capture of a 25 foot Japanese motor sailboat by a squadron of five American torpedo bombers was reported by the navy today. The craft was sighted by the planes off Kwajalein while the planes were returning from participation in the invasion of the mid-Pacific Marshall Islands.

One plane, flown by Lt. Andrew C. Lett Jr., 26, of Atlanta, Ga., threatened the craft with guns and four Japanese aboard waved their hands in surrender. Lt. Comdr. Richard Upson of Pensacola, Fla., the squadron leader, sent word of the capture to surface craft and the planes circled over the boat until a destroyer took possession of it.

The sailboat, the navy said, originally was spotted by Donald Jacobs, 25, of Murphysboro, Ill., gunner on Lett's plane. Pilots in the squadron which made the capture included Ensign Owen H. Ramey, 19, R. R. 2, Muncie, Ind.

REDS STRIVING FOR CONTROL OF EUROPE: DARRAH

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Tribune correspondent who has returned to the United States after 16 months' internment in France and Germany.]

Communists, working thru the underground guerrilla bands in France and Serbia and in undercover activities in other countries, are making a powerful effort to control post-war Europe. In France the Communists have been well organized secretly since the collapse in 1940 and have been leaders from the start in the underground opposition to the German occupation. Their money comes from Moscow.

Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz's forces in the Balkans also derive their principal support from Moscow and the Communists. Even neutral countries like Switzerland, Sweden, and Portugal are uneasy at the signs of increasing communist activity not only in the occupied countries against the Germans but also within their own borders.

Fear Civil War.

In these neutral countries the fear is being expressed openly that the liberation of Europe may lead to a political confusion and chaos which will be seized upon by communist organizations. The danger of civil war in France, especially, alarms every one.

In Italy the situation is hardly less dangerous. In northern Italy every week numerous raids on secret communist strongholds uncover caches of arms and indicate the strength of the Italian communist movement. In Spain observers say the civil war is only beginning and that the Communists there are waiting for some movement from the outside to rise against Generalissimo Francisco Franco again.

Hotbed of Communism.

North Africa is a hotbed of communist influence, with the former communist deputy, Marty, and Stalin's Ambassador Bogomolov, who was dismissed from Vichy by Darlan in 1941, playing influential roles in Algiers and influencing the French liberation committee. North Africa is frequently described as a communist bridgehead from which the Red element of the old Popular Front days hopes to move into France and take over again.

Names of many members of the underground arrested and tried in France indicate they are internationalists and Communists rather than French patriots. Italian, Hungarian, Polish, and Rumanian names often figure on the lists of those who are arrested as "terrorists" fighting the occupation, but who are alleged actually to be serving the cause of international communism.

YANK IS FLOWN FROM INDIA TO SEE DYING WIFE

Wooster, O., April 7 (AP).—Tech. Sgt. Paul Waggamon, 27, of near-by Easton is convinced "there's lots of good" in the nation for which he is fighting.

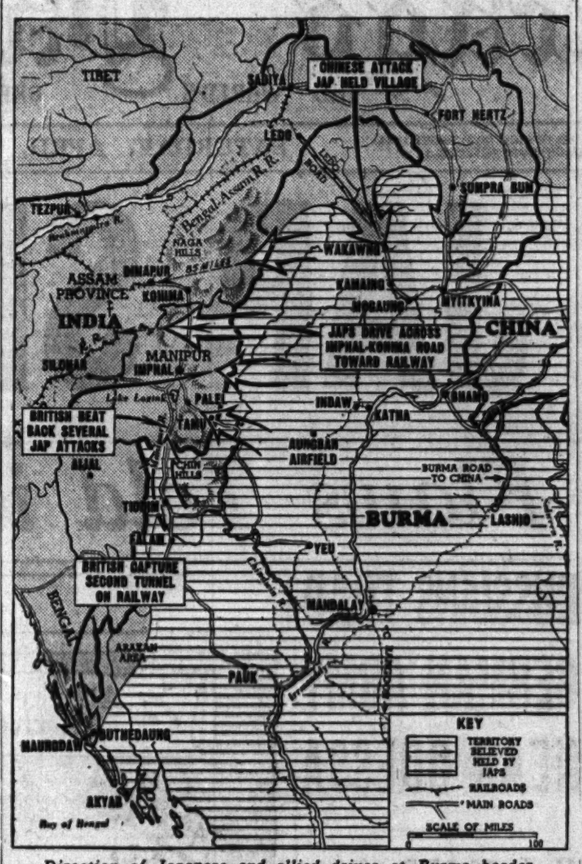
Waggamon was flown here by the army from an American air force base in India, because his wife, Marjorie, 22, is critically ill. Doctors hold little hope for her recovery.

The radio technician spent two hours with Mrs. Waggamon in her hospital room Wednesday—the couple's second wedding anniversary.

"There's lots of good in a country whose army will take the trouble to bring one of its soldiers half way around the world to be with his wife during her last few days on earth," commented the sergeant.

Local Red Cross officials initiated efforts to bring the soldier to his wife's bedside.

Japs Push Nearer Rail Line in India



Direction of Japanese and allied drives at Burma border.

BATTLE JAPS AS THEY CROSS KEY ROAD THRU INDIA

Imphal Highway Cut Near Vital Railway.

NEW DELHI, India, April 7 (AP).—Japanese invasion troops in India have driven west across the Imphal-Kohima highway in the heart of the allied defense zone and are being engaged in the jungles near the Bengal-Assam railway, American operated supply life line for Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's forces in northern Burma, it was announced today.

[A Berlin broadcast of Tokio dispatches said Japanese troops were "menacing" the railroad from an unstated distance. A Tokio dispatch said Jap troops were within six miles of Imphal from the east. Berlin said five powerful Jap columns were closing in on Imphal and that the defenders were rushing in reenforcements from Calcutta and elsewhere, presumably by air.]

Road Blocked Previously.

It had been known since Sunday that the invaders had installed blocks on the 60 mile Imphal-Kohima road, isolating the big allied base at Imphal except by air. Today's war bulletin from Adm. Louis Mountbatten's headquarters gave the first indication that this enemy column had pressed westward.

The vital allied railway line at which the Japanese invasion is aimed primarily is only about 35 miles from the Imphal-Kohima highway at one point. There was no additional news of Japanese forces which several days ago were reported pressing thru the Naga hills north of Kohima toward the railroad.

British and Indian troops defending Imphal against Jap formations pressing in from the east and south at the edge of the Manipur plain threw back several small enemy attacks yesterday, Mountbatten said.

The 17th Indian division, withdrawing up the road from Tiddim to aid in the defense of Imphal, was reported intact with 80 to 90 per cent of its transport saved.

While the Japanese were inching thru the jungles of Assam in their mounting threat to the allied rail lifeline, American heavy bombers and fighters struck a heavy blow at the enemy's new railroad supply line between Thailand and Burma.

Raiders Destroy Three Bridges.

Going in at between 300 and 600 feet, the planes destroyed three bridges and badly damaged five.

Tank-supported British troops on the Arakan front captured the second of two tunnels on the Maungdaw-Buthedaung railway on the lower Burma front and gained toward the central Mayu ridge.

In northern Burma, Stilwell's Chinese forces attacked the Jap-held village of Wakawng, between Shaduzup and Kamang, and Burmese troops fighting for the allies were reported within 45 miles of Myitkyina, main Jap base in that area.

BIG ALLIED DRIVE TO COME BEFORE JULY, SAY JAPS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin's DNB news agency yesterday quoted Japanese imperial headquarters as expecting that "the so-called enemy general offensive will still take place during the first half of this year."

A Tokio dispatch broadcast from Berlin said it is clear that the allies have given up their "former isle-to-isle strategy and in its place are applying jumping tactics." Other reports from Tokio, as intercepted by United States monitors, were:

The Japanese transport ministry is permitting only 300 of Japan's 895 transportation firms to remain in business, "to increase the general efficiency of the nation's transportation set-up."

Closing of two soviet consulates and two Japanese consulates in Russia's nothern Sakhalin Island in expected soon. Russia announced last week the closing of these consulates in connection with the liquidation of Japanese coal and oil concessions at Sakhalin.

Tokio newspapers, coöperating with police, today will publish special editions to test a new plan for distribution of "easily printable" newspapers during air attacks.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In early editions of THE TRIBUNE yesterday, it was erroneously stated that an officer of the OPA had testified that board No. 1 had issued 112,342 extra ration points to Barney Kessel, owner of a steak house, and permitted him to borrow 400,000 red points. The action in Kessel's favor was taken by board No. 27, not by board No. 1.

OHIOAN CLAIMS 27 NAZI PLANES FOR NEW RECORD

Capt. Gentile Surpasses Rickenbacker's Mark.

A U. S. FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND, April 7 (AP).—Capt. Don S. Gentile, 23, a Mustang pilot from Piqua, O., today claimed 27 enemy planes destroyed, of which at least eight were on the ground. If his claim is allowed he will take undisputed leadership among American aces in the European theater of operations.

Capt. Don Gentile.

In World War I., Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker destroyed 26 enemy aircraft, a figure equaled by two marine flyers in this war. In all three cases the records included only aircraft shot down and not grounded planes destroyed.

Officials in Washington, D. C., have reported only planes destroyed in the air in scoring the unofficial "ace" competition, but a public relations officer of the 8th fighter command said planes destroyed on the ground are included in the scores of fighter pilots in the European theater. If such kills were disallowed, the scores of dozens of aces would be affected.

Nazis Won't Fight in the Air.

The officer explained that the practice of crediting pilots with planes destroyed on the ground developed recently when the German air force did not come up to fight and the Americans went down to shoot up its airdromes.

Previously few grounded planes were claimed, but now a plane on the ground is credited to any pilot whose gun camera convinces the assessment board he set it uncontrolably on fire.

Records here show that Marine Majors Joe Foss of Sioux Falls, S. D., and Gregory [Pappy] Boyington of Okanogan, Wash., equaled Rickenbacker's record of 26 in the Pacific. Boyington is missing.

Gets Five on Latest Sweep.

Because of the keen competition in Britain, Gentile was persuaded to enter his latest claim of five planes destroyed on the ground. At first he had claimed only three for himself and shared the other two with his wingman.

Gentile scored his latest victories Wednesday on a sweep over Berlin. Before that trip his 22 total tied him with Capt. Robert S. Johnson of Lawton, Okla., for leadership among aces in this theater.

It is possible but not probable that the five claims will be disallowed. When a master pilot like Gentile claims a plane he almost always receives credit for it.

American pilots contend that it is harder to get enemy planes on the ground than in the air because of the hail of gunfire met in strafing a German air field.

Learned to Fly in Own Plane.

Piqua, O., April 7 (AP).—Capt. Don S. Gentile of Piqua, credited today with having destroyed 27 enemy planes, learned to fly the hard way—with his own plane and over the protest of worried parents.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Gentile of this city, he enlisted in the royal Canadian air force before America entered the war. He got his first taste of military flying at an R. C. A. F. base in California.

5TH ARMY HURLS BACK NAZI STABS AT ITALY LINES

NAPLES, April 7 (AP).—Ground action in Italy subsided to a virtual standstill today after German patrol stabs at the 5th army's beachhead positions about a mile and a half south of Carroceto were thrown back with what were believed to be heavy casualties to the enemy.

A sudden night thrust by several patrols at the allied positions in this sector was covered by heavy mortar fire and coincided with a minor German attack on 5th army positions two miles south of Guardiagrele.

Allied losses were reported light in the Carroceto skirmishes, with allied gunners helping to break up the attack by silencing one German mortar and starting a fire in another enemy gun position.

On the mountainous central front, where Italian troops still hold the heights of Mount Marrone and Castel Nuovo, there were artillery exchanges and active patroling.

Enemy forces holed up in the ruins of the Continental hotel inside Cassino made a tentative thrust outside the building, but were engaged immediately and forced back by allied artillery.

Positions Analyzed

The allied artillery situation on the Anzio beachhead presents the problem of overcoming concentrated enemy firepower from a disadvantageous tactical position.

This can best be understood by assuming that the allies have mounted on the beachhead every gun it can hold and that the enemy has, facing these, the same number of guns of similar range and firepower. The allied artillery is massed in a relatively small arc, while the German is deployed over a larger arc, bearing the same relationship to the former that the rim of a wheel does to the hub.

Obviously, gun for gun, the German fire will be concentrated, the allied shots scattered. Added to this disadvantage are other elements which favor the enemy guns.

First, since the allied positions are constricted within a small area, enemy fire, even when inaccurate, is more likely to do damage than is allied fire against relatively widely separated targets.

Second, the allies are vulnerable to long range fire from enemy batteries deployed far outside the perimeter of allied fire, and against which batteries the allies, supplied and reinforced by sea, cannot expeditiously mass equal or superior strength.

YANKS IN ITALY JOIN IN VARIED EASTER RITES

WITH THE 5TH ARMY, Anzio Beachhead, April 7 (AP).—Allied soldiers at this beachhead below Rome were celebrating the Easter weekend tonight. At the beachhead hospital ward tent, soldiers of the Jewish faith met for Passover services. Protestant doughboys gathered in small groups wherever they were comparatively safe for Good Friday services and Catholics met in an old church for stations of the cross devotions.

One Protestant service was conducted in an old wine shop. British soldiers held high Episcopal services in an old command post abandoned after repeated enemy shelling. Front line troops unable to attend group services were visited by regimental chaplains who often were forced to travel under cover of night in order to reach forward positions without drawing fire.

Chaplain Morrison Kertzer of Iowa City, Ia., who recently arrived at the beachhead, conducted Jewish services marking the Passover.

U. S. FEARS EGG SURPLUS MAY HATCH SCARCITY

What to do with all the eggs coming to market has become a pressing federal problem. Storage facilities are jammed and still the eggs come in and more are expected as the laying season advances.

Only a year ago there was talk of having to ration eggs and of the possibility of a dollar a dozen price in black markets because the government was taking so many. Now the war food administration would like to have every person in the country eat at least one extra egg a week for six weeks or to have every family take an extra dozen at least for the next three weeks.

Why There Is a Surplus.

There are many reasons for the glut:

1. Egg production has been in record volume. Last year hens laid close to 5 billion dozen eggs and predictions have been made that the number will be greater this year.
2. Storage facilities are nearing capacity for various foods, including eggs and dairy products.
3. Man power shortages make it difficult to move all eggs thru regular trade channels and have restricted operations at processing plants, such as those drying eggs for export.
4. Egg cases are getting scarcer and prospects are reported to be poor for getting materials for more.
5. Over-estimates have been made as to egg requirements for lend-lease, freeing supplies for the home markets.

Surplus May Cause Shortage.

WFA spokesmen warned that unless the eggs can be moved off the farms and cash brought to the farmers, the farmers may have to kill off their laying hens. This would cause an egg shortage by late autumn.

Farmers in recent years have been encouraged to increase production of eggs as an essential war food. One means has been purchase of eggs at established prices. The WFA currently has been paying from 30.9 to 35.5 cents a dozen. And retail prices in the Chicago area have ranged from 32 to 49 cents a dozen. At the lower price levels retailers have complained that they were unable to make expenses and so haven't encouraged sales.

Twice as Many as Last Year.

The WFA reported that early in March 1,976,000 cases of shell eggs were in cold storage—more than twice as many as on March 1, 1943, and nearly five times as many as the five year 1939-'43 average for that date.

WFA reported production of eggs in February as about 16 per cent above February, 1943; January production up 17 per cent, and estimated March production more than 5 per cent over last March.

E. R. STETTINIUS IN LONDON FOR POLICY PARLEY

May Pave Way for New 3 Power Talks.

LONDON, April 7 (AP). — United States Undersecretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr. arrived today for a series of important sessions with British officials which are expected to pave the way for another "Big Three" conference.

He told interviewers that the axis' "last desperate hope" of dividing the allies by creating suspicion and distrust had failed signally.

Stettinius declared that "the United States will not relinquish the coöperation and unity which has brought us already so far along the road to victory."

The enemy now has learned "what mighty blows we can strike when our men, our weapons, and our leadership are combined in a common cause," he said.

Brings Staff of Experts.

The suave, white haired undersecretary came with a small, expert staff so constituted it could collect background information for President Roosevelt's use in the event of another conference with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

Speculation that Stettinius is serving as an advance agent for Mr. Roosevelt was supported by the description in some quarters of the coming meetings as broad and exploratory, and by the general opinion that the undersecretary is not authorized to make basic decisions. He will stay two or three weeks.

Supporting these contentions is the fact Stettinius' arrival came at a time of mounting criticism and uncertainty in commons and congress over British-American foreign policy and the degree of coöperation between London and Washington, D. C., and with Moscow.

Confers with Ambassador.

Stettinius immediately plunged into work with a long consultation with John G. Winant, United States ambassador. This was to be followed by discussions with Philip Reed, head of the American mission of economic affairs; Winfield Riefler, chief of the economic warfare section, and R. E. Schoenfeld, American charge d'affaires to allied governments.

Following these will be conferences with Foreign Minister Eden and others.

His talks with Eden and foreign office experts are expected to cover a wide range, including allied efforts to wrest the Balkan satellites from Hitler's grasp, negotiations with Spain and the prospects of Finnish peace.

One major objective of the trip is known to be a review of the European advisory commission's work. There is a possibility the United States is considering a recommendation that the agency's authority be strengthened in an effort to settle any differences between the war partners.

Other Experts in Party.

Dr. Isaiah Bowman, a leading political geographer, who advised Woodrow Wilson at the 1919 peace conference, is in Stettinius' party. Dr. Bowman, president of Johns Hopkins university, is an authority on the fixing of nations' boundaries in relation to the racial and nationalistic essentials of the peoples affected.

Others accompanying Stettinius include H. Freeman Matthews, deputy director of the state department's office of European affairs; Wallace Murray, director of the department's office of near eastern and African affairs; John Lee Pratt, consultant in commercial affairs, and Robert J. Lynch, executive secretary of the mission.

BRITISH PLANES BATTER GERMAN CONVOY IN NORTH

LONDON, April 7 (AP).—Beaufighters of the R. A. F. coastal command battered an enemy convoy off the Norwegian coast today as the allied aerial offensive against the Germans continued after a night attack by speedy Mosquito planes against targets in Hamburg, the Ruhr, and the Rhineland.

Indicating that other allied planes struck deeper against the Nazis, the German radio warned shortly before noon that enemy planes were over northern Germany, and tonight said allied raiders were over northwest Germany.

Beaufighter pilots said a large enemy merchant ship was hit by an aerial torpedo in the attack off Norway and that two of five escort vessels were set on fire. In spite of intense anti-aircraft fire from ship and shore batteries, all of the Beaufighters returned safely.

The stab into the heavily defended German industrial area last night was made at a cost of only one Mosquito, the air ministry said.

Hungarian Puppet Orders Firing of Jewish Workers

New York, April 7 (AP).—The Germans' puppet Hungarian government has decreed the immediate discharge of 50 per cent of Hungary's Jewish workers and ordered "a certain number" of flats owned by Jews made available to bomb victims, German broadcasts said today. The government earlier had ordered Jews to wear distinctive signs and refrain from using public transportation.

Bill to Draft Labor Opposed; Revise Essential Job Lists

Against Force

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 7.—Taking note of mounting fears that the nation is headed for some system of labor conscription, the special house military affairs committee headed by Rep. Costello [D., Cal.] tonight issued a statement emphasizing that it is opposed to the forced drafting of labor to meet the man power shortage.

"The erroneous impression appears to be growing that it is the desire of the special committee investigating deferments to establish some sort of labor conscription thruout the nation," said the statement. "Nothing could be farther from the truth."

"No one desires the drafting of labor to work, neither the army, navy, nor our own committee. Yet every one is anxious to see to it that every person in this country serves the nation in the way in which he is best suited to do so in keeping with his ability."

May Not Ask Legislation.

This objective can be met, Costello said, "on a purely voluntary basis." He expressed confidence that the necessary man power to meet shortages existing in certain areas can be found with the coöperation of citizens without resorting to legislation.

Since the military affairs committee is the group entrusted with the drafting of legislation to solve the man power shortage, the statement was regarded as significant. Two days ago, the committee called upon man power officials to put new pressure on 4-F registrants to get into essential war work.

"It is only because there may be a very limited number of persons qualified for employment in support of the war effort who may be so thoughtless, ungrateful, and recalcitrant as to refuse to obtain war supporting employment, that some special type of service, subject to military control, may be required in order to prevent such persons from impeding the progress of our war production," today's statement continued.

Drafting Law for Few.

"For these few persons we are endeavoring to draft the legislation necessary to provide effective cooperation from them. For the vast majority, it is quite evident that a voluntary program will prove highly successful."

The committee detailed steps already taken, including the request for lists indicating the type of work which is desired from persons not qualified for military service, types of work which will justify the deferment of 4-F registrants, lists of the man power shortage areas, and the specific needs of particular plants within such areas.

In addition, selective service has begun the reprocessing of those in the 4-F class between the ages of 18 and 26 in order to obtain definite figures on the number of persons being employed industrially but who are not considered as aiding the war effort in their present employment.

"Should there still be need for additional workers, it is our intention that those over 26 years of age shall likewise be processed until the man power shortages have been effectively eliminated," the statement concluded.

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—Following is the latest version of the list of 35 essential activities in which Man Power Chairman McNutt and Draft Director Hershey urged 4-F's to seek employment as announced by the war man power commission today:

McNutt and Hershey in their statement called on all 4-F's to consult with their local United States employment service offices for further instruction in finding essential jobs.

Rebel Iraq Premier Back in Bagdad as Prisoner

LONDON, April 7 (AP).—A Reuters [British news agency] dispatch from Bagdad today said that former Premier Rashid Ali al Gailani of Iraq, who led a brief fight against the British in the spring of 1941 and later fled to Germany, had been brought back a prisoner to Bagdad with 19 of his colleagues.

[The ex-premier, who was sentenced to death in absentia by an Iraqui military court in January, 1942, was last reported in Italy, where he presumably fell into allied hands.]

WORLD AVIATION POLICY URGED IN LONDON PARLEY

LONDON, April 8 [Saturday] (AP). —Concluding a four day discussion of post-war civil aviation, representatives of the United States and Great Britain announced early today that the two governments had "agreed that international control should govern a considerable field of technical matters."

The meetings were attended by Adolf A. Berle Jr., assistant United States secretary of state; Dr. Edward Warner, vice chairman of the United States civil aeronautics board; Lord Privy Seal Beaverbrook, and technical advisers. They produced enough agreement to "justify the expectation that final dispositions can be reached at an international conference," a statement concerning the meeting said.

"They [the delegates] have in mind that the government of the soviet union and other governments would likewise enter into conversations prior to such an international conference," the announcement added.

Coincides with U. S. Parley.

While the meetings were in progress here Russian representatives met in Washington, D. C., with Joseph C. Grew, special assistant to the secretary of state; L. Welch Pogue, chairman of the civil aeronautics board, and W. A. M. Burden, assistant secretary of commerce for air, for talks of similar scope affecting nations which operated international air services before the war and are planning to pick up again.

The statement on the meeting here explained:

"The representatives have consulted together in preparation for an international conference on civil aviation. They made arrangements for continuing technical conversations for the purpose of reaching a detailed agreement on several aspects of this field."

Canada Not Represented.

The first talks on the international aspects of civilian aviation began last October when representatives of the dominions and India met Beaverbrook and other British representatives in a London conference at which unanimous decisions were reached.

Altho Canada and other portions of the British empire were not represented at the Berle-Beaverbrook conferences, Canada was kept fully informed of developments.

The talks here likely are the first of a series of similar preliminary discussions and the conclusion that a successful international conference is possible is regarded as a big stride toward world-wide planning of the future of air transport.

OPA PUTS PRICE PEAK ON USED PARTS FOR CARS

The office of price administration said yesterday it had placed price ceilings on used automobile and truck repair parts, based on list prices of new parts and assemblies. Used parts, the announcement said, other than motors, will sell for 75 per cent of list if useable without rebuilding, but at 30 per cent of list if they must be rebuilt. Rebuilt parts may sell at 75 per cent of new parts prices when bought direct by user from rebuilder, or at 85 per cent of list when bought by the user from wholesalers or retailers.

DRAFT OFFICIALS TOLD TO GO EASY ON MEN OVER 29

Advised to Place Men Into 3 Brackets.

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—Men of draft age were divided into three age groups today and local boards were instructed to go easier on the men in the 30 to 38 bracket, following out a policy laid down by Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey in a speech last Tuesday.

The 6,400 local boards got their latest instructions on job deferments in a memorandum sent by mail.

Altho dependency as a test for deferment has long since yielded to job essentiality and age, the boards were told that pre-war fathers 26 and over, in cases where all other factors are equal, will normally be accorded job deferments in preference to childless men.

Thirtyish Men Not "Immune."

Draft officials, commenting on this provision, said cases where all other factors are exactly equal may be few and far between. They also cautioned against the impression that men in their thirties were to be almost "immune" from the draft. Such an impression is completely false and misleading, they said. The older a man in his thirties is, the greater the chance for a job deferment, provided his job is important to the war. Age alone will not keep him in civilian clothes.

The three age brackets and how draft boards will consider them:

Age 18 thru 25—Whether fathers or not, these men get no job deferments unless they are indorsed as key men by a state draft director or unless they are in farming, merchant marine, or army transport corps. Former regulations also excepted certain technical students, but the new order forces all students to take their chances of being individually indorsed by a state director.

Strict Deferment Requirements.

Age 26 thru 29—Job deferments permitted for "necessary men" in war production or in support of the war, but this requirement will be "strictly applied." Fathers have the edge on childless men, other things being equal.

Age 30 and over—The "necessary man" requirement "will be applied less strictly with the increased age of the registrant." Other things being equal, fathers will be given more liberal consideration than childless men or fathers 26 thru 29.

UP POPS ELMER, TO PUT BARNEY ON STEAK GRILL!

A militant man named Elmer put in an appearance yesterday before officials of the office of price administration, and thereby brought about a scheduled reopening of the meaty case of the OPA vs. Barney Kessel.

Kessel is owner of Barney's Market club, 741 W. Randolph st., which for years specialized in steak dinners, doing an estimated business of $4,000 a day. With the advent of rationing, Barney's business boomed. In fact, it boomed so much that the OPA charged that the restaurant was 1,000,000 red points in the red; that is to say, Barney's had sold thousands of steaks more than its ration allowance.

Restaurant Is Suspended.

The result was an order Thursday by John F. Manierre, OPA hearing commissioner, suspending the restaurant from dealing in rationed commodities for from four to six months. It was during this hearing that Elmer was first projected.

Kessel testified that the alleged red point arrearage was due largely to bookkeeping errors. He had no idea of the point shortage until Feb. 28, he said. Then he discovered that his bookkeeper had made an error of 351,000 points in his bank ration point account. Naturally, Barney said, he upbraided the bookkeeper, and the bookkeeper quit, and went to Georgia. The bookkeeper, Kessel said, was—Elmer. His full name, he thought was Elmer Gruman.

Elmer Resents Aspersions.

After that the OPA suspended Kessel's rationed commodities, and the matter seemed closed, but yesterday up popped Elmer—Elmer Grummon, to be correct. He's 51, and lives at 4901 Broadway. At present he's a night auditor at the Ambassador hotel.

Elmer called on Eugene Devitt, OPA attorney, denied he was in Georgia, and said he resented Kessel's statement about the bookkeeping error of 351,000 points. "Such things cast aspersions on my ability and are a threat to my job," he said.

Elmer demanded an appearance before OPA Commissioner Manierre to straighten the record.

Atty. Devitt and Homer Clay, OPA chief enforcement attorney, took him before Manierre. Kessel's lawyer, John F. Cusack, also appeared. A reopening of the case to hear Elmer's story was asked by the OPA lawyers, and opposed as a "picayunish tactic" by Cusak. Manierre upheld the OPA lawyers, and ordered the case reopened at 1:30 p. m. Monday. At that time Elmer will tell his story.

PLANE TERMINAL ON LAKE FRONT MOST FEASIBLE

Near Loop and Capable of Big Expansion.

BY FRANK STURDY.

Because it would be a great saver of time and travel and could be expanded to any size made necessary by aviation development, the proposed island airport on the lake front is superior to any other site under consideration for location of the major air terminal with which Chicago will make its bid for future air travel.

The lake shore is developed as a park for miles both north and south of the loop. This location, coupled with the recreational features every modern air terminal is expected to attract, offers the city an almost unique opportunity to build an airport that would be both a monument to transportation and a commercial asset of great worth.

Like Island Plan.

Air lines officials find many attractions in the island plan, appreciating its travel convenience and possibilities, the pattern of which already has been established at certain world famous European air terminals, and approached at La Guardia airport in New York.

Since the idea of an island airport was conceived years ago airplanes have increased in size and multiplied so rapidly that the terminal now required to satisfy the indicated long range needs of the air lines must be several times the size of the one first planned.

As the dimensions demanded have increased, cost estimates have risen —the chief stumbling block to the project. Air lines representatives agree on their inability to meet the whole cost of a big lake front airport, and in their fear that they may be burdened with it in the future.

Cost Estimates Vary.

Only the roughest of cost estimates for a 2,500 acre island have been made by the Chicago Plan commission, and these vary from 105 million to 150 million dollars, with differing plans of construction. That area is the same size as contemplated in the alternate sites among which the air lines are soon to make a choice and includes the cost of an express causeway to the shore.

The spot proposed for the island lies about two miles off shore on the line of 39th st. It was chosen as the one permitting construction closest to shore, with allowance for distance from high buildings meeting the standards of the civil aeronautics administration and the safety requirements of the air lines.

Distances Are Compared.

Distance and travel time to the island area, compared with distance and travel time to the alternate locations by both present streets and projected expressways, is shown in the following table:

	Existing Routes		Expressways
	Miles.	Time.	Miles.	Time.
Lake front	..	..	5.9	10.8
Present airport	11.6	36	11.9	20.4
Douglas	20.4	41	17.4	27.4
Clearing	14.5	42	15.8	25.4
Lake Calumet	14.5	31	15.3	24.1

A share of expressway costs must be included in cost calculations for the land sites for fair comparison with the lake front site, which, because of the short distance and excellent roadways in Burnham park, is not penalized by land paving expense. Cost estimates for the other sites and their satellite expressways:

	Airport.	Expressway.
Present	$50,000,000	$21,000,000
Douglas	25,000,000	46,000,000
Clearing	20,000,000	21,000,000
Lake Calumet	20,000,000	.....

May Need Legislation.

In the case of the Calumet site, additional expense would be involved in removing industrial stack and other obstruction and in controling smoke. Also, the site was obtained by the city from the state under an agreement preserving certain navigation rights, and it is probable legislation would be needed for legal clearance.

All these plans are for runways and navigation facilities capable of accommodating planes of any size deemed probable for 10 or 20 years. Eventually, if Chicago is to have an appropriate share in intercontinental air travel and serve as a primary starting point for great circle routes to Europe, Asia, Africa, and South America, preparations must be made for runways of 10,000 feet to take airplanes of 125,000 pounds or more.

Agree on Single Airport.

Air line engineers virtually agree that all scheduled carriers, domestic and foreign, should operate from one airport on the theory that every plane will have passengers, mail, or cargo to connect with another. Operations scattered among several airports would mean loss of time in transferring from one to the other.

Charles I. Stanton, civil aeronautics administrator, of Washington, D. C., explained a different theory in a recent interview. A land airport distant from the city, he said, might be adopted to serve transcontinental and intercontinental travelers whose trips would be of such length that some time lost in travel to the loop would be of no critical importance.

Time a Vital Factor.

There will be available in an area of 500 miles around Chicago, however, an enormous population which Chicago might attract, Stanton said. These travelers will reach Chicago in flight time of two and one-half hours or less, and time to the business district will be vital to them.

Such short haul traffic might well be served, he said, by a lake front airport subsidiary to, and smaller than, the major terminal. Such an airport would be a tremendous attraction as well to the civilian pilots of which there will be hundreds of thousands. It might be built at much less expense than the super-island, and closer to shore.

[The final article in this series will discuss the possibilities of shuttle plane taxis to transfer passengers from the loop to a distant major air terminal.]

'SABOTAGE LIST' NOTE IS TRACED TO BOY BY FBI

Fifteen Chicago war plants were placed under guard early yesterday morning following the discovery of a list marking them for sabotage. The details were withdrawn later in the day when federal bureau of investigation agents traced a note to George Malone, 14, pupil at the Quigley Preparatory seminary, whose mother described him as "a boy with a highly imaginative mind who had seen too many spy shows recently."

The note was discovered in a book taken from a branch of the Chicago public library by Robert J. Blake of 6423 N. Leavitt st. Printed on a slip of paper was a list of the factories with the notation, "These factories are marked for sabotage." Beneath was a Nazi swastika and the inscription "Okay, W. J. D."

Blake notified the Rogers Park police who then turned the matter over to the FBI. Yesterday morning agents visited the library and learned the names of persons to whom the book had been issued. They found the boy ill in bed in his home at 2208 Thome av. He readily confessed the prank, police said.

62 DIE AS GALE WRECKS SHIP IN SIGHT OF SAFETY

LONDON, April 7 (AP).—Two battered young American sailors today told how officers and men prayed and joked and fought a losing battle for their lives while a gale and heavy seas splintered their Liberty ship on rocks within sight of safety and sent it to the bottom.

When the terrible ordeal was over, only a dozen men survived; 62 went down in the storm. Thirty-nine of a merchant crew of 44, including all but one officer, were lost in the seven hour battle. Of a navy gun crew of 30 men, 23 were lost.

Now almost recovered in a hospital, Henry C. Donnelly Jr., 19, of Stratford, Conn., a member of the gun crew, told of dragging himself onto rocks after an hour and a half in icy water. He was knocked out twice by debris and his legs were frozen. Another gun crew member, John E. Foy, 17, of Troy, N. Y., said he was hurled under water, knocked unconscious and finally had an eye "split wide open" before he reached land.

5,000 HUNGARIANS JOIN PARTISANS, RUSSIA REPORTS

LONDON, April 8 [Saturday]—(AP).—The Moscow radio reported early today that 5,000 Hungarians had gone over to the Jugo-Slav Partisans of Marshal Tito [Josip Broz] with enough arms to equip half a division.

The broadcast, recorded by the soviet monitor, added that a battalion of Slovenes with first class arms had left Gen. Mihailovitch's Chetniks and joined Tito recently.

The Partisans themselves, in a broadcast war bulletin, said they recaptured a town and inflicted "heavy losses in men and material" on the Germans. The bulletin said that violent fighting was being waged in western Serbia and that Partisan units reached the river Drava at Podravska-Slatina.

Mark Anniversary

Two years ago they gave their sons, husbands, brothers, and sweethearts. Yesterday, they gave their blood.

In observance of the second anniversary tomorrow of the fall of Bataan to the Japanese on April 9, 1942, 50 members of the American Bataan clan of Maywood gave blood at the Red Cross blood donor center, 5 N. Wabash av. One hundred fifty other member will make donations today and Monday.

The Maywood clan is composed of the families, friends, and sweethearts of men in company B, 192d tank battalion, an outfit including many Maywood and west suburban residents which fought in the Philippines. Of the group, 20 per cent are known to be dead; 30 per cent are reported missing, and the remaining 50 per cent are believed prisoners of the Japanese.

Among yesterday's donors was A. C. McArthur, clan president, whose son, Sgt. Albert C., died in the Philippines last June. Others included Mrs. Roy Vandenbroucke, clan treasurer, and Rose Vertuno, daughter of the secretary, Mrs. William Vertuno. The chairman in charge of the clan donors is William E. Burns, 808 S. 9th av., Maywood.

CRITIC WHO QUIT CALLED LIAR BY SOVIET EMBASSY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 7.—Puzzled state department officials tonight were studying the status of Victor A. Kravchenko, Russian government employe, who accused his country of double dealing with the allies. Kravchenko was branded a "liar" and army "deserter" by the Red embassy today.

The embassy issued a statement taking cognizance for the first time, officially, of Kravchenko's resignation from an official position with the soviet purchasing commission.

Kravchenko has been in the United States since August, 1943, when he took a post with the commission. Last Tuesday he announced he was resigning as chief of the metals division of the commission because he could no longer support "maneuvers directed at one and the same time toward collaboration with the United States and Britain while pursuing aims incompatible with such collaboration."

Asks Public Protection.

The Russian said he was throwing himself on "the protection of American public opinion."

In its statement today, the soviet embassy asserted that Kravchenko's resignation made him a deserter because he was under orders to return to Russia for military service. Further, the embassy stated Kravchenko was serving as an inspector, not as chief of the metals division of the purchasing commission, and therefore was a "liar."

A soviet embassy official told THE TRIBUNE that the state department was being advised of Kravchenko's status, but the official would not elaborate on his statement. At the state department it was asserted that no report on the matter had been received from the soviet embassy but that the matter was being studied.

Lack Deserter Pact.

One of the aspects of the case is that there is no agreement between the United States and Russia for the return of military deserters, according to state department officials. Consequently, Kravchenko can be considered only as a diplomatic official who has been repudiated by his own government. No one at the state department would attempt to guess what could be done with Kravchenko or what action, if any, soviet officials would request.

The justice department's immigration service has no interest in the matter, an official said, because Kravchenko entered the country on a diplomatic passport and thus is under state department surveillance.

Challenge 'Vicarship' of the Pope

Cites Biblical Texts

Metropolitan Sergei.

MOSCOW, April 7 (AP).—Metropolitan Sergei of Moscow, the patriarch of all Russia, challenged the position of the pope today as vicar of Christ.

In an article entitled "Is there a vicar of Christ on earth?" published in the Journal of Moscow, the head of the Russian orthodox church cited biblical texts to reach a conclusion in the negative.

Recalling Christ's farewell address to the apostles, "I am with you always, even unto the end of the world" [St. Matthew 28:20], the patriarch said this meant that, altho Jesus had physically abandoned the earth, He never spiritually abandoned the church.

The patriarch's article, reaffirming the traditional principles of the orthodox church, opposed squarely the conception of the authority of the pope as Christ's vicar.

[Sergei, 76, was elected patriarch of Moscow and all Russia last September. A week later the Russian church gave its blessing to soviet rule.]

"Repudiate Claim"

Archbishop Garbett.

New York, April 7 (AP).—The archbishop of York said today the Church of England is more in agreement with the Russian Orthodox church than with the Catholic.

Both the Church of England and the Russian Orthodox church, he said in a press conference, "repudiate the claim of the pope of Rome" as vicar of Christ.

The archbishop—the Most Reverend Right Honorable Cyril Forster Garbett, primate of England—is visiting this country as the guest of Presiding Bishop Henry St. George Tucker of the Protestant Episcopal church.

The visitor expressed his views on the pope issue in reply to a question concerning an article by Metropolitan Sergei of Moscow, patriarch of all Russia, in the Journal of Moscow, in which the head of the Russian Orthodox church challenged the pope's position as vicar of Christ.

The English churchman will go to Chicago April 27 for a two day visit.

Following is the final tabulation of 9,319 ballots by East:

	1st choice.	2d choice.	3d choice.	Vice Pres.
Dewey	5,038	1,685	510	194
MacArthur	1,453	1,286	708	160
Bricker	1,051	1,302	921	388
Willkie	985	243	307	112

Warren	104	247	242	393

"A certified copy of these results will be given to the two delegates to the national convention from this district," East said. "We believe that this comprehensive canvass, made thru our precinct captains and thru the mail, will lift the Republican primary vote in this ward above that cast in any other ward of Chicago."

LAKE SHIPS RAM THRU SOLID ICE FOR 7 MILE GAIN

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 7 (AP).—Great lakes freighters, ramming thru solid ice 18 to 21 inches thick, were approaching the open water of Whitefish bay late today.

The Colonel James Pickands of the Pickands Mather fleet, leading the vessels in opening a path in the upper St. Mary's river, had advanced seven miles—from Birch Point, where the vessels first were caught in the ice field, to a position abreast Point Iroquois.

Thirty-eight freighters were in the St. Mary's river waiting for a channel to be opened into Whitefish bay, which coast guard officials described as "mostly open water," so they could proceed to Lake Superior ports.

NINE SEEK THREE CICERO SCHOOL OFFICES TODAY

Cicero will hold its school election today with the financial condition of district 99, which the Cicero education council has charged is insolvent, as the main issue.

Three trustees are to be elected. Of the nine candidates the council is sponsoring three, Joseph F. Novy, an executive of Steele-Wedeles company; Julian Kosinski, a defense worker, and Edward A. Mulas, an accounting executive at the Western Electric company. Frank J. Novak, running for reelection, is given first place on the ballot by courtesy. The five others are Charles Vesely, Joseph Chaloupka, Charles J. Ulrich, Alfred E. Petracek, and George Hudetz.

In a pamphlet circulated yesterday the council charged the present board with having exhausted its $440,000 working cash fund, overdrawn the school treasury $17,000, accumulated between $50,000 and $100,000 in unpaid bills and having had to borrow $84,000 to pay teachers for March and April.

KAISER CLUBS PLAN TO SELL HIM TO G. O. P.

How to groom a dark horse was discussed yesterday by representatives of 27 Henry J. Kaiser for President clubs. The leaders were called here for instructions as to the best way of familiarizing Republican convention delegates with qualifications of Kaiser, ship builder now turning out a 10,000 ton freighter every 12 hours.

No bid is being made for delegates at present, altho Vandorf Gray, Chicago lawyer who is national club chairman, is an independent candidate for delegate. A spokesman said the delegates might turn to Kaiser in a deadlock, if they knew his record.

The movement was organized in January by a group of Kaiser's friends, who are paying all expenses. They report 36 clubs in 27 states.

BRITISH ISSUES HURT WILLKIE, TORONTO VIEW

Triumph for Old Guard, Says Globe and Mail.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 7.—The Toronto Globe and Mail, most widely circulated Canadian morning newspaper, declared editorially today that Wendell Willkie's "pleas for coöperative help to Britain undoubtedly hurt his chances for the Republican nomination."

"Mr. Willkie's forthright advocacy of even higher taxation than the Roosevelt administration proposed probably alienated many Republican voters," the editorial said. "But, while Wisconsin from one aspect ought to have been favorable fighting ground for him, it was unfavorable from another aspect because the large German element in the state remains infected with isolationism, and must have resented Willkie's vigorous championship of support for Britain.

Held Triumph for Old Guard.

"But, whatever were the causes of his fatal defeat, his elimination represents a triumph for the old guard of the Republican party and its machine. Most of them regard him as an interloper who broke rules by capturing the party's nomination in 1940 in face of their opposition. . . . The Republican machine has suppressed him for the moment, but it is hard to believe that a politician of his colorful personality, his obvious talents for politics, and his courageous vigor has not some useful role to play in the public life of the United States."

The Ottawa Citizen, leading newspaper in the Canadian capital, said: "Wisconsin is relatively a progressive state in American party politics. Wendell Willkie has been regarded as the leader of progressive forces in the Republican party. It can hardly be because he is too progressive that he has failed to win Republican support in Wisconsin. But conservatives in the Republican party ganged up to 'stop Willkie.' They seem to have succeeded."

Believes Influence Will Stay.

The Montreal Gazette said: "Wendell Willkie's withdrawal as a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination will be deeply regretted in all countries allied with the United States in the prosecution of the war. For more than four years he has ably stated the liberal cause for the Republican party, lately fallen on evil days, but whose historic traditions and past achievements cannot be despised. And he has striven with noble purposes to lead it to higher and surer ground."

Calling Willkie's withdrawal "a great loss" the Toronto Star comments: "A great and liberal minded Republican, a warm friend of the allied cause, and incidentally a particular friend of Canada, has withdrawn from the Presidential contest in the United States. It is not necessary to share Mr. Wendell Willkie's unfavorable opinion of the Roosevelt administration in order to regret his retirement as President Roosevelt's opponent if the latter seeks a fourth term."

Dewey Worries London Daily.

LONDON, April 8 [Saturday]—(AP).—The London News-Chronicle declared in an editorial today that if Gov. Dewey of New York becomes the Republican Presidential nominee "the world may be kept completely in the dark about America's foreign policy until after the election, and this unhappy state of things will only be avoided if Mr. Hull [secretary of state] succeeds in getting the Republicans to take foreign affairs out of politics." If America elects a President and congress of isolationist sympathies, the bottom will drop out of the allies' post-war plans, the paper said. It added:

"Mr. Willkie is an internationalist. Had the fight been between him and Roosevelt, there would have been little to choose between them from the standpoint of world policy."

LAWYER GROUP BACKS COURTNEY FOR GOVERNOR

The candidacy of State's Atty. Courtney, unopposed Democratic candidate for governor, was indorsed yesterday by the newly formed Independent Courtney for Governor Lawyers' committee. Membership included five former presidents of the Chicago Bar association, and Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court and present bar association head.

Bar association past presidents on the committee are John D. Black, Charles P. Megan, William H. King Jr., Hayes McKinney, and Francis X. Busch. Other committee members are Walter Bachrach, James H. Winston, Edmund D. Adcock, John Neal Campbell, James A. Sprowl, Thomas R. Mulroy, Alexander F. Reichmann, Thomas J. Condon, Angus Roy Shannon, and Stephen J. Love.

Ralph M. Snyder, chairman of the nucleus committee, said in a letter to Courtney: "Your record of uncompromising honesty, efficiency, economy, and fearless independence during the last 11 years as state's attorney is a guarantee of a sound and honest administration as governor of Illinois."

THE QUESTION.

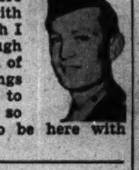
What kind of wishful thinking are you indulging in?

WHERE ASKED.

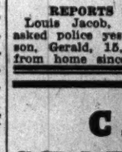
Service Men's center, 176 W. Washington st.

THE ANSWERS.

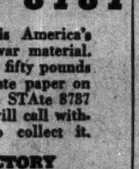
Burton E. Lanski, sergeant, Shoreland apartment hotel—Just a little while ago I was thinking how wonderful it would be if I were on my way home from my office and my lovely wife and kids were waiting for me. But that's not very probable because, to begin with, I don't have an office or a wife or a family.



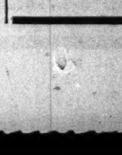
Herb Keough, coxswain, United States coast guard, Cleveland Heights, O. — Maybe I'm a bit pessimistic to call it wishful thinking but now that winter has been with us so long I wish spring would get here. We will be doing lots of outdoor work and I was thinking it would be nice with tulips blooming all around.



Loren White, motor machinist's mate, 2d class, Chagrin Falls, O.—Now that I've been around some real coast guard atmosphere, I can't wait until I get into more of it. Everytime I read about what they're doing out in the Pacific I wish I was right there to help them. That's one wish I'm sure will be granted when the time comes.



Harold Liggett, yeoman 2d class, 1135 Lunt av.—A good friend of mine and I always used to have so much fun planning our vacations together. Whenever I daydream now I find myself making more plans for good and carefree times like that and then I am startled out of the dream when I see myself in uniform.



William Morgan, private, marine corps, 1600 Jonquil ter.—I just returned from Guadalcanal and was thinking what a lucky break it would be for me if I were to be stationed at Great Lakes. Then I could be near my wife and three children and that would be pretty wonderful after being away from them for so long.

Wallace Tjomsland, private, Los Angeles, Cal.—First of all I wish my girl friend from my home town were here in Chicago with me. And then I wish I could spend enough time here to see all of the interesting things that the city has to offer. It would be so much more fun to be here with some one I knew.

FBI SCANS VOTE FRAUD CHARGES IN 25TH WARD

Allman Promises to Halt Terrorists.

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday took notice of the threatening situation in the 25th ward, where the federal bureau of investigation and state police already were working on complaints of registration forgery and intimidation made by William Parrillo, member of the state commerce commission, who is seeking reelection as Republican ward committeeman.

Allman said he had received a letter from Parrillo asking protection next Tuesday, primary day, when committeemen are elected. The commissioner said he would send special squads into the ward and "take whatever steps are necessary to maintain order."

FBI Quizzes Half Dozen.

Spencer Drayton, head of the FBI office in Chicago, was reported yesterday to have half a dozen persons under questioning in continuance of the inquiry he began at the request of the election commissioners 10 days ago when it was found that some 400 mailed changes of residence notices affecting 25th ward voters and about 500 in the names of 29th ward residents were forgeries.

Drayton is acting under a federal statute which covers fraudulent attempts to deprive a citizen of his right to vote.

William Plath, postal inspector in charge in Chicago, also is taking part in the investigation.

Booked on Gun Count.

Parrillo, an appointee of Gov. Green to the commerce commission, is opposed for committeeman by Andrew Flando, a former precinct captain in the ward. The charge that Parrillo is menaced by former Capone hoodlums was made in Criminal court Thursday when Anthony Catena, 1036 S. Oakley av., a Parrillo campaign worker, was arraigned on a charge of carrying a revolver.

Atty. William B. Crawford, defending Catena, said that Anthony [Mops] Volpe and James Belcastro, both of whom the Chicago crime commission listed as "public enemies," were active in the ward against Parrillo. Judge Harold G. Ward ordered Catena booked, to appear in South State street court Monday.

State police have guarded Parrillo's home, 732 S. Oakley av., since Monday, when he reported three cars loaded with hoodlums stopped there and he was warned to quit the race. Twenty of Parrillo's precinct captains are reported to be in hotels under protection of bodyguards. For one night they stayed in a hospital, according to reports.

SCHOOL FIGHT AT ISSUE TODAY IN WAUKEGAN

The hottest Waukegan township school board fight in many years will be decided at the polls today, with the tenure in office of John W. Thalman, superintendent of the township high school for 20 years, at stake. Polls will open at noon and close at 7 p. m. in Waukegan and North Chicago.

Two complete slates of candidates, one pledged to remove Thalman and the other friendly to him, are contesting for the presidency and five of the 15 board places to be filled. The "new order group" headed by Atty. Minard E. Hulse, incumbent president, is opposed to Thalman and if elected is expected to install new rules that would provide for retirement of all executives 65 years old. Thalman is 65.

On the "Independent group" headed by V. Joseph Hultman, finance company manager and candidate for the board presidency, are two incumbent board members, James C. O'Shea, music store owner, and Joseph J. Nemanich, an undertaker. The tickets are not listed by groups on the ballot, but both sides have printed sample ballots to guide the voters. Those elected today will take office Monday night.

WILLKIE NEVER WAS ANY GOOD TO G. O. P.: WEIR

Asserts His Egotism Brought Defeat.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 7 [Special]. — Declaring that Wendell Willkie "never was a good Republican," Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the Republican national finance committee in 1940, today blamed the former G. O. P. standard bearer's Wisconsin defeat on two major courses.

One was Willkie's "individualism and egotism" and continued "reflections on the good intentions" of the party, and second, his "extreme internationalism."

"I had a lot of experience with Mr. Willkie in the 1940 campaign," said Weir, who also is chairman of the National Steel corporation. "Even then he was so opinionated that he paid very little attention to the ideas of others. As a result, there never was a good campaign organization.

Shirked Party Responsibilities.

"Following the election he naturally, by precedent, was the titular head of the Republican party. He had that responsibility. He never accepted it. He never devoted any time to the Republican party or indicated any interest in it, so the party was left at that time without any leadership.

"Always he has been critical of the party and of other leaders whose opinion didn't coincide with his, and he never hesitated to express those opinions.

"The result of all this was that the substantial Republicans all over the country who had been active in supporting him in 1940 have been definitely against him in this Presidential campaign of his, for the reason that they did not consider him a good Republican.

Always Believes Own Opinion.

"The man is so much of a strict individualist and so egotistical that he always believes his opinions are the right opinions.

"Take his statement of withdrawal. He still insists the party must nominate a candidate who believes in the principles he has been spreading. Still, in his mind, the Republican party has got to go along with what 'I' think. Still that egotism of opinion after this terrible defeat."

Weir, who resigned the party finance chairmanship in 1941, said he was "not committed to any one" in the present campaign.

HAIL HOUSEWIFE FOR RESPONSE TO ELECTION CALL

Housewives have saved the day for the board of election commissioners, Chief Clerk John S. Rusch said yesterday, by replacing most of the several thousand regular polls judges and clerks now in war work.

Eighty per cent of those who volunteered in response to the board's advertisment for help at next Tuesday's primaries are housewives, said Rusch. The board made an appeal to patriotism and so few of the applicants asked about the pay, which is $8 for the day and $16 in precincts casting more than 300 votes, that Rusch credits them all with the motive of public service.

About 1,200 vacancies still existed yesterday, but Rusch said he was confident they would be filled in time. Citizens willing to serve are asked to telephone Dearborn 3050.

VOLUNTEER POLL GUARDS LEARN TO STOP FRAUD

Volunteer observers who will watch the polling places Tuesday attended a school of instruction yesterday at which they were told to watch particularly for switches in parties and illegal assistance.

The school was conducted by the joint civic committee, whose spokesmen said close watch would be kept in the 1st and 25th wards, where gangsters are reported active in the campaign for Republican ward committee man, and in the 42d, where there is another tight contest for Republican committee man.

The watchers were warned against attempts by voters to get the party ticket to which they are not entitled.

HARD JOB AHEAD FOR KENTUCKY'S G. O. P. GOVERNOR

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Frankfort, Ky., April 7.—The outer office of Gov. Simeon S. Willis is crowded with state legislators and other local politicians. Elected last December as the first Republican to win this office since 1927 and the sixth in the history of the state, Willis is faced with the following problems:

Gov. Simeon S. Willis.

1. The general assembly, with Democrats in the majority, failed to pass essential appropriations, and a special session must be called.

2. The Republican party within the state, revitalized by the prospect of a national victory in November, must be organized before the April 25 convention to select delegates to the national G. O. P. convention in Chicago in June.

Shows Great Stamina.

Willis, over 6 feet tall and broad shouldered, sees all visitors, if they wait long enough. Of good American stock descended from patriots who fought in the Revolutionary and the Civil wars, he has stamina at 64.

In a newspaper interview Willis declined to discuss national politics. His Republicanism is a handicap in his relations with a balky state legislature, so it was from his visitors during two hours in his outer office, that we learned the following items being carried to the statehouse.

1. There is an excellent chance that Kentucky, which gave a five to four majority to President Roosevelt over Willkie in 1940, will be carried by the G. O. P. in November altho the Democrats are trying to wreck the state's finances to prevent Republican organization.

2. The G. O. P. delegation to the Chicago convention is likely to vote for Willis for President on the first ballot. After the first ballot, its vote is unpredictable at this time.

Strengthened by Willkie Step.

3. The Republican party has been strengthened by Willkie's withdrawal.

4. Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader in the United States senate, strengthened his own political fences and also the Democratic party in Kentucky by his declaration of congressional independence in the tax bill veto episode. However, he weakened Roosevelt personally in the state.

This border state, torn by politics since the Civil war, is still that way. Lambs and colts play in fresh bluegrass on the hillsides, and the jonquils, cherries, dogwoods, and magnolias are blooming, and the Kentucky Derby is scheduled for May 6, but the Kentucklans, with their young 'uns away fighting, are still feuding politically as always.

LIST 4,104,122 ELIGIBLE STATE VOTERS TUESDAY

More than 4 million Illinois citizens are registered to vote in the primaries next Tuesday, it was determined yesterday when figures for the 101 downstate counties were compiled. The state total, 4,104,122 is an increase of 166,038 over that for the 1942 primary, with Cook county contributing more than half the gain.

Cook county's total, which includes 1,780,399 in Chicago and 413,256 in the suburbs and country precincts, increased 88,141 over 1942 and 157,654 over the 1940 Presidential year primary total. Downstate's 1942 primary registration was 1,832,570 and the increase in those counties is 77,897, bringing it to 1,910,467.

Of the 3,938,084 eligible in the state for the 1942 primary, 1,963,298 voted.

Notable gains downstate were in counties with war industries, among them Lake, Kankakee, La Salle, Lee, and Rock Island. St. Clair county, in which is East St. Louis, showed a loss of more than 10,000, from 90,001 in 1942 to 79,528.

Elections officials in both Cook county and downstate anticipate that further registering for the November election will bring the state figure close to 4,500,000.

Cottage at Crystal Lake, where gasoline blast killed girl and burned her two brothers.

WASHES HANDS WITH GAS; BLAST KILLS SISTER, 4

2 Injured, 12 Saved in Family of 15.

A four year old girl was fatally burned and two of her brothers were injured when a can of gasoline exploded and the burning liquid was scattered among 15 members of a family in a cottage in Crystal Lake Thursday evening.

The entire family of Howard Ketchum, 36, and his wife, Mayme, 35, were in the combination kitchen-dining room of their three room cottage on Poplar st. when the blast occurred. Morris, 16, the oldest of the children, who works in a garage, was washing his hands at the sink, next to the gas stove on which supper was being prepared.

Rinses Hands with Gasoline.

He was rinsing his hands with a pint of gasoline in an open can when it blew up, apparently ignited by an open flame on the stove. The burning liquid covered the upper part of his body and that of his sister, Bertha, 4, who was in front of the stove. Some also spattered on Larry, 6 months old, youngest of the children, who was sitting in a high chair at the supper table.

Mary, 15, the oldest girl, rushed to a window, broke it, and passed six of the smaller children, including Larry, the top of whose head had been burned, thru the opening to the soft earth outside. Her hands and arms were severely lacerated. The father and mother hurried the remainder of the family thru the door.

Older Brother to Live.

The parents tore the flaming clothing from Morris and Bertha while neighbors called for help. Morris and Bertha were taken to Sherman hospital in Elgin, where the girl died shortly after midnight. Physicians said Morris, who suffered severe burns, will recover. The baby's injuries were not serious.

The house did not catch fire. Ketchum, who was classified 1-A in the draft in January, threw water on the table and window curtains. Morris's body had shielded most of the others in the room, and only the three were burned.

CARR PICTURES MULCAHY TOOL OF CITY MACHINE

Republican Opens Drive for Sheriff.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

In a preview of the fall campaign, Leo Carr, Republican candidate for sheriff, last night pictured his Democratic opponent, Sheriff Michael Mulcahy, as a helpless tool of the Kelly machine. Neither man is opposed in Tuesday's primary.

Carr's was perhaps the first fighting speech of any of the county candidates, the others holding their fire until some months hence. He spoke before Ald. Oscar De Priest's mass meeting in the Parkway ballroom, 4459 South Park way. Because of Good Friday it was the only political meeting scheduled by either party.

Former chief of the state highway police, Carr resigned to run for sheriff in 1942. His margin of loss was the smallest of any G. O. P. candidate. He had said he would be sheriff "in fact as well as in name."

Pays Tribute to Carey.

Paying tribute to the late Sheriff Peter B. Carey, a successful business man, Carr asserted that Carey died of a broken heart when he learned the Kelly machine controled his office.

"What I said then and what I repeat now is that no man who is sponsored by the Democratic machine can be a good sheriff," Carr said. "The back room boys in the city hall won't let him. I don't care how honest the man may be, how able, or how good his intentions. The back room boys have the power to by-pass him."

Tells Why Kennelly Refused.

The sheriff's office was dragged in the gutter by Carey's predecessor, "Blind Tom" O'Brien, now a congressman, Carr asserted. That led to a search by the machine for the appearance of respectability, he said, Martin H. Kennelly, a prominent business man, refused to take the office because he knew the facts, Carr declared.

Carr then tackled Sheriff Mulcahy, who holds the office by a vacancy appointment. As alderman, Mulcahy never once raised his voice against Mayor Kelly or his political maneuvering, Carr said.

"After one term, the people of his ward turned him out of office," he continued. "But that didn't end his public career. Kelly, following the New Deal system, provided for the city council 'lame duck' by giving him a city hall appointment.

Mulcahy Run by Machine.

"Then along came OPA and Kelly recognized that as a spoils office. He appointed the man that the voters of the 8th ward had turned out because he served Kelly instead of them. And after this man spent two years in the OPA telling everybody else what to do, and what not to do, the machine told him what to do. The machine told him to become sheriff. Now, every day the back room boys tell him what to do to run the sheriff's office for the benefit of the machine. And that is the way he runs it."

Carr pledged "law enforcement which is tempered with sound judgment and common sense."

47.5% OF G. O. P. WISCONSIN VOTE GOES TO DEWEY

Milwaukee, Wis., April 7 [Special].—As returns from all but four of the state's 3,076 precincts in the Wisconsin Presidential primary came in today, Walt Chilsen, editor of the Merrill Daily Herald and anti-Willkie candidate in the 10th district, conceded his defeat to a Stassen candidate. Lt. Comdr. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, now has four delegates to the Republican convention at Chicago, compared to three for Gen. MacArthur and 17 for Gov. Dewey.

Previously the New York governor had been credited with receiving 40 per cent of the G. O. P. popular vote; Stassen 22 per cent; MacArthur, 22 per cent, and Willkie 16 per cent. Revised figures today gave Dewey 47.5 per cent, Stassen 19.5 per cent, MacArthur 19 per cent, and Willkie 14 per cent.

Before conceding his defeat, Chilsen was running behind Mrs. Mabel Gross of Stone Lake, Wis., and Harry Simon of Ashland, Wis., both pledged to Stassen, and Ernest Hedeen, an anti-Willkie candidate.

JEWS DEDICATE PASSOVER TO FREEDOM HOPE

Seder Feast Held by Orthodox.

BY RUTH MONTGOMERY.

Donning of black skull caps by all male members of the family signified commencement of the seder, which commemorates the Jewish exodus from Egypt. Gazing solemnly at the 16 members of the family gathered at the long table, Rabbi Benjamin Birnbaum began the benediction, and the first goblet of wine was drunk. Then each member ate a sprig of parsley which he had dipped into a bowl of salt water, to signify the safe crossing of the Red sea by the Israelites more than 3,500 years ago.

It was the feast of the passover, which began at sundown last night and which was celebrated in thousands of orthodox Jewish homes thruout Chicago in fashion similar to that of the Birnbaums, who met for the sacred feast in the family home at 6236 N. Richmond st.

Dedication to Freedom.

To dramatize the flight of the ancient Hebrews from Egyptian slavery, the younger children at the feast ask in traditional fashion: "Why is this night different from all other nights?" The rabbi then explained that "Tonight we eat only unleavened bread; we eat especially bitter herbs; we dip herbs in water twice, and we take our meals reclining."

Taking up the chant of the ritual, Rabbi Birnbaum, as did thousands of other heads of families, dedicated the feast to the dream and hope of freedom, and pledged no rest until the chains which enslave all men shall be broken.

Rabbi Explains Symbols.

Candles reflected the glow of the passover silverware and china, which are used only at this season each year, and then carefully stored away where they have no contact with leavened bread, as the second goblet of wine, symbolizing the ideals of human liberty, was consumed.

"We eat only matsos during the passover," Rabbi Birnbaum told his family, "because the liberated Hebrews had to snatch up their unleavened dough and flee. We eat bitter herbs to symbolize the bitter life led by our ancestors as slaves in Egypt. And we recline at the tables because in olden days this was a sign of freedom."

Together, in time hallowed fashion, the members of the family recited in Hebrew the story of the exodus. From their wine glasses they removed 10 drops, symbolizing the 10 plagues of Egypt, in memory of the bitter fate of the Egyptians who perished while in pursuit of the Israelites. "Dayenu, dayenu" [meaning, "we should have had reason to be grateful"], they chanted as the rabbi enumerated the blessings bestowed by God upon their ancestors.

Feast Gets Under Way.

Then the tray, bearing the paschal lamb to symbolize the passing over of Jewish homes when the first born of each Egyptian family was taken, was passed about the table. Each diner tasted a preparation of ground apple, nuts, cinnamon, and wine, to represent the clay and mortar, and horse radish for the bitter herb. An egg, symbolic of life, was immersed in salt water before eating, and then the feast began, with gefüllte fish as the first course.

Rites in similar vein were celebrated with congregational dinners at Temple Sholom, 3480 Lake Shore dr., at Beth Jacob B'nai Bezalel Anshe Misrach synagog, 2660 E. 75th st., and at Humboldt Boulevard temple, 1908 Humboldt blvd. Passover will be celebrated during the next seven days in every synagog, and for eight days among the orthodox congregations.

Extra Place at Tables.

It was at such a seder feast, nearly 2,000 years ago, that the Founder of the Christian church and His disciples observed the Passover. That feast became known as the Last Supper.

At every seder feast, as they have been doing for the last 3,500 years, the Jews set an extra place for the prophet Elijah, whose advent is awaited as the forerunner of the Messianic age.

OPEN MICHIGAN DRAFT-DEWEY HEADQUARTERS

Campaign Sponsored by 150 Leaders.

Lansing, Mich., April 7 [Special].—A draft-Dewey movement was gathering momentum today in the New York governor's former home state as Michigan headquarters, sponsored by more than 150 leading Republicans, were opened in the Hotel Olds here.

While Gov. Harry F. Kelly was not numbered among the official sponsors, he issued a significant statement on the withdrawal of Wendell Willkie from the list of avowed aspirants for the party's Presidential nomination, declaring that "Dewey has been gaining strength in this state and thruout the middle west for the last six months and unless the unexpected happens Michigan will send a delegation to the Chicago convention to vote for Dewey."

Governor Cool to Willkie.

The governor, who has refused to commit himself regarding candidates but who was markedly cool to the Willkie effort, commented that the 1940 nominee "could not have hoped for support from the Michigan delegation."

Co-chairmen of the Michigan Dewey movement are Mrs. Meta S. Wooden, Battle Creek attorney, and Rep. Andrew C. Johnson of Beulah. Mrs. Wooden explained that the project was launched at her home in Battle Creek as a "women's" movement but that the men "heard about it and joined up." Mrs. Orville E. Atwood, widow of a former Michigan secretary of state and active in women's Republican affairs, has taken charge of the Lansing office.

Rep. Howard Nugent, Bad Axe, speaker of the state house of representatives, is among the more politically prominent backers of the movement. Other sponsors, according to Mrs. Wooden, are principally township supervisor.

Dewey Pledge Sought.

U. S. A. Heggblom of Detroit, who formed a Dewey committee there recently and who is a delegate to the state Republican convention in Detroit, April 20, was reported pushing a movement to place the Michigan convention on record for Dewey, thus pledging the New York governor this state's 41 delegates. Gov. Kelly has declared himself for an unpledged delegation but Heggblom was quoted as expressing fear that this would "play into the hands of the bosses and leave the decisions to be made in smoke filled rooms."

SGT. CASHMORE OF WADSWORTH HURT IN PACIFIC

Tech. Sgt. Earl Cashmore, 26, was wounded March 21 on Bougainville, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Cashmore of Wadsworth, Lake county, were notified yesterday by the war department. At the same time, they learned from a letter written by their son's buddy that he had been interviewed recently by a Chicago Tribune correspondent [presumably Harold Smith] in the Southwest Pacific area, possibly about the action in which he was hurt.

The war department message gave no details of Cashmore's injury, but a letter which Staff Sgt. George Brya, 26, sent to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brya of Antioch, Lake county, brought this information:

"My pal, Earl Cashmore, did a fine job and told his story to a Chicago Tribune correspondent."

Brya related that he then was in a hospital recovering from wounds for which he had been awarded the Purple Heart. His parents said the letter was the first word they had that he was hurt.

GOSSIPS GIVEN CENSORED MAIL, REED CHARGES

Source of Leaks Sought; Price May Be Quizzed.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 7.—Charging that excerpts from private letters are being "peddled" by gossip mongers at Washington cocktail parties, Sen. Reed [R., Kas.] was leading a Capitol hill movement today for a guarantee of the integrity of the United States mails.

Reed and other members of congress said they were outraged by the reading in the house and over the radio of supposed excerpts from the letters of Miss Vivien Kellems.

The senator called upon the New Deal agencies concerned in censorship matters to bring charges against Miss Kellems, a Westport, Conn., manufacturer, if they have evidence that she is engaged in sedition, or explain how her private mail was made public. Purported excerpts from her letters to Count Frederick von Zedlitz, a German engineer in Argentina, were read in the house last week by Rep. Coffee [D., Wash.] after similar disclosures represented as being from her letters were made over the radio by Drew Pearson, Washington gossip commentator.

Wants Leaks Investigated.

Sen. Reed, ranking minority member of the senate postoffice committee, said he would not let the matter drop with an inquiry into the Kellem letters. He said he would ask the committee to investigate the entire question of leaks by which private correspondence becomes public.

Peddling of information from private letters at capital cocktail parties, he said, is "more or less common knowledge," and he called for a public airing of this subject.

Reed said he would demand in addition an investigation of unverified reports that the federal bureau of investigation is opening the letters written by wives to service men at camps in this country.

He announced that if the investigation is authorized he will ask that Byron Price, director of the office of censorship, be among the first witnesses called.

Letters Copied by Office.

Price's office makes copies of excerpts and sometimes the whole of letters addressed in this country to points outside the United States. These copies are then sent to interested government agencies.

Several members of congress have said they believe that loose handling by clerks of these confidential communications enabled Miss Kellems' enemies to smear her as the friend of a "Nazi agent."

Miss Kellems has acknowledged writing romantic letters to Von Zedlitz. She says, however, that she has given the FBI full information regarding him, and she cites the fact that she is still manufacturing war materials for the army and navy as evidence that the government found nothing criminal in her correspondence with Zedlitz.

Two of the few members of the postoffice committee, who are in town during the congressional recess, agreed to support Sen. Reed's demand for an inquiry. They are Senators Robertson [R., Wyo.] and Langer [R., N. D.].

"I haven't much doubt," Reed said, "that the sudden outburst of the New Deal agencies in annoying, not to say persecuting, Miss Kellems is a result of her remarks on taxes, which irritated Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau."

Miss Kellems is an outspoken critic of the New Deal and its income tax system.

Some in Washington said today that they saw significance in the fact that Miss Kellems' brothers, Dr. Jesse Kellems of Los Angeles, Cal., is a Republican candidate for the seat of Rep. Will Rogers Jr. [D., Cal.]. Kellems, an anti-New Dealer, is opposed on the Democratic side by Ellis Patterson, former lieutenant governor of California. Rogers did not file for renomination and friends say he plans to enter the army.

CLASS PLANNED TO TRAIN AIDS IN RED CROSS WORK

Milwaukee, Wis., April 7 [Special].—More Red Cross nurses' aids are needed in Milwaukee hospitals, Mrs. T. L. Squier, vice chairman of the volunteer nurses' aid corps said today, in announcing that a class for day workers will be organized at 1 p. m. April 24, in the Milwaukee Gas Light company building, 626 E. Wisconsin av.

Classes of instruction will be held Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings and afternoons, or both. Applicants must be between 18 and 50 and have a high school education or its equivalent. Each must pledge to serve six hours a week.

Orville M. Cox, Red Cross director of first aid, water safety, and accident prevention, said that because of an increasing demand for first aid training, two classes would be organized. One will be formed at the Wauwatosa High school, 1719 N. 75th st., at 7:30 p. m. Monday and the other at the Red Cross blood procurement center, 507 E. Wells st., at 7:30 p. m. April 17.

NO NEW TAXES LIKELY IN 1944, SAYS GEORGE

Atlanta, Ga., April 7 (AP).—Sen. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the senate finance committee, predicted today there would be no new forms of taxation adopted by congress in 1944, and said levies probably would remain substantially the same for the remainder of the war.

George, pausing en route to his Vienna [Ga.] home, said present federal taxes support approximately half the war effort and the cost of domestic government, and suggested this was about as much as could be expected. However, he said congress possibly might explore some new sources of revenue later.

Commenting on the withdrawal of Wendell Willkie as a Republican candidate, he said Willkie probably had found himself "out of step with thought in the midwest."

Washington, D. C., April 7.—Rep. Smith [D., Va.] today accused Atty. Gen. Biddle of whitewashing, without proper investigation, the CIO political action committee, which Smith recently charged with carrying on political activities in violation of federal statutes.

The congressman took issue with the attorney general after receiving earlier today a letter from Biddle reporting that no illegal operations by the CIO committee had been discovered. This conclusion, Biddle's letter said, was reached after an examination of the committee's files by the federal bureau of investigation.

The FBI inquiry was undertaken in response to a request on Jan. 10 by Smith, who said the CIO group's accumulation of a political fund exceeding $500,000 from CIO unions and members was a "flagrant violation" of the federal law prohibiting a political committee from receiving contributions from a labor union, and also prohibiting a labor organization from making contributions in connection with federal elections. Smith demanded that Biddle seek an indictment of the CIO officials involved.

Scoffs at Biddle Probe.

The congressman, replying by letter to Biddle today, asserted that the latter's "investigation seems to have been confined to asking the accused if he was guilty, and accepting with enthusiasm his statement that he was innocent."

Urging the attorney general to reopen the inquiry, Smith said the CIO group is in name and action a "political committee."

"The law, in plain and simple words," Smith wrote, "makes it a crime for a political committee to receive contributions from a labor union or for a labor union to make such contributions. It is only necessary that the contribution be made 'in connection with an election' and not necessarily in the interest of any particular candidate or party.

"I am sure that no one is so naive as to believe that the CIO political action committee is collecting these huge sums of money on a national scale for the purpose of giving Sunday school picnics."

Offers Own Evidence.

The congressman said his own files, which the FBI investigators failed to examine, contain ample evidence of the CIO group's activities to "justify presentation of the case to a grand jury."

As an example of the committee's alleged intention to influence the 1944 elections, Smith quoted a statement by Chairman Sidney Hillman of the committee contained in a recent CIO publication.

"We must build up a drive for congress," Hillman wrote. "We can do the job in 1944 to elect the proper representatives in congress, and by 1948 we can retire every reactionary in congress."

The CIO committee has been generally recognized by members of congress as a fourth term booster organization. It was charged recently by the house Dies committee with being dominated by Communist sympathizers.

Accumulated $569,000.

Biddle's letter disclosed that the committee so far has accumulated $569,000, including $400,000 in lump sum contributions of $100,000 each from three CIO international unions and the CIO itself. The remainder, he reported, came chiefly from "national unions."

As of Jan. 31, the attorney general said, about $39,000 had been spent, including $15,000 for campaigning in a New Jersey gubernatorial election. The latter was not illegal because no federal election was involved, Biddle said.

In New York Hillman said that Biddle's report was a "complete exoneration," of the committee.

INSTALMENT XXX.

PACKING IS SECOND NATURE.

Barrymore, with his new freedom almost at hand, left New York on July 1, 1928.

He stopped over in Chicago to telephone the news to Dolores. Then he resumed the summer-hot journey toward the west, still not drinking anything but ginger ale, and playing dominoes with his manager, and thinking and talking of Dolores.

It would be five more months until their marriage, and still another month before they set out together on their wedding trip to the enchanted isles.

These months of waiting accentuated the contrasting humors of the mercurial actor, whose today's elations became tomorrow's broodings. He grew impatient over the first month of snail's pace legal technicalities required for the divorce decree. When the final papers reached him, he became suddenly gay and affable.

Later he began to imagine that Dolores was flirting. Jack had no reasonable ground for this belief; Dolores had nodded in response to a greeting by an old friend of the family's, a mere smiling civility. Jack became furious. The fact that every one, women and men alike, turned to look at the beautiful, blond creature, aroused in Barrymore the thought that he was about to lose her.

Sound now had begun to reach the screen. Even the prospect of undertaking his first talking motion picture at Warners did not immediately interest Barrymore. The important thing to him was that Dolores had flirted.

Jack waived all plans for the playing of "Hamlet" in the Hollywood bowl. Other, simpler duties likewise were slighted. He was reminded, for example that he had received $10,000 to serve as a judge in a beauty contest sponsored by a soap company. All he had been asked to do to earn the large fee was to appraise the photographs of some 30 young women, then choose from among them "the most beautiful debutante, the most beautiful college girl, the most beautiful young matron." He refused even to glance at these photographs. The soap company was in a lather at the delay. He didn't care. Dolores had flirted!

The sun began to shine again on Aug. 13. Jack reported to his manager that there had been a reconciliation with Dolores. He announced also that he wanted "instantly" to buy the four acres to the north of his estate, and higher up the mountain, because the new house was so close to the property line of his own three and one-half acres.

Jack called the new structure "The Marriage House." It was connected with the original Vidor hacienda by means of a long, cloister-like pergola. He came to know the older house as "Liberty Hall."

The Marriage House had six rooms, Liberty Hall five. It was not foreseen by any one at this time that Barrymore's establishment one day would comprise 16 separate structures, 55 rooms in which furniture stood, storerooms, a projection room, dressing rooms, a large aviary, a rathskeller, six pools, a bowling green, a skeet range, several fountains, and a totem pole, upon the topmost figure of which a fern grew incongruously, like the hair of Signor Arturo Toscanini dyed green.

On Nov. 20, Jack, Dolores, Helene, and Hotchener drove to the Los Angeles license bureau, where the actor and his fiancee signed the formal papers.

On Nov. 24, Jack drove to the courthouse to pick up his license. He was gay. He returned to Tower road, dressed himself in his new suit, then, in the early afternoon, drove to Schuyler road to marry Dolores in her home.

The bride at this time was making a picture at the Warner Brothers' Sunset boulevard studio. Jack himself was deep in plans for his first talking picture on the same lot. They drove each day to and from work, talking of where they would go for a wedding trip, and when.

Otto Matthies now was captain of the Barrymore yacht. He conferred with his newly married employer as to the cruise, and finally it was agreed that Otto sail The Mariner to Balboa, Canal Zone. The Barrymores would take the Panama-Pacific liner Virginia to that port, then go aboard their own yacht for the long delayed voyage without a chaperon.

At noon, Dec. 29, a radiant Dolores appeared in her husband's library to say, "Mamma just phoned to remind us that we ought to pack our trunks and get them down to the steamer. We don't want to have a last minute rush."

"That's a good idea, darling," said Jack. "Suppose you get your things ready first."

The Virginia was to sail from Wilmington, a port some 35 miles distant from the Barrymore house, at midnight next day.

"I'd offer to help you," Jack continued, "only Lionel is coming over with a story he's been writing. Thinks we can use it for my first talkie. I'd like to get that settled before I leave."

Lionel arrived, and the brothers talked about painting, music, and anything but business. Lionel finally left toward 1 o'clock in the morning. Dolores wakened long enough to ask, "Was everything all right? Did you get finished?"

"No," her husband replied, "Lionel hasn't done the end of his story yet, and it looks as if the Warners will insist on their own story, General Crack. They want to build the sets while we are away."

"I mean," said Dolores, "did you get your packing finished?"

"O, that!" snorted Jack. "Don't worry about it, darling. It only takes me a few minutes to pack. Done it all my life."

The first thing Dolores asked the next morning was, "Now you'll pack early, won't you, dear? The baggage man will be here at 4 o'clock."

"You may be sure of it, Winkie. But first I want to run down the hill to see Hank. I've thought of so many things that ought to be done around the place while we're away."

"Well, so long as you get packed."

"Packing is second nature with me," he said.

Jack went to the office he had built for Hotchener over a new garage. It had in it, among other things, a couch he had "borrowed" from Ethel some 10 years before.

Today he signed some checks, one for $3,500 pocket money for the honeymoon trip, and many others for current bills, including $361 for the month's long distance telephone calls. Then he fell asleep on the couch.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

MAINTAIN PRICE, WAGE CONTROLS, AGENCIES URGE

Programs Are Effective, Annual Report Says.

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—Organized labor's drive to break down the "Little Steel" formula bumped head-on today into a flat pronouncement by top White House economic advisers that wage and price control policies must be continued unchanged.

With indirect endorsement by approving comment, President Roosevelt made public at his news conference a report to him that the stabilization program has succeeded to the benefit of all elements of the population. Price rises have been checked, it said, and the cost of living is actually lower now than it was a year ago, while wages have been stabilized.

"We must not jeopardize these gains by any change of policy or relaxation of effort in the critical months ahead," the report concluded. "The need for continued restraint and continued coöperation with every phase of the stabilization program is evident. Obviously, too, we should cling to the policies and machinery which have served us so effectively thus far."

Sen. Taft Comments.

Sen. Taft [R., O.] commented in Washington:

"It is quite true that the price administration has held the cost of living stable for 12 months. The impression given, that there has been no material wage increase, however, is ingenious, to say the least. By confining the statement to the war labor board's action, the increase in railroad rates is excluded and possibly, the increase in coal wages. By confining the statement to basic wage rates, and not mentioning take-home pay and hourly wage rates, the really inflationary factors are ignored. Both have increased over 5 per cent in 12 months.

"Hourly wage rates represent the cost of labor to the producer, processor, and distributor. The steady increase in these costs and in the cost of many uncontroled raw materials, while ceilings are held firm, is driving many small business men out of business and bringing about black markets."

Agencies Make Report.

The report was in the form of a letter to the President from Fred M. Vinson, economic stabilization director; Chester Bowles, price administrator; Marvin Jones, war food administrator, and Chairman William H. Davis of the war labor board. It noted that tomorrow is the first anniversaary of the date the President issued his "hold-the-line" order on wages and prices.

Both the AFL and the CIO are asking in current war labor board hearings for relaxation of the "Little Steel" formula limiting general wage increases to 15 per cent above the January, 1941, level.

In making public the report, the President said it was of real importance and worth every one's reading. It is of real importance, he added, because it concerns a matter which has been overlooked for the last two or three months altho there have been two or three bouts on the subject in the past.

Little Change in Living Costs.

He went on by reading the report and offering occasional comments. When he came to the statement that there has been no change of consequence in the cost of living for the last year, he remarked that he knew a lot of people would call that nonsense. The trouble is, he added, that the figure is made up nationally.

"This record—one year of stable living costs—is unprecedented in this war or in the last war," the report said, and Mr. Roosevelt added: "Or any other war in history!"

HOLDUP KILLERS OF DR. PEACOCK TO ASK PAROLES

State Board to Hear 8 Other Murderers.

Petitions for executive clemency for two men serving terms of 199 years each in Stateville penitentiary for the murder six years ago of Dr. Silber C. Peacock will be considered along with those of eight other murderers sentenced from Cook county when the state pardon board convenes next week.

Durland Nash and Robert Goethe were convicted of killing the doctor, a noted specialist in children's diseases, after luring him from his home by means of a phone call. Their motive was robbery, but the crime netted them only $20.

Crime Particularly Brutal.

The physician was beaten, hacked with surgical instruments taken from his bag, and finally shot when he tried to fight off the robbers.

The killing was so vicious police first believed the murder had been one of vengeance. It was not until three months later that the men, arrested for a series of holdups, confessed the slaying.

Another petitioner for clemency is Nicholas Gianos, a member of the Polka Dot gang, whose criminals wore polka dot handkerchiefs as masks. He was sentenced to 14 years in prison a year ago for the murder of Policeman Walter Storm during the robbery of a liquor store.

Gianos, with a woman and four other members of his gang, received additional sentences of one to 10 years on each of four charges of grand larceny.

Another Lifer Asks Clemency.

Russell Johnson, 42, sentenced to life imprisonment in 1936 for participation in the murder of Frederick Engberg, a WPA worker, in a moneyless holdup, also will ask the board to consider his plea.

Another murderer seeking freedom is Rubin Jersky, 30, serving a 20 year term for the murder of Donald Warden, 1143 S. Central Park av., a neighbor who protested when Jersky and two companions drove an automobile on his lawn. Jersky got a revolver from his car, pursued Warden up the front stairs of his home, and shot him.

Open Drive to Make Army Men in Capital 'Soldierly'

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—The army is putting on a "campaign for better discipline and more soldierly appearance" among military personnel stationed in or passing thru the national capital. The war department announced today that Maj. Gen. John T. Lewis, commander of the military district of Washington, has ordered MP's to report offenders against army regulations covering military courtesy and proper wear of the uniform. Patrols of officer and enlisted personnel of the army air forces have been directed to "correct and instruct delinquents."

Crashes Thru Gate

Archer av. was partly blocked early yesterday when an empty coal car with a refrigerator car attached started rolling on a siding in the yard of the Prima-Bismarck Brewing company, 2762 Archer av., crashed thru an iron gate, and continued into the street. A switch engine retrieved the runaway car.

AUTO HITS POST ON OUTER DRIVE; PRIEST IS KILLED

The Rev. Ignatius Andrysiak, 40, assistant pastor of St. Mary Magdalene church, 8412 Marquette av., was killed early yesterday when his automobile struck a light post at 22d st. and the Outer dr. He was returning home after visiting a service man traveling thru Chicago.

Fr. Andrysiak.

Father Andrysiak was educated at Quigley seminary and St. Mary's of the Lake seminary at Mundelein. He was ordained in 1930 and been an assistant pastor at Holy Innocents and St. Adalbert's churches.

John Haman, 51, of 1759 Division st., a railway laborer, was killed early yesterday when he was struck by the car of a hit and run driver and thrown under a Western av. street car at 59th st.

2 MORE SEIZED IN BOGUS GAS COUPON DRIVE

United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday continued until April 14 hearing on charges of possessing counterfeit gasoline ration coupons against Alex Alesauskas, 7127 S. Talman st., a filling station operator, and Ben Dziakdzic, 1844 Huron st., a laborer.

Their capture brought to 20 the total arrests in the Chicago area by secret service agents to stamp out the black market in gasoline coupons.

Dziakdzic, according to the agents, admitted he had been in prison for robbery. Alesauskas said he once had been an aldermanic candidate.

Kankakee County Exceeds War Bond Drive by 257%

Residents of Kankakee county oversubscribed their fourth war loan drive by 257 per cent, and thus led all Illinois counties in volume of sales per capita, George H. Cooley, county war bond finance chairman, said yesterday at Kankakee. The county's quota was $1,575,000 and sales were $4,061,000. Cooley said he believed the subscription rate had set a national record, altho complete figures for the nation are not yet available.

Wedding Bells

MITZI MAYFAIR.

New York, April 7 [Special].—Wedding bells sounded tonight in Hollywood for Mitzi Mayfair, of musical comedy and screen. At the same time the "big, blond brute" of her first romance—Albert Frederick Hoffman of the beverage fortune—prepared for his third try at matrimony, but not with Mitzi.

Mitzi, who recently returned from touring war fronts in Africa, was to marry Charles Henderson, associate music chief at 20th Century-Fox. But they won't have much time together because Mitzi's due to return to New York immediately for a month of personal appearances. After that she'll go back to the coast and settle down to matrimony.

Hoffman, 46, vice president of the Hoffman Beverage company, has more conventional plans—a regular honeymoon to follow his third marriage on June 5. His fiancee is Joyce Ripley, 26, secretary to the sales manager of Hoffman's soft drink and beer company.

WLB AND UNION UNITE TO END LAB WALKOUT

Striking employes of Wilson laboratories, 4221 S. Western av., will meet this morning in Hollywood hall, 2419 W. 43d st., where they will be addressed by representatives of the war labor board and of their own organization, the Gas and Chemical Workers' union. An effort will be made to end a work stoppage that began yesterday when the workers walked out in protest over delay of the WLB in acting on proposals submitted by the company and the union last fall. About 150 workers are affected.

Sweden Seizes 'Foreigner' Doing 'Illegal' U. S. Work

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 8 [Saturday]—(AP).—Swedish authorities announced today that a "foreigner" who was not further identified, had been arrested in Malmoe because of "illegal information activity" for America since December, 1943. The announcement said the prisoner's activity was not directed against Sweden.

JUDGE ASSAILS 'BLACK MARKET JUSTICE' BY OPA

Austin, Minn., April 7 [Special].—The office of price administration is "reveling in black market justice" and is itself a most consistent lawbreaker at the same time it is demanding that the public obey its rules, Municipal Judge Clifford E. Enger charged today.

Enger, president of the Minnesota Municipal Judges' association, expressed his criticism of the agency in letters to Minnesota's congressmen.

The occasion, he explained, was that "now the OPA is asking for a new lease, perhaps it is a good time to have an understanding about a few things that have been causing trouble."

OPA Called an "Evil."

He bluntly termed the agency, as now constituted, "the greatest evil and danger to our economic structure," and demanded that it be "expelled with a resounding slap."

Judge Enger has been an outspoken foe of the OPA since last June when he dismissed the cases of eight motorists charged with exceeding the war emergency speed limit. He observed that the agency was insulting the courts and placing citizens in double jeopardy by revoking gasoline rations of motorists convicted of traffic violations.

Shortly after his attack, OPA officials announced they had discovered the judge was fined $10 for an alleged speed law violation at Holbrook, Ariz., the previous Feb. 28. Judge Enger replied the OPA had extended itself to unearth a minor traffic violation to "get" him, and commented that "such efficiency would make even the Gestapo envious."

"Substituting" State Laws.

His particular dislike of the OPA is the agency's efforts to "duplicate punishment and substitute its regulations for state laws" in traffic cases. He previously had said that "one of the biggest surprises I've ever had was when I looked over my shoulder and found a federal bureau official taking over the punishment of traffic offenders and supplementing penalties of the court by taking away gas rations."

"There are some of us who have felt the OPA has had an important function to perform, but that many of its methods have been so arrogant and arbitrary as to drive the people into a spirit of revolt against its entire program," he wrote to the congressman.

"When we have offered criticism, we are met by a general blanket indictment against our patriotism—and a scorching generality about our being unwilling to sacrifice for the war effort."

Law or a Whim?

He said that the courts are finding difficulty in differentiating between that which is law and that which is the whim of an experimenting burocrat, and continued:

"It is becoming cruel to punish the working man for violation of rules and directives so complex that the lawyers and bar associations are groaning under a nebulous ambiguity which defies interpretation.

"Since rationing and price control is important to our national interests, the OPA, as now constituted, is the greatest evil and danger to our economic structure. The people have no respect or confidence in this ogre of burocracy, and the necessary coöperation is collapsing

Called a Disgrace.

"We need a rationing structure which understands the American people, and knows how to work with them. The OPA is a disgrace to our American history, ranking along with the witchcraft in the days of Cotton Mather. It should be expelled with a resounding slap, so that no more will Americans try to hex one another with burocratic directives. . . .

"The OPA is the most consistent law breaker in the state of Minnesota. I find daily examples of its flagrant violations of American principles, and these violations are openly flouted and boasted of by the employes of the bureau."

Picture Finished

Ethel Barrymore at the Dearborn station, where she arrived yesterday on the Santa Fe Chief.

Ethel Barrymore, clutching a brown paper parcel which she refused to surrender to other hands, paused in Chicago yesterday en route to Schenectady, N. Y., to reopen her now-in-its-fourth-year play, "The Corn Is Green." The package was revealed to contain a large picture of her late brother, John, which was presented to Miss Barrymore in Hollywood.

Expressing pleasure that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is publishing serially Gene Fowler's book, "Good Night Sweet Prince," which depicts the life of John Barrymore, the famous actress candidly admitted her liking for the book.

In the Dearborn station, where she arrived on the Santa Fe Chief from Hollywood, Miss Barrymore said she has just completed her second motion picture, R. K. O.'s "None But the Lonely Heart," in which she portrays the mother of Cary Grant. She completed 18 scenes in one day and 17 the next. Her only other movie, "Rasputin and the Empress," was filmed in 1932.

"For the first time I loved making a picture," Miss Barrymore confessed. "As a result, I shall probably appear in other films."

She remarked that her brother, Lionel, who lives in California, looked better than he has in years.

INDICT CICERO BANK TELLER IN $30,000 SHORTAGE

An indictment charging Edward F. Muzik, 43, with embezzling $30,000 from the Cicero State bank, where he was employed as a teller for 17 years, was returned yesterday before Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

Muzik, who is at liberty on a $5,000 bond since his arrest last November in a loop hotel, admitted taking the money and spending it on his family and in night clubs. He lives with his wife and daughter, 16, in Belmont, a suburb of Downers Grove.

Muzik said he made false entries to cover his shortages. A quiet man, Muzik enjoyed the respect of his fellow townsmen, and had been named an auxiliary policeman in the village office of civilian defense organization. His salary at the bank was $160 a month.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

April 7, 1944.

WITH young chicks an important part of any farm right now, the flockmaster had a few tips to pass out the other day. The 100 White Rocks are ready to go onto the floor in the brooder house and things must be just right for them to keep the mortality rate down.

Clean litter is recommended. If the chicks start to eat the litter, paper spread over the floor will put a quick stop to the practice. It also is advisable to put a ring of cardboard or planks about the hover so the chicks will not stray too far away from the important heat.

The college of agriculture at the University of Illinois advises the use of a dim light bulb at night to prevent chicks from getting lost in the house and piling up in the corners.

Calcium Supply Vital.

Another important point in keeping young birds healthy is a good supply of calcium. Milk products in poultry rations have been restricted and tankage and meat scraps are hard to get. Thus it is necessary to supply the calcium in another fashion.

Alfalfa leaves will give an adequate supply of calcium to the birds if used to the extent of 10 per cent of the ration. Wood ashes from the stove also are a good source of the important mineral. Agricultural limestone and defluorinated phosphate can be used if there is a supply on hand.

A new source that should appear on the market soon is coquina shell, which is being mined now in Florida. The shell can be used in the same fashion most poultry raisers now use oyster shell.

Red Paint a Help.

The bad habit of cannibalism will be found in almost every flock. One chicken will begin to peck at another, and soon the entire flock is bent on wholesale destruction. At the farm it has been found that the addition of salt to either the birds' drinking water or their mash will prove effective in stopping cannibalism.

Painting the windows of the chicken house red will help stop the birds eating each other. The brightness of a drop of blood attracts them and they will peck at it. If everything looks red in the house they will pay no attention to an injured bird.

Strict sanitation in the poultry house is the best way to assure healthy birds, the flockmaster said. Clean water—and plenty of it—is another must for the poultry raiser, he said.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDENERS who are cultivating vegetable seedlings in hothouses should be careful in their method of controling the temperature and watering the plants. The plants are heated by the sun shining thru the glass sashes, as well as from beneath thru the medium of fermenting manure or basement heat.

Unless these two sources of heat are poperly controled, the temperature in the hotbed may easily go up to 90 degrees even when the outdoor temperature is around the freezing mark. The farm gardener keeps the temperature of his hotbed around 60 degrees by opening the glass sashes as required.

These two sources of heat naturally cause almost constant loss of moisture from the soil in the seed flats, therefore careful watering is required. The gardener waters his hotbed plants once a week during cool weather, twice weekly when the outside temperature goes up to around 50 degrees. A nozzle which produces a very fine spray is recommended, and the seed flats should be level to insure against water standing in lower sections.

TIME FOR AN INVENTORY.

Republicans in the house of representatives are proposing changes in the lend-lease act, which expires on June 30, giving to congress the power to make final settlements and to decide the ultimate distribution of lend-lease goods. Ever since the days of the league of nations there has been a lot of loose talk about economic sanctions in peace and war. The study of the lend-lease act that the Republicans are now making serves to remind the nation what a powerful weapon congress placed in Mr. Roosevelt's hands when that bill was passed.

There isn't much doubt that thru lend-lease, as it now stands, the President would be able to wreck America as well as help an allied nation to victory if he so desired. He has the power to accept any payments for lend-lease, or to write off obligations without payment. He has the authority to decide how much of what goods shall go to each ally, and can make disposition of lend-lease stocks as he pleases. The political possibilities of lend-lease are unlimited. Conceivably, the President could arrange deals with the allied recipients so that certain individuals in this country could get lend-lease stocks or lend-lease money.

A good many abuses of lend-lease already have been charged against its administrators and thru them against the President. The act was one of those emergency measures demanded of congress by the New Dealers as a war necessity, and any one who asked for time to examine it was called a friend of Hitler by Mr. Roosevelt's lobbyists. The Republicans in congress were not well enough organized or numerous enough at that time, or when lend-lease was last renewed, to do much about it.

A lot more people are interested now in protecting America's future. They have seen great stores of food, clothing, and necessities, as well as arms and ammunition, go gratis to nations which appear well enough off to pay at least for some of it. It is about time that somebody considered the idea of conserving what is left to us and salvaging what we can of that already given away.

Mr. Roosevelt and his New Dealers are not interested in that phase of lend-lease. It is a job for the Republicans, and those like Representatives Mundt of South Dakota, Schiffler of West Virginia, and Rogers of Massachusetts, who go to work on it will earn the gratitude of the American people.

ROTTEN BOROUGHS IN CHICAGO.

The figures on registration of voters by wards, just made public by the board of election commissioners at the close of its revision of the voting rolls, call attention again to the failure of the city council to redistrict the wards of Chicago.

The council has scamped its duty in this respect for three years, ever since the 1940 census figures became available. While wards are reapportioned according to total population, not registered voters, the two figures will be found to present about the same picture. The registration figures show how thousands of voters have been disfranchised in municipal affairs by the refusal of the council to obey the law.

The average number of voters to a ward should be about 35,600 on the basis of the current registration. Ten wards have fewer than 30,000 voters each. One of them, the 1st ward, in the loop, has only 14,478 voters.

Fifteen wards have more than 40,000 registered voters. One of them, the 2d, has 51,120. Instead of 15 aldermen, the 15 wards should have 18 and a fraction.

Fortunately, voters of Chicago are not so helpless in the municipal situation as they are in the face of the long continued refusal of the legislature to reapportion the legislative and congressional districts. The statutes provide that, if the council fails to redistrict, any 10 aldermen may file a redistricting plan, to be submitted to a referendum at the next general election.

The council has failed. Citizens in the under-represented wards should start putting the heat on their aldermen to submit such a plan at the November election.

ARMY TALKS.

Sponsors of the propaganda for soldiers known as the Army Talks program are claiming a growing interest for the idea among the troops in England as the program enters its 29th week. The Army Talks were originated on the theory that our soldiers ought to be told what they were fighting for. Gen. MacArthur has not found any need for such education in the Pacific theater. Head of the Army Talks program is Herbert Agar, the former editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, founder of Freedom House, the internationalists' propaganda bureau, and one of the earliest and most militant war mongers before Pearl Harbor.

As a fighting man, Agar's record is far from brilliant. In the last war he was a seaman in the naval reserve, but never got off a dock on this side of the Atlantic. With the armistice, he returned to college, won several degrees, and began writing poetry none of which was received with much enthusiasm. He went to work for the Courier-Journal and was their London correspondent for five years. He served as editor of a London literary magazine.

Agar began writing books on American history, one of which took a Pulitzer prize. In 1935 leftists called him a Fascist because he urged a foreign policy of complete isolation. Suddenly, about 1938, he swung far to the left, and shortly thereafter began clamoring for war. One of Agar's earlier statements should be of interest to the Yanks to whom he is now trying to teach internationalism: "If we ever learn how to run a single county in Indiana, that will be time enough for us to begin curing the old misery along the Rhine."

Agar's warlike shouting started at the same time other interventionist voices were rising in New Deal ranks. He always had been a Democrat. He became editor of the Courier-Journal in 1940, and from that moment the newspaper began clamoring for another war to save England. Once the war had begun, Agar got a commission as a commander in the navy and soon afterward was retired to the inactive list to become assistant to Ambassador Winant in London. He is now 46 years old.

Agar, along with some other warlike New Dealers, may have adopted the Army Talks idea as an apology for their own and Mr. Roosevelt's interventionism. Most of them, along with the President, had declared at one time or another that American blood never again would be shed on foreign battlefields. The Roosevelt administration found itself with an army overseas defending Britain, composed of soldiers who, with their relatives at home, remembered too well the President's "again, and again, and again . . ." speech.

The technique of Army Talks is more familiar in Hitler's reich than it is in this country. The soldiers are being subjected to compulsory indoctrination so that the action of the leaders will appear justified. Civilians at home are getting a backwash of the same skilful and insidious propaganda thru New Deal newspapers and radio commentators. If it isn't compulsory here it is only because Mr. Roosevelt hasn't yet been able to break down the constitutional barriers which guarantee a free press.

ABUSE OF CENSORSHIP.

Sen. Reed of Kansas has asked congress to investigate abuses of citizens' rights by the postoffice and censorship organization. He acted as a result of the smear attack on Miss Vivien Kellems, the manufacturer, who had been critical of the administration.

Purported excerpts from Miss Kellems' correspondence were placed in the hands of a congressman and a radio commentator who makes his living by peddling gossip that is often scurrilous and untruthful. Investigation by Sen. Reed disclosed that the probable source of this material was so-called intercepts, which are abstracts of correspondence made by censors and submitted confidentially to various government departments. There is a statute, incidentally, which prescribes heavy fines and imprisonment for disclosure of confidential material.

The evil practice which Sen. Reed has indicted goes far beyond the Kellems case. The mails were tampered with for a dishonorable reason in that instance and it can be assumed that this is not the first offense of the kind. The right of the censorship and the postal authorities to abstract and circulate any non-censorable correspondence is in itself open to question, since the courts have held since 1877 that matter entrusted to the mail is protected against unreasonable search and seizure as thoroly as if it were retained in the custody of the person mailing it.

The investigation must not stop at the disreputable mouthpieces of the attack on Miss Kellems. They obviously did not get the information without the connivance of persons higher in administration circles and all of these persons are under suspicion until cleared. The higher they stand in the administration, the greater is their opportunity to get these confidential reports, and thus the greater is the suspicion against them.

Such abuses of censorship can be turned to economic as well as political profit. If leaks exist such as appear to exist, no business is safe from having its legitimate secrets peddled to its competitors by burocrats. Attempts to stifle the investigation by the senate will only confirm the nation in its just suspicion of grafting in high office.

SLAVERY FOR 4-F'S?

The military affairs committee of the house has approved in principle a projected law to force men who have been found physically unfit for military service to take jobs in industries listed as essential. Men classified 4-F in the draft who were not at work where the government wanted them to be employed would be forced to serve in army labor battalions. Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, the director of conscription, has been asked by the committee to draft the appropriate legislation.

It is to be hoped that the committee will reconsider its decision, and, if it doesn't, that congress will reject the proposal. In general, there is no shortage of munitions. In most of the categories, there appears to be a very substantial surplus above all probable requirements. Where the program is lagging it may be doubted that the recruitment of slave labor will advance it materially, because the need, presumably, is for skilled craftsmen. It is unlikely that many such men among the 4-F's are not already in the so-called essential industries.

As for the rest, men who are forced to take factory jobs they don't want are not going to make efficient workmen. Their presence in the factories beside free men and women will not add materially, if at all, to the nation's war production.

MR. PEPYS GETS AROUND.

8th April—Printed some soldier verses last January and last week a statesman in Washington contributed them to the Congressional Record. Printed a quaint remark about Charles Chaplin recently and two days ago found it in a column in another newspaper, pretending to be new stuff. But that's nothing. A year ago a poem by my B. J. K. came back from Australia, signed by a soldier, and was printed in another paper as an example of literary talent in Gen. MacArthur's army. So it seems that altho I stay at my desk all the time, I get around a lot, incognito.

Thinking of tomorrow's festival, it occurred to me that I have never seen an Easter parade of the fashionable kind that gets its pictures into the papers. But for the shortage of striped trousers, would go forth this Sabbath among those for whom the bells toll to correct my social inexperience. I fear Easter eggs, chicks, and rabbits will be scarce tomorrow, because of well known conditions, but the message of the day will strike home the more deeply in such times as this.

Received an Easter gift to forward to Roy Engel's dog, Choppy. Had many letters from readers who volunteered to send clippings of this column to a lonesome Chicago soldier in Ireland, mentioned by me a fortnight ago, and selected one for the duty and wish to thank the others. Rode thru the park in search of spring, and observed that before trees turn green they take on a brownish tinge.

Obliged the government by guessing at my earnings for the entire year and paying tax on same. Suggest that the treasury, in the future, should send each taxpayer a crystal ball to consult when in doubt.

MORN BEFORE EASTER.

This must have been the darkest day of all;
When death prevailed, and barren hours crept
Their pointless way; while no one dared recall
The dreams gone dim, the prophecies unkept.
The stone in bleak dominion ruled the tomb
And in finality mocked their belief;
So failure dwelt within that upper room
With hearts forsaken in despairing grief.
It seems so strangely near, that scene forlorn,
As we, too, share earth's heritage of tears;
And yet since sunrise shone that Easter morn
And in fulfilment banished all their fears
We know the night must end; and undismayed
We wait the triumph never long delayed.

Choppy's Plans for Easter.

Choppy says that this Easter he is going to get himself up in the fanciest costume he can imagine.

He says he is going to doll himself up like these li'l wabbits you see in the windows. He will wear, this Easter, a boudoir cap with an edge of pink ruching, or is it Charlotte Roussing? He is not sure which. The boudoir cap will tie under his chin in a drate big bow, which are so popular this season.

Then, Choppy says, he will put on his suit, which is made of green dimity, with pipings of bright yellow, which he says is the cutest thing, and can be used for curtains in our kitchen after Easter.

Now, Choppy says, he is going to buy a pair of bright red shoes, and with them he will carry a huge white purse in his saffron gloved paws, and he will top it all off with a green and yellow band parasol, on the summit of which he will carry the Linemaster's blizzard buster cap as a reminder to every one that the blizzards are busted.

And, Choppy says, he will then join the Easter parade on North Michigan avenue, after which he will go home and eat four dozen highly colored eggs, the same color as his Easter outfit, so that if he spills any it will not show. After that, Choppy says, he is going to raid our ice box and eat everything in sight.

And a very happy Eatster to you all, says Choppy.

Roy Engel.

SONG FOR EASTER.

Winter's strong bonds are loosed,
Spring comes to earth again.
Sorrow at last must yield,
Joy calls to hopeless men:
"Leave Time's sepulchral tomb;
Christ, risen, lights the gloom."

Night rules the earth once more;
Lo, in the east, the sun!
Grief is an old, spent tale;
Death and defeat are done.
When Christ walked forth, at morn,
New life and hope were born.

Earth, which was bleak and gray,
Catches the heavenly light.
God's breath blows o'er a world
Stricken by hate and blight.
Lift up your hearts, all men—
Easter is here again!

Humor in the New Navy.

One of our lads returning with his commission from the Academy tells of the arrogant officer, unpopular with all hands and noted for the disagreeable attitude he assumed in giving orders, who was in charge of a group of men on a small vessel. The men in training were standing watches under the eye of graduate officers and operating the ship. The officer of Napoleonic importance had been stressing the need for more man-overboard drills, and suddenly dispatched a seaman from the after-deck to the bridge with instructions to tell the embryo officer of the deck that he himself had just gone overside.

The seaman so reported. The student, who was for the moment lord of creation, serenely glanced at the compass, swerved not a moment from regulations, but murmured cheerfully:

"Quartermaster! Log it!"

EXERCISE PROMOTES SLEEP.

A SUITABLE hygienic program for individual A may demand modification before it will fit B. The reason is that we differ from one another in body contour, resistance, and nervous response.

There is an old saying about sleep that "one hour before midnight is worth five thereafter." As most of us realize, this is mumbo-jumbo. Dame Nature does not seem to care which third of the 24 hours is allotted to Morpheus, just so the period is conducive to rest.

We must observe the dictum, however, that weariness is probably the greatest enemy to the restoration of normal health. We can become so worn out that the nerve fibers will vibrate like a taut wire on a cold day. What we hope for is relaxation, which must come before the poisons of fatigue have disturbed equilibrium.

There is a curious fetish likewise about early rising: "Early to bed and early to rise." This doctrine was announced by Benjamin Franklin in 1735 and will be found among the proverbs of Poor Richard. Other observations include the blessing of Sancho Panza upon the man who invented sleep. Still another adage, "The early bird catches the worm," is wholly illogical. Why didn't the worm have sense enough to lie abed?

Of course, there are certain states of the body, such as congestion of the cortex of the brain, which will defeat slumber. But we must admit that as we grow older, we awake with the chickens. Furthermore, to many, it will be difficult to doze thereafter. But these same individuals are likely to nap after the noon or evening meal and to be poor conversational companions after 9 p. m. From the standpoint of physiology, we can assume that in the absence of some organic disorder, if one has trouble in shaking off drowsiness, the chances are that insufficient rest has been enjoyed.

Strangely enough, a good night has much to do with normal activity. We may recall Dryden's lines:

"Better to hunt in fields for health unbought
Than fee the doctor for a nauseous draught.
The wise for cure on exercise depend."

If we use our muscles sanely we may be sure that a type of salutary exhaustion will result. There is just enough sedative effect in the products of muscular exertion to bring blissful unconsciousness a few minutes after the light is out.

In this connection, we cannot subscribe to Bismarck's counsel to youth, "Work, work, work." Healthful labor is constructive. It builds the biceps of the blacksmith. But drudgery is wasteful—depleting. A human being who is an example of perpetual motion has no time left to live and no more fallacious sentence was ever uttered than "to rest is to rust."

As a matter of fact, there is an ideal balance between work, recreation, and sleep. It is necessary likewise to maintain regularity. In this we take a lesson from the stars. Under the influence of a proper amount of labor, the chemical processes of the system are accelerated and sharpened. Reactions proceed more accurately and, when the interval of repose arrives, it will be welcomed as the "chief nourisher of life's feast." We enjoy slumber because the awakening hour brings with it a sense of strength; a revival of desire for toil.

But this is in sharp contrast with indolence and self-indulgence, which is like letting the hull of a beautiful yacht gather barnacles when tied to a rickety dock.

NECK LUMP.

M. A. writes: For some time I have noticed that whenever my 6 year old daughter cries or coughs, a swelling similar to a large ball appears on the lower part of her neck on the right side. What could this be?

REPLY.

Ask your physician to investigate the presence of a branchial cleft. This is a congenital anomaly. There is little or no influence on health.

WANTS CURE.

T. H. writes: I want to be rid of mild attacks of neuritis once and for all. How can I go about it?

REPLY.

First, balance your diet. Make certain that it contains an adequate amount of vitamin B.

Second, check elimination. It must be normal.

Three, avoid muscular overstrain and shun profound exhaustion.

Four, eradicate foci of infection.

HEAVY LEGS.

V. K. writes: Please explain why the upper legs become too fat?

REPLY.

When one overeats, fat is deposited in various depots thruout the body. Most of this material is stored beneath the skin. In certain regions the layer may be several inches in thickness. Distribution is unpredictable. Lack of exercise and an out of balance glandular system are factors.

SINUS PAIN.

A. K. writes: After a few days of severe pain over the cheeks, the upper part of the nose, and the area of the temples I blew out a large blood clot and felt relieved. What could have been responsible?

REPLY.

A plug in the outlet from one of the sinuses. The ensuing congestion explains your pain.

At last the earth speaks back. So long, so long,
She has stood patiently our furious pride,
Has seen the sunlit contour of her hills
Pitted with traps for death to lurk and hide.

Her rocks and marble, made for Beauty's use,
To fashion homes and guard fair things that grow,
Shattered to dust. In anger, then, does she
Melt rock with fire and hurl it at the foe.

The Mail Comes Thru.

The mail that piled up while this department was cutting its way thru the jungle in which Mr. Chaplin conducted his exotic experiments poses some interesting queries. One, that began "My Dear Lady!" was accusing us, in no uncertain terms, of defending Mr. Chaplin "in fancy words to bluff the reader." She was quite annoyed. Dear reader, that is all water under the bridge now in view of the fact that Mr. Chaplin was acquitted, but would it be indelicate to retort that you were sadly mistaken?

Then there was one from Pvt. Abe Friedman, now stationed at an army hospital, stating that he thinks the custom of calling American privates G. I. Joes originated in the Canal Zone. "I spent six months in a jungle camp there," he writes, "and the Central and South Americans call all Americans 'Joe Americano.' Naturally, a soldier would be a G. I. Joe."

Then there was one from a gentleman playing tricks with the chart of the periodic table of the elements, which we published not long ago as a new simplified version of the forgiveness feature of the 1944 income tax return. He turned the chart on its side, in which position it looks like a surrealist's version of the national capitol in Washington.

"You will see," he writes, "that our money goes in the chimney and then starts to split up thru the various bureaus, finally reaching the lawn, where the oblique lines begin.

"These lines are the guides used for the egg rolling. Our money follows them and drops thru the various chutes into the basement, which you will observe is practically empty.

"In regard to your explanation, I must disagree about R being constant with F. D. preceding it."

A letter from Hank, the Commercial Gypsy, poses a problem in etiquet. Hotel dining rooms, he says needlessly, are crowded. You take a table for two because they have no table for one. You are served and, just as you start to eat, the hostess comes politely up and asks if you mind if she puts some one else at the table with you. The other party turns out to be feminine. Should you smile [asks Hank], to assure her everything is all right under the circumstances, or speak, or what? Hank, however, is a timid soul, so he doesn't even look at the girl. This happened to him twice in one week with the following results:

"Case No. 1, at Fort Wayne, Ind.—The gal seats herself, casually looks around the dining hall, and then centers her gaze on me. She smiles and blurts, 'Good evening. Do you always look so solemn when you eat? If so, your wife must enjoy breakfast.' She began a conversation, mostly on war and the weather, which broke up when the meal was over.

"Case No. 2, at Indianapolis—The gal seats herself, takes one look at me, and blurts, 'These are war conditions. There is no need to hold a conversation!' and buries herself in a menu. Stony silence for a half hour, and I was glad to escape. [And she was cute, too.]

"So, what to do? Please advise."

Sorry, Hank. How about taking a book to the table with you? Or, if you want to make friends, a picnic lunch?

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

A CAPTAIN ASKS "WHY?"

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 15.—A clipping from the Voice of the People was sent to me by my parents who reside in Chicago, in which a mother complains of the mail service to the boys overseas.

At the present time I am a company commander of 242 enlisted men and 10 officers. I deal personally with my men when they have any complaints, and the major complaint of them all is the lack of mail. Almost daily my men come to me with this problem. "Sir, I haven't received any mail from my parents, wife, or sweetheart in the last six weeks. Is there any way you can help me?" My only solution is the Red Cross, if there is a Red Cross office in the vicinity. If there is no Red Cross representative handy, my hands are tied.

Probably the greatest contributor to excellent morale of the fighting man is mail from his loved ones. Yet, time after time, I have attended the mail call in this organization and I have seen men turn away time and time again with a bewildered, hurt, and disappointed look in their eyes. Some are almost on the verge of tears. Yes, strange as it may seem, fighting men can and do cry on occasions.

Some men are fortunate, however, and receive three, four, and five letters at each mail call. Those who don't get any look at the mail clerks, my officers, and myself and ask "Why?" Then one of those men will get a letter and learns from the writer that said writer has written every day or every other day. The man comes to me and asks me why he hasn't received all his mail, where is it? I defy any one to look those men square in the eye, day after day, and say "I don't know." The men get no satisfaction because that is the most futile statement any officer can make. Those same men look to me and my officers for guidance and aid in their problems, and when we say "we don't know" after a certain period of time their confidence is shaken.

This, in all probability, will not clear up the situation as it exists but I, also, would like to ask "Why?"

CAPTAIN.

"THE PRESIDENT IS HINDERED."

Chicago, April 4.—With reference to the recent letters from students at Herzl Junior college and Crane High school, schools that were shunted about by our government, I can't help wishing that more schools should be interfered with in the same way. Then the confusion that attends the life of adults because of all this regimentation would also reach our students. We would not hear radio broadcasts such as I heard one Friday a few weeks ago, made by students who have known no other President than Roosevelt, stating that the President is greatly hindered because he does not have a congress that will coöperate with him. I couldn't help wondering if these students were taught the purpose of a congress. Why have a rubber stamp congress? Why not just simply abolish it, and say, "It's all yours, President!" Just think of the taxes we would save.

NEW IDEA IN POLITICS.

Wichita, Kas., April 4.—It will be remembered in the Presidential campaign of 1932 the Democratic candidate remarked that the Republicans had the house of representatives, the senate, "and for good measure the Supreme court." That rather startling statement revealed a new idea in American politics. On March 27, 1944, the Supreme court decided that OPA price and rental regulations, which are enriching one class of citizens at the expense of a much smaller class in accordance with the plan to provide the greatest good to the greatest number, regardless of property rights, was not unconstitutional. In reference to this and similar problems, the following quotation from Henry George would seem to be appropriate: "To make that a crime by statute which is no crime in morals, is inevitably to destroy respect for law; to resort to oaths to prevent men from doing what they feel injures no one, is to weaken the sanctity of oaths."

WE'LL STILL TAKE BROOM STRAWS.

Farnhamville, Ia., March 27.—I have read in your column twice in the past about the shortage of pipe cleaners and would offer my suggestion in that line to pipe smoking humanity. I use it for years and it is cheap and just as good as any on the market. It is a common chicken feather, a good stiff one, out of the wings. Insert the soft end first thru the stem, and then thru the rest of the pipe, and if you want a real good job use two of them. Should it be difficult to get started just nip off a trifle off the point end and you will be surprised at the result. Of course, it takes one or two feathers, which might be hard to find for some in town, but with so many million fowls in the country it should be worth trying.

WE NEED THE ISLANDS.

Constantine, Mich., April 4.—It seems to me that part of the question "what are we fighting for" in this war should be answered at once so that Mr. Churchill, et al., could digest it well. Why not give notice that we intend to retain all the mandated Japanese islands we are taking and have taken in the Pacific? They will come in handy for many reasons and airplane landing bases for commercial use after the war would not be the least reason.

H. F.

1. No, since an Illinois statute prohibits landlords from refusing to rent on the ground that prospective tenants have children.
2. Such a clause would be invalid.
3. There is no similar prohibition in this field. In general, the wording of the lease would control.

Easter to Fill Chicago Clubs and Churches

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE most interesting reading tomorrow morning will be the weather man's Easter forecast —Forecaster G. L. Canaday said last night temperatures will range up to 50 degrees and that there was a slight possibility of rain—for Chicago's traditional Easter parade depends upon sunshine for its brilliance. Special tickets of admittances have been issued to regular parishioners of most of Chicago's churches to guarantee their seats in the usual Easter crush. The hotels and clubs that have been making a specialty of Easter breakfasts have been sold out for days and woe to any who at the last minute think they might enjoy feasting at the Camellia House, the Pump room, the Mayfair room, the Casino, or many of the other fashionable dining places after services.

Men and women in uniform in increasing numbers will join the parade, this third Easter of the war. Following its custom, the Casino has invited a group of midshipmen from the naval training school at Northwestern university to be its breakfast guests. Daughters of club members will be their partners.

Because it is war time, the Casino will not have its elaborate Easter decorations of past years. It, too, has had to turn away prospective guests as 225 is the number who can be accommodated comfortably. The midshipmen guests will be fewer this year because the club, oddly enough, was unable to get enough girls to make it a pleasant occasion for the 50 it has had in the past. Many young women who formerly came in from the country to the breakfast will be at the Onwentsia club, or at numerous small parties along the north shore, to which men stationed at Great Lakes and Glenview have been invited.

Other Easter Events.

The most suitably dressed woman in the opinion of the judges roaming the Camellia house at noon tomorrow will receive a new hat as prize, and a similar prize will be given to the best dressed woman to be selected by the men acting as judges in the Mayfair room. James C. Thompson, Louis Leverone, Henry T. Murdock, and Will Davidson of The Tribune staff will select the Camellia house winner. Judges at the Mayfair room will be Paul Draper, the dancer; Richard D. Nugent, Burton Holmes of travelog fame, and William E. Vogelback.

A muff, a hat, cosmetics and orchids will go to the wearers of the prettiest bonnets at the Medinah club's breakfast, and guests in "Park Row" at the Stevens will be invited to join an Easter egg hunt.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne and Mrs. William B. Greenlee have an important engagement at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the Children's Memorial hospital, where they will push an Easter cart designed by Mrs. Thorne thru the wards to brighten the patients' morning with its load of flowers, toy rabbits, and chickens. Each child will receive a gift of candy.

Chicagoland youngsters bound for Presbyterian Sunday schools tomorrow will carry with them banks filled with coins which will help to provide free care in the Presbyterian hospital for needy sick children. The fund, started in 1884 by the woman's board of the hospital, has provided 11 "Cheer Up Beds" in the hospital, each endowed with $5,000. Mrs. William A. Douglass heads the committee in charge of collecting the banks.

Today's Calendar.

Market Square in Lake Forest will be crowded today—if the sun shines—for the annual Easter sale of the Parish Guild of the Church of the Holy Spirit. Gay umbrellas, tables covered with bright cloths, and booths with striped awnings will be set up to display the goods, which will include flowering plants, home baked cakes and fudge, baby chicks, rabbits, turtles, goldfish, fruit trees and shrubs, bird houses, garden tools, and many other interesting items.

Everything will be moved indoors into the Y. W. C. A. in case of rain, and a luncheon of sandwiches, salads, and cakes will be served there. Mrs. Solomon B. Smith and Mrs. Frances Jocelyn are co-chairmen of the sale. Some of those on their committee are Mrs. James Addington, who is in charge of the grab bag; Mrs. M. Dutton Morehouse, Mrs. Fred J. Koch, Mrs. Robert Macdonald, Mrs. J. Beach Clow, Mrs. Maurice H. Bent, and Mrs. Richard G. Gunthorp.

The last in Poetry Magazine's series of Saturday morning benefit lectures will bring James Thurber to the platform in the Arts club at 11 a. m. today. Because it is the first time Mr. Thurber has spoken, a large crowd of his admirers is turning out to hear him, among them Mrs. Cecil Barnes, Mrs. Dallas Phemister, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Byron S. Harvey, Miss Edith Wyatt, and Mrs. Augustine Bowe. An exhibit of Mr. Thurber's drawings will be on view. He will be a luncheon guest of the lecture committee.

Here and There.

Celebrating his 92d birthday this Easter Sunday is Frank J. Loesch, who is not having a party to mark the occasion, however. He and Mrs. Loesch will be at home in the Drake tomorrow to Mr. Loesch's close friends who annually come to pay their respects and wish him good health.

St. Mary of Nazareth Auxiliary Plans Benefit

Service Centers Plan Egg Hunts; Florists Short Lilies and Tulips

BY RUTH MONTGOMERY.

Children are dreaming of bunnies. In Chicago parks and canteens, soldiers and sailors are preparing to hunt colored eggs instead of Japs. Mom is visualizing the corsage to set off her new finery, and dad is wondering where he will find the flowers. [So are the florists!]

Only 5 per cent of the pre-war supply of tulips is available for this Easter. Before Pearl Harbor, 20 million lilies were available at Easter time. This year there are 3,000,000. The Japanese used to provide 95 per cent of our supply.

Eggs, however, are plentiful. The war food administration urges housewives to use as many as possible.

Two hundred thousand orders from service men overseas, mostly for roses, have swamped American florists. There are not enough roses in the country to meet the demand. Robert H. Roland, executive secretary of the Society of American Florists, said supplies of all cut flowers are inadequate.

Daffodils, azaleas, hydrangeas, and snap dragons will provide substitutes for many a lily or tulip, provided one shops early and is willing to pay 30 to 50 per cent more than in pre-war days. The cost of lilies has tripled. It's all because of the help shortage, and because many lush flower gardens have been converted to vegetables.

Camellias, because of the lateness of the season, will be almost nonexistant tomorrow, but there will probably be enough gardenias and orchids to bedeck the shoulders of American women.

The Easter egg hunt for service men begins at noon tomorrow in Grant park. Then comes the relay race between six live rabbits, tied with blue satin ribbons, in the Congress street plaza, opposite the No. 2 Service Men's center which is sponsoring the festivities. Soldiers and sailors can coax their favorite bunnies with jive talk, G. I. jargon, and whistling, but touching them is out.

A preliminary race was staged yesterday at the Service Men's center, 430 S. Michigan av., between rabbits coached by 5 year old Diana Fagen, 923 N. Rush st., and by a tough sergeant. Little Miss Fagen's bunny took an early lead, but rested on its laurels and went to sleep.

At the war nursery in Abraham Lincoln center, 700 Oakwood blvd., sponsored by the committee on child care of the office of civilian defense, tots from 2 to 6 paraded during their "orange juice recess" in Easter bonnets fashioned of gaily colored paper.

Sixty-seven models will step portside from a miniature ship to stage a fashion show at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in Service Men's center No. 3, 50 E. 49th st. The models' bonnets will serve as baskets during an Easter egg hunt.

Men and women in uniform will compete in egg hunts, egg and spoon races, and alphabet relays at the No. 1 Service Men's center, 176 W. Washington st., tonight, with long distance telephone calls as prizes.

On the Record

Bach a la Stokowski.

Leopold Stokowski is in Mexico City conducting "Parsifal," but Victor has an Easter release of several of his Bach transcriptions, played by the Philadelphia orchestra, and augmented by a gravely sensitive treatment of Palestrina's "Adoramus Te" [M-963; four 12-inch records]. Included in the Bach list are the first movement of the Sonata in E-flat for pedal clavier; the chorale prelude, "I cry to Thee, Lord Jesus Christ"; the Prelude and Fugue in E minor, from the Eight Little Preludes and Fugues for Organ, and a particularly beautiful transcription of the contralto aria, "It Is Fulfilled," from the St. John Passion. The orchestra plays with the rich, sculptured tone that was its special quality in Stokowski's molding hands, and if the aria makes you want to hear the real thing, you will find it superbly done in Marian Anderson's "Great Songs of Faith," also a Victor album.

Leopold Stokowski.

Invoking the Welsh Bard.

Not so long ago Robert Cromie devoted a war correspondent's story to proving that the Welsh language isn't as dangerous as it looks. Those craggy syllables disguise the most poetic meanings, and once pronounced, they are downright dulcet. If you doubt this, and only the non-Welsh will, lend an ear to "Traditional Welsh Songs," sung by Thomas. Thomas, with Edward Vito strumming a bardian harp [Victor M-965; four 10-inch records]. All the Welsh sing, and this particular Welshman made his bow at the age of 5, in Maesteg, South Wales—or so his press agent says. He has a beautiful baritone, despite a lazy man's way of getting at the top voice, and when he sings "Rhyfelgyrch Gwyr Harlech" he sounds like the opera singer he used to be before radio lured him. That, by the way, is "Men of Harlech," just as the lovely song, "Dafydd y Gareg Wen" is "David of the White Rock" and the dismaying syllables, "Budeilio'r Gwenith Gwyn" amount to nothing more serious than "Idle Days in Summertime." Most of the eight are mellow, liquid songs, highlighted by the flourish of "Harlech" and the beguiling lilt of "Cyfri'r Gleifr," which is how you count goats in Wales. Mr. Vito, as you know, is the NBC Symphony harpist, brother of the Chicago Symphony's Joseph Vito.

Victor Singles.

Richard Crooks has a first rate recording of Schubert's "Ave Maria" for Easter, sung with the Victor Symphony, Charles O'Connell conducting. The other side holds Samuel Liddle's setting of the psalm, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings," with Nathaniel Shilkret conducting. Liddle is the man who wrote "Abide with Me" for Clara Butt. . . . Arthur Whittemore and Jack Lowe, duo pianists, now in the navy, have recorded their own arrangement of Enesco's First Roumanian Rhapsody, an ambitious job well played, but sometimes tinnily reproduced. . . . Nostalgia reigns in a reissue featuring Enrico Caruso in "Recondita armonia" from "Tosca" and Lucrezia Bori in "Sempre Libera" from "Traviata." Not the best of either, but interesting, and only $1.

Old People's Home.

The board of directors of the British Old People's home will meet at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday in the committee room of the First National Bank building.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Many of the 100,000 railroad workers who must be recruited this year will be women. The Chicago district employment office of the United States Railroad Retirement board, 409 W. Washington st., has its own quota of the total figure to fill, and has a staff on duty daily to interview prospective workers.

The campaign, sponsored by the railroad man power mobilization committee, composed of representatives of the federal government, and railroad labor and management, is stressing especially the employment of women in railroad jobs formerly held by men.

Women already working on the railroads in jobs once held only by men attest that the petticoated sex can doff ruffles, get into dungarees, do a man's job, and like it. Hundreds of women in Chicago, a railroading center, are on duty daily at tasks which, before the war drained the industry of men, no one would have believed they could do.

Women are doing, and more of them must do, work such as the following: Car cleaning; attending heating plants; serving as helpers to blacksmiths, boilermakers, car repairmen, electricians, brass foundry moulders, machinists, painters, pipefitters, sheet metal workers, and upholsterers; operating lift trucks and tractors, and working as light laborers at tracks and in shops and storehouses.

Others of these jobs which, altho they may be said to lack essential glamor, do keep the railroads in operation to carry service personnel and war materials, include locomotive cleaning, locomotive preparing, turntable operating, and acting as signal helpers.

The railroads do not expect women to come to the employment office with readymade skills. They are trained on the job, and receive the same compensation and workers' benefits as men. Altho the wage varies with the job, the minimum is 62 cents per hour, and the maximum 85 cents.

Mrs. Stanley Pargellis, chairman of the Y. W. C. A. industrial committee, invites all young war workers whose shifts turn night into day to enjoy the expanded social program of her department.

The first phase of expansion, which is possible thru a special grant from the Chicago Community and War fund, will extend into the war plant district to the west of the city, where thousands of workers are employed. The Y. W. C. A. proposes to carry its program directly to the neighborhoods of Douglas Aircraft, Buick, Dodge, Amertorp, Aluminum company, and other major plants. Projects will be both recreational and educational.

The second phase of the extended program will be the establishment of a recreation center for Negro women and girls in industry. It is to be opened on the near south side. The final project will be further development of the popular "night owl" parties, now conducted for swing shift workers weekly in three Y. W. C. A. centers.

Miss Annetta M. Dieckmann, head of the Y. W. C. A. industrial department, states that the new program is her organization's response to the needs of thousands of women and girls in war industry, who work hours tending to disrupt normal social life and putting a special strain on morale.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Dawn Services to Inaugurate Easter Worship

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Lent ends at noon today. Churches will remove veils from altar crosses and replace Good Friday's shroud-like symbols with tokens of tomorrow's Easter brilliance. Flowers will bank sanctuaries and chancels, with pastors and choirmasters readying to greet the throngs which will begin to move toward their houses of worship from dawn hours onward thru Sunday morning.

Archbishop Stritch of the Catholic archdiocese will be celebrant at the noon mass Easter day at Holy Name cathedral, and Bishop Conkling of the Episcopal diocese will offer the Easter sacrifice at the Church of the Epiphany, the Cathedral shelter, 201 S. Ashland av.

On Chicago's lake front, the Easter Sunrise service committee forecasts 50,000 worshippers for the service which begins at 6:30 a. m. with the playing of the National anthem. Dr. Martin De Haan of Grand Rapids, Mich., radio Sunday school teacher, will deliver the Easter sermon.

Many communities have arranged for local Sunrise services, with one of the largest of these at Elm Lawn cemetery, Elmhurst, with the Rev. E. T. Lange of Immanued Evangelical Lutheran church of Elmhurst the preacher.

Throngs gathered at their churches and at other points thruout the city yesterday as they bowed in remembrance of the cross of Calvary. Kimball hall was thronged for the concluding noonday lenten service where Bishop Conkling delivered the Good Friday meditation. Similar throngs met for the day's rites at Central Y. M. C. A., and at Chicago temple, 77 W. Washington st.

At the latter, under joint auspices of the Chicago Church federation and First Methodist church of Chicago, three hour devotions of the cross were conducted by Dr. Howard Thurman, Washington, D. C., Dr. Charles R. Goff, temple pastor, and Dr. F. W. Otterbein, pastor of North Austin Lutheran church.

Dr. J. Harry Cotton, president of Presbyterian Theological seminary, concluded the Holy week series at the noon service yesterday in Fourth Presbyterian church. Last night several centrally located Roman Catholic churches held Tre Ore services from 6 to 9 p. m. These were Holy Name cathedral, and old St. Patrick's church.

Among sermon topics for Easter sermons tomorrow are: "Is There Life After Death?" announced by Dr. Harold Ruopp, Central church, Orchestra hall; "He Lives," by the Rev. L. A. Schuessler, Our Redeemer Lutheran church, 6430 S. Harvard av., and "The Inevitable Easter," by Dr. Goff of Chicago Temple.

Elgin Artists to Present Exchange Concert Here

Three members of the Musicians' Club of Elgin—Carlo Byars, soprano; Janet Stewart, cellist, and Jane Hampton Chipman, pianist—will give an exchange program in the Woman's City club rooms in the Fine Arts building at 3 p. m. tomorrow for the Music Study Club of Chicago and its guests. The Chicago group has invited a large number of service men to attend the concert and a tea gathering later.

Thru the Looking Glass

If you want to be a standout in the Easter parade tomorrow, remember it isn't so much the clothes you wear as the way you wear them that will determine your success.

The slickest new outfit, complete from head to toe, can be a complete failure if you don't carry yourself properly and walk prettily. On the other hand, last year's duds, cleaned and pressed, will look eye filling if they're worn with an air and you step along in a manner that indicates innate grace and poise. And you can't convey that impression by lunging along with head lowered, body slouched, arms swinging in ungainly looseness, and the feet shuffling one after the other.

The woman who wears clothes well and creates a good impression any day of the year is the one who holds herself easily erect, head up, chest high, and body in straight alignment. She steps along lightly, with arms swinging moderately in rhythm as she walks and she picks her feet up, gliding along without scraping the pavement.

If you've a suspicion that your walk is not all that it should be, try yourself in front of a long mirror. Approach it from as far a distance as possible and note your posture and your stride.

It's true that most persons have some individual characteristic in their walks that is more or less part of them, but any tendency to exaggeration should be controled. Give yourself an honest examination and if you note any defects, however minor they may be, correct them and check yourself each day until you can be sure that you've overcome them. LOUISE DOOLEY.

Easter Showing.

If you want to know how one business woman relaxes from war contracts and tiresome treks to Washington you might take a look at a collection of Easter eggs made by an executive of the Society for Visual Education, a company, by the way, which boasts a woman president.

The amateur artist—in her meager share of spare time—frees her mind of specifications and forms by turning her attention to making modish spring hats on the coyest of Easter egg faces to peep from underneath a new bonnet. Their designer has grown proficient in shopping for bits of material, so that the hats atop the Easter eggs do credit to a pre-war French room showing. This year she has added a wedding party, the bride, with devastating blonde curls beneath her veil, being wedded to a stalwart marine. [That is, we think he's stalwart tho we see only his head.] The best man [and he is handsome] is a naval aviator, there to flirt with the maid of honor, fetching in a flower chapeau, while the bridesmaids in organdy hats are ruthless rivals for his attention.

To offer Easter strollers something to lighten their spirits, a reserved and dignified Michigan avenue shop is breaking its long precedent of drawing the shades on Sunday and is placing the collection on display in the window.

It Sticks in the Mind.

The woman shivering along Michigan avenue one chilly noon this week, hatless, stockingless, short-skirted—and hugging a beaver muff.

The career girl wife of any army officer who wrote home to her parents [taking care of her dog for the duration] that the dog could be put in the kennels if too much trouble: "As I have my own money and can support him now."

The pretty, solemn sight of the first capping ceremony of nurses in the chapel at St. Luke's hospital—the first class at St. Luke's to be enrolled 100 per cent in the service of their country—and is there any more becoming Easter hat than their white caps?

Promise.

"Snow rides with the north wind and the song of the chickadee is checked by returning cold, but the casements are opening to the promise and, as the sap starts from the frozen ground, the unsung song of a world which is not, comes with the perfumes of white blossoms not in bloom."

Accessories Add to Beauty on Easter Day

BY REA SEEGER.

Last minute costume accessories for an Easter parade costume are well worth every penny of the price marks. The beautiful silk scarves this spring are sensational in color and size. Some, huge and square, are designed to wear in a dozen different ways; others are neat and narrow, ideal highlights to muffle around the throat and vee line of a dark suit jacket or spring coat. Extra long scarves to wind around twice are new affairs to work the magic of contrast. Newest of all, the matched scarves and belt sets come in giddy colors in silk shantung, such as cerise, magenta, lime green, calypso pink, jade, biting bright blue, and stunning shades of lemon or tangerine.

Exceptionally effective waistcoats, really sleeveless blouses, are smooth contrasts to wear with suits. Exuberant plaids, checks, and stripes in swishy taffeta offer a most exciting array for the Easter two piece suits. These waistcoats are cut and trimmed like the front of feminine blouses and do not have the masculine vest effects. Some have a vertical row of bows down the center front; others are tied with a cat's whisker bow under the chin.

The most devastatingly feminine are the sheer vestees and fake blouses of exquisitely sheer material, organdy, stiffened chiffon, and dazzling white eyelet embroidery. These, too, come in a variety of models—the simple flat shirt bosom affairs with vertical tucks and insertion, the elaborately cascade frills of circular cut double ruffles, and the demure affairs with prim little preacher bows at the neck. The embroidered vestees, with a turnover collar that is also embroidered, are the most beautiful, as well as the most expensive.

'Harvest Moon' Grand Film, but a Little Long

"SHINE ON HARVEST MOON."

A Warner Brothers picture, directed by David Butler, featuring Ann Sheridan, Dennis Morgan, Jack Carson, Irene Manning, and Marie Wilson, and presented at the Roosevelt.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

I'm just a pushover for the horse and buggy musicals! And I found the screened romance of those one time beloved musical comedy stars, Nora Bayes and Jack Norworth [some of it partly legend], fascinating—till toward where the end should have been [there seemingly wasn't going to be any end]. Heaven send us directors who realize that "Stop" lights are quite as important as the "Go's!'

That off the chest, the picture is a charming thing, with its costumes, settings, songs, and mustachios of an earlier day [1906], and never was there a more glamorous pair of lovers than Nora and Jack as portrayed by Ann Sheridan and Dennis Morgan. Sordid and heartbreaking are many of their experiences but the two of them bring to the roles a dewy freshness that lingers on and is positively unique.

The story picks them up when Jack, singer and composer, is playing a lone and successful act in vaudeville. . . . He refuses to team with the dynamic Blanche Mallory who goes for him both artistically and personally and who, later, aided by two men spurned by the lovely Nora, brings grief aplenty to Bayes and Norworth. Nora, at the time, is singing in a honky-tonk, owned by one of the men, Tim Donovan, and managed by the other, Dan Costello.

The Great Georgetti, a magician [Jack Carson] has heard Nora sing one of Jack's songs and persuades the star to go over with him to watch her act. . . . That proves a big evening. Love at first sight, free for all fights, the birth of an undying enmity—and the start of a long and successful marital and professional career for Bayes and Norworth.

The picture concludes with an elaborate technicolored version of a Ziegfeld show, featuring the Bayes Norworth's most famous number, "Shine On Harvest Moon." This is just too, too, TOO . . .!

Brilliant in support of the stars are Jack Carson, as the effervescent irrepressible magician, Marie Wilson as his dumdora assistant and later—wife, Irene Manning as the talented, vicious, vindictive Blanche Mallory, and Robert Shayne as Donovan's stooge.

There's no pleasanter entertainment in the loop at the moment!

See you tomorrow.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	5 no trump	Pass
6 hearts	Pass	6 spades [final bid]

South did not have the ghost of a chance for 12 tricks, nor even 11, and thus the slam venture ended in an inglorious defeat of two tricks. This sad result was all the sadder, from South's point of view, when he considered that his holding had been distinctly better than he had guaranteed by merely opening the bidding.

It should not be necessary to go to great lengths to prove that North showed remarkably little control when, having already jumped from one to three spades, he took it upon himself to use the Blackwood convention. Apparently, he was greatly impressed by his own 3 plus honor tricks opposite an original bid, but if he had taken a good look at his losers he might have been given a more realistic view of "combined operations." Aside from the trump suit, South would have to cover five of the six losing cards in North's hand! If he could do that [North might have asked himself], wouldn't South have done a little slam investigating on his own hook? Well, rather!

Children Often Outgrow Some Behaviorisms

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

When you feel discouraged about some habit or trait of your children and you've done your best about it, keep repeating this truth to yourself: Children naturally outgrow in time many of their more subtle difficulties.

I'm not talking now about obvious things, like silliness at 9 or heedlessness, but more subtle behavior.

Having done all you can to clear up their difficulties, having given them all the help you can, there is nothing left for you to do but let time and nature take care of them. With your child's whole general home setting one of love and understanding this is almost sure to happen.

Take fears, for instance. One little girl had for years a fear of feathers. This is not as rare as you might think. She couldn't stand their touching her. Her family wondered, and argued in vain. She got over it.

Another child, an older girl, wouldn't have any sort of grease—cold cream or medicated vaseline for a cold—on her face. Her mother knew the objection dated from a dreaded experience she had when her face was rubbed with vaseline before the ether cone was put over it preceding an operation. No devices helped to banish this feeling. She outgrew this repugnance.

Fear of the dark, either indoors or out in the unlighted country night, may persist in spite of gentle efforts to dispel it, but in time, and often quite suddenly, it will disappear.

Shyness will in time usually give way to a real ease with people.

A quick temper, lack of self-control, and other aspects of a child's personality that we are inclined to think of as character traits often seem to persist until we grow quite discouraged. Then one day, as the child develops and that certain good sense that he acquires comes to him, we see a decided change for the better or for his happiness.

It's the good old story of "do your best, and then have faith and give old Father Time a chance to get his work in."

Alma B, Linginbill, W. Fowler av., West Lafayette, Ind.—Here's a new use I've found for the ever useful pair of pliers. My plumber was going over my stove and when he lit the pilot light he took a pair of pliers and placed a lighted match in between its teeth. "You'll not get burned if you light it this way," he said. "Sometimes a little gas does escape, but if you use your pliers you'll be O. K."

Mrs. Ken J., Chicago—Every so often I wash the treated mops I use for oiling my floors in soap, warm water, and dry them out of doors. Then I re-treat them by dipping in a homemade solution of lemon oil and hot water.

Ellen L. Burnap, 1622 Jackson blvd., Chicago—When one is traveling or is far from the silver polish jar, a good substitute for brightening silver or jewelry is a little tooth paste applied with ever useful cleaning tissue.

Wedding News of Interest Here Is Told Today

In a ceremony at 11 a. m. Saturday, April 15, at St. Mary's church in Evanston, Miss Joan Virginia Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William George Murray, will become the bride of Ensign James Anthony Bowman of the naval reserve. If the bride's brother, Cadet John R. Murray of the army air forces, is able to come from Chanute field, he will be one of the ushers, and his fiancé, Miss Grace Marion Gast, is to be one of the two bridesmaids. Mrs. Robert Thomas Bottorff of Ottumwa, Ia., will be matron of honor, and the second bridesmaid will be the bridegroom's sister, Miss Margaret Ann Bowman.

Following a family breakfast and small reception at the Orrington, Ensign Bowman, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bowman of Oak Park, and his bride will live in New York while he is stationed as instructor of ordnance at Columbia university.

The period gown of ivory satin trimmed with seed pearls and lace which Miss Marcia Lape's paternal grandmother wore for her wedding in 1887 will come out of its wrappings for Miss Lape's marriage on next Friday to Arthur Gilmer Freeman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Freeman of Evanston. The ceremony will take place at 8:30 p. m. in the Covenant Methodist church. The bride, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lape of Evanston, will be attended by Miss Barbara Williams as maid of honor; Miss Patricia Ryan as bridesmaid, and Miss Mary Katherine Pearce as junior bridesmaid. Dr. Freeman will be his son's best man.

The marriage of Miss Hope Tilden to James Page Tice of San Francisco, Cal., will take place today in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Allen Tilden of Burlingame, Cal., formerly of Hinsdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Oreste Papini of Cicero announce the marriage on March 4 in St. Barnabas' church of their daughter, Clara Angiolina, to Carl S. Jefferson Jr. of the navy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson of Evanston. Mr. Jefferson, a graduate of the University of Chicago, is stationed at Glenview, and he and his bride will live near his post.

Urban League Aid.

The Chicago Urban league has announced the appointment of Mrs. Irene McCoy Gaines as case work consultant and adviser to its woman's division.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . . By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 7.—Columbia's working on "Glamour for Sale," with Hugh Herbert in charge of beauty. It's to be a musical. Already Ina Ray Hutton and her band have been signed for it. It isn't star glamor in the studio, but concerns a lady on the street. Might I suggest a partner for Hugh Herbert? Zasu Pitts. She's been off the screen much too long, and she'd mix comedy with beauty even if she only fluttered her hands. . . . Now that Mickey Rooney is army bound, I'm amazed Metro doesn't make "Andy Hardy Becomes a G. I. Joe." It's a natural. . . . "Dragon Seed" did it. Frances Rafferty is so good in it she gets romantic lead as Greer Garson's granddaughter in "Mrs. Parkington." . . . Olsen and Johnson coaxing Eddie Cline to come back to Broadway and produce their next "Jerks Berserk." John Murray Anderson will do the musical numbers and Milt Gross is writing it.

Green Light for Movies.

Comdr. William Chambliss of United States navy has written "Boomerang" — fiction based on facts. The facts will not be known until the story comes out in the S. E. P. after which it will be done as a picture by 20th, with Louis De Rochemont producing, and probably Dana Andrews in the star part. . . . Alexander Knox, who's just finished "Woodrow Wilson," leaves for his native land, Canada, and its army camps. Knox doesn't depend upon our writers; he's whipped up his own material. . . . Ethel Barrymore's play for the Theater Guild come fall is Franz Werfel's "Embezzled Heaven." . . . Paul Zimmerman, former sports editor of the L. A. Times, caught up with home news when he ran into Bill Gargan in Burma. . . . Preston Sturges telling about time his mother wrote a daily beauty column for a London paper. She got $25 weekly. It supported three of them. Preston didn't think her grammar was good enough, and suggested rewriting it, but her husband screamed, "Hey! We've gotta eat, haven't we? If they like it, why shouldn't we?" . . . Which reminds me that rugged individualist Lloyd Lewis once wrote about beauty, too. But Lillian Russell's name was signed to it.

Round the World.

Stopped by "Casanova Brown" set to say "hello" to Gary Cooper. Ran smack into three top-kicks of the army and a captain in the navy. They had dined in Honolulu night before. Nunnally Johnson had them in tow. We listened to a scene in which Gary was apologizing to Teresa Wright's parents for burning down their home. His mother-in-law said, "I might have known it. Sagittarius is against you." Sagittarius had nothing to do with it, it was a cigaret, said he. Then he called his mother-in-law a "crackpot." I turned to Nunnally, who'd written it, and asked how he knew so much about mothers-in-law. He said, "With three divorces I inherited three of them — loved 'em all." After which we retired to Nunnally's office for some celebrating. I learned the officers had seen Gene Markey in New Delhi, India. He told about a tiger hunt as guest of the Maharaja of Jodhpur. Gene wounded the first beast they saw, then was given the honor of going into the jungle on an elephant to finish him off. "Well," said Gene, "no novice before a motion picture camera for the first time ever shook as I did." They also spoke of Adm. Louis Mountbatten's residence in India. He's living in a maharaja's palace.

Still at It.

Fanny Brice and Jimmy Durante do an act together for "Ziegfeld Follies." Maybe to teach youngsters how it's done, or bring back memories to oldsters who've been watching them do it for years. . . . Did you know Jimmy McHugh used to be a sparring partner of Jack Dempsey? Jimmy's been actor, song plugger, politician, and still is a composer. . . . Jeanette MacDonald opens her five weeks' concert tour in Phoenix, Ariz., Easter Sunday. . . . Slapsey Maxie and Billy Gilbert combed the candy shops for jelly beans to give neighbors' kids on Easter. That block long line on Hollywood boulevard these days isn't for a set of dishes and a picture—it's for candy.

There's not a ration point involved in a luncheon menu consisting of creamy smooth spinach soup, wine flavored shrimps de Jonghe, a crisp salad of tossed greens, crusty hard rolls, and a fluffy chiffon pie, but these foods make tempting fare for guests and little work for the hostess.

With the spinach, shrimps, salad greens, and vegetables prepared the previous evening and dessert chilling overnight in the refrigerator, luncheon can be served at the appointed hour in a leisurely fashion.

Cream of Spinach Soup.
[Serves six.]

2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup cooked spinach forced thru a fine sieve
3 cups milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Blend margarine and flour, add milk, cook until slightly thickened, add spinach and seasonings. Bring to boiling point.

Shrimps De Jonghe.
[Serves six to eight.]

2 pounds cooked shrimps
¾ teaspoon salt
1 clove garlic, grated
½ cup margarine
⅔ cup bread crumbs
Dash cayenne
Paprika
3 tablespoons minced parsley
½ cup sherry wine

Mix salt and garlic. Cream margarine, add garlic and salt, bread crumbs, seasonings, parsley, and sherry. Place alternate layers of shrimps and bread crumb mixture in greased baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, 20 to 25 minutes.

Lemon Chiffon Pie.

¼ cup water
4 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind
6 tablespoons lemon juice
1 baked pastry shell [9 inch]

Soften gelatin in 2 tablespoons water. Combine slightly beaten egg yolks, ½ cup sugar, salt, lemon rind, and juice, and remaining 2 tablespoons water; cook over boiling water until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Add softened gelatin, stirring until gelatin is dissolved; cool until mixture begins to thicken. Then gradually beat remaining ½ cup sugar into stiffly beaten egg whites and fold into lemon gelatin mixture. Turn into baked pastry shell and chill until firm.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Macaroni Loaf.
[Serves eight.]

1 cup broken macaroni, cooked
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1½ cups milk
½ cup grated cheese
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons minced parsley
4 tablespoons melted margarine
2 pimientos, cut in strips
1 cup bread crumbs
1 small onion, finely chopped

Combine all ingredients and turn into greased loaf pan. Set in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for ½ hour or until firm. Serve with mushroom sauce if desired.

City's Schools Give 10 Pct. of U. S. Old Paper

The efforts of pupils in Chicago's 569 elementary schools have accounted for more than 10 per cent of the waste paper collected nationally since January thru special campaigns, John R. Robinson, executive director of the Chicago Waste Paper Salvage committee, announced yesterday.

Chicago's school children have rounded up 12,055 tons of paper since the first of the year. For the same period the nation has supplied the paper mills with 117,000 tons of paper waste over and above that received normally thru regular commercial channels, Mr. Robinson said. These supplies were brought out thru continuous salvage drives, to compensate for scarcities of raw materials, help, and the increased uses of paper products for war essentials.

In January, Chicago's elementary pupils gathered 4,000 tons of waste paper. In the first two weeks of February, they accumulated another 1,000 tons. From Feb. 14, thru March 18, spurred by a $1,000 prize contest offered by the Chicago Newspaper Publishers' association, their contribution soared to 5,255 tons. In the last two weeks of March, when the Chicago waste paper campaign committee, the consuming mills' organization, launched another $1,000 prize contest, they gathered 1,810 tons.

Of the national accumulation of 117,000 tons, Cook and the 11 surrounding counties have contributed 77,000 tons. The area, therefore, is far ahead of any similar section in the country, but is still 22,000 tons a month below the amount necessary to keep the mills operating at full capacity. The nation as a whole, for the three month period, is 394,000 tons in arrears of minimum goals, Mr. Robinson said.

The 34 consuming mills in the midwest have sufficient supplies on hand now for 10 or 11 days of operation, while eastern mills are operating with a future supply of only five days.

Child's Dress

Lest we forget that small fry have fashion consciousness, too, here's a diminutive style Cissy is sure to like. The bodice is paneled and may be of one material or be fashioned of contrasting fabric for an unusual effect. Style No. 3683 is designed for sizes 2 to 8. Size 4 requires 1⅞ yards of 35 inch fabric, with ⅝ yard contrasting and 1¼ yards of edging.

Jail's Red Cross Workers Prepare 75,000 Dressings

The Pleasant Hour unit of the Red Cross, composed of feminine prisoners at the county jail, has turned out 75,000 surgical dressings and earned regular commendation from the Red Cross since the unit was founded 15 months ago, it was said yesterday. Mrs. Frank G. Sain, wife of the warden, organized the unit as a means of enabling the prisoners to help win the war and at the same time rehabilitate themselves. The champion among the workers is a colored woman who is soon to leave for Dwight penitentiary to serve out a 14 year sentence.

Mrs. Sain described members of the unit as conscientious workers—who always attended the meetings. She explained that they were not allowed to join until they had passed rigid physical examinations. Not a single dressing has been rejected because of imperfect work, Mrs. Sain said.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"Will you help me plan a buffet supper for 25, using no points at all?" This telephone request is typical of many. Usually the choice is between chicken and fish, altho a spaghetti, macaroni, bean, or egg dish is possible without points. Here's an interesting menu: Shrimp curry on rice or noodles, jellied lemon and cucumber salad, sour cream dressing, celery, radishes and olives, hot "pocketbook" rolls, fresh strawberry sundaes and coffee.

"How do you season a waffle iron before using it?" Waffle irons are seasoned before use or after use when waffles seem to stick, in the same way. Brush the grids well with salad oil, close the iron and heat to baking temperature. Wipe with dry cloth. Discard first waffle baked in a new iron.

"Can you tell me where I can buy an electric mixer?" New mixers aren't being made, and most women are hanging onto their old ones. However, it is occasionally possible to buy a second hand one from a dealer who makes a point of buying used electrical appliances for resale. Watch for ads, tell your friends you're looking for a mixer, ask your electrical or hardware dealer about one. In time you may be lucky enough to find one.

"Do you accept only typewritten recipes in the recipe contest?" asks a typewriterless reader. The majority of recipes sent to us are handwritten. All we ask is that they be plainly written, with clear directions. Family favorites and war time recipes are preferred. Address Recipe Contest, Chicago Tribune.

PREP FIVES PLAY FOR CITY TITLES TONIGHT

OFFICIALS THREATEN STANLEY CUP FORFEITURES

HOCKEY CHIEFS DECLARE WAR ON ROWDYISM

Hawks, Canadiens Play Tomorrow.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Mervyn [Red] Dutton, president of the National Hockey league, last night warned Chicago fans that a repetition of their 17 minute demonstration in Thursday night's Stanley Cup play-off game between the Blackhawks and Montreal Canadiens would result in future games being forfeited.

The two teams will meet in the third game of the series tomorrow night in the Stadium, with Montreal leading, two games to nothing, and needing only two victories to win the cup. It will be the final hockey game of the season in Chicago.

Governors Take Action.

Dutton's statement follows:

"In response to a telegraphic vote which I requested from the board of governors of the National Hockey league resulting from the delaying for 17 minutes in the third period of the Stanley cup game in Chicago Thursday while the ice was being cleared of debris thrown by the fans, I have been empowered to forfeit any future game to the visiting club if a repetition of this kind occurs in any of the forthcoming games and I definitely intend to exercise my authority."

This was the league's answer to the most prolonged exhibition of rowdyism ever witnessed during a hockey game in the west side arena. Always notorious for their tossing of any articles in hand on the playing surface, the spectators reached new heights. Their tempers were set off when the Hawks protested the third goal scored by the Canadiens in a wild third period of Thursday's game won by Montreal, 3 to 1.

"We can't play any better," said Manager Paul Thompson of the Blackhawks after yesterday morning's drill revealed that Mush March, veteran right winger, will be unable to skate tomorrow. "We'll do our best Sunday, but we've got to have a break or two to beat such a strong club as the Canadiens."

Shoulder Bothers Mosienko.

Worse still, Billy Mosienko's injured right shoulder isn't getting any better and the speedy little fellow will play only part time with the team's No. 1 line. Johnny Harms, the rookie from Hershey, and Fido Purpur will operate with Doug Bentley and Clint Smith when this line is in action. It was in the interest of smoothing the play of the three reshuffled Chicago lines that the Hawks drilled yesterday.

Goalie Bill Durnan's performance for Montreal was described as marvelous by Thompson. Bill Tobin, president of the Hawks, who has seen many Stanley cup games, called the youngster's performance tops in his memory.

"Durnan has the art of keeping his eyes on the puck as he falls. He doesn't flounder on the ice like most goalies, but retains complete control of the situation," said Tobin.

Breaks Scoring Record.

Another Canadien, Maurice Richard, had the town talking after his feat of scoring each of his team's three goals. This Richard has quite a hockey background for a 22 year old kid. In pursuing his career on the ice, Maurice has suffered breaks to both legs, a fractured arm and a dislocated shoulder.

Richard has broken the Stanley cup playoff record of eight goals by scoring 10. The old record was held by Don Gosso of Detroit. Maurice also has four assists for 14 points and this ties the cup mark held jointly by Grosso and Syl Apps of Toronto.

"His looks are deceiving," says the Canadiens' manager, Dick Irvin, of the 5 foot 10 inch 170 pounder. "He's the strongest man on the club. In dressing room wrestling matches he will beat even Emile Bouchard. Because of a bad ankle he's not exactly a gazelle on the ice and this helps him fool the opposition. When the other players think they have him stopped he keeps on coming. This year, I've seen him drive in for scores twice with fellows on his back."

Nevertheless, the pair who worked the White Sox-Pirate series in Louisville chatted incessantly at the plate during the playing of the national anthem. George Strickler, director of the National Football league service bureau, recently received this cablegram from Johnny Blood, former Green Bay Packer half back, after Strickler had sent him statistics on the league's championship game: "Received letter, dope, and Paulette Goddard same day. Thank you for dope, thank Chaplin for Goddard, thank Hutson for Lambeau, thank God for Uncle Sam and thank your stars this is not collect." . . . Sgt. Those holy women came at dawn's first light
With spices to anoint Him where He lay;
They found the stone rolled back, and robed in white
An angel stood, who unto them did say:
"You seek Him who was crucified, but see
He's risen, He's not here, Behold the place
He goes before you into Galilee."
And as they went they met Him face to face.

O, would some heavenly power might purge away
Our avarice, our prejudice, our pride;
Then like those women that first Easter day,
Who met the Master, and walked by His side,
Within our hearts we might receive Him too,
And all our hopes and happiness renew.

CUBS TRIUMPH OVER SOX IN SIX INNINGS, 12 TO 3

North Siders Even Spring Series.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

George Field, Ill., April 7.—The Cubs today evened up their spring argument with the White Sox by taking the second of the exhibition series, and were not at all gentle while applying the treatment. They riddled the American leaguers with a 12 to 3 shelling, completed in six innings. The affair was cut down because of a wind which stirred up enough soil to reduce visibility to the length of a bat.

A 4,000 crowd, made up of soldiers and civilians, the latter contributing about $1,000 to the George field recreational fund, saw in addition to a robust Cub attack, some nifty pitching as engineered by the veteran Paul Derringer and the youthful Paul Erickson. Derringer, after a shaky opening inning in which an error accounted for one of two Sox runs, followed with three rounds which were almost perfect. Erickson handled the two remaining innings on one hit and one run, the latter also due to an infield misplay.

Get Six Runs Off Humphries.

As might be judged by the total of 13 Cub hits, the Sox pitching was not exactly encouraging for Acting Manager Muddy Ruel, who has troubles enough, what with coaching and traveling secretary duties. Johnny Humphries started, but six runs in two innings caused him to be hurriedly withdrawn. Ruel felt a bit better when Ed Lopat, the Little Rock graduate, turned out three hitless innings of southpawing. All this joy was dispelled, however, when Gordon Maltzberger appeared. He was whacked for six runs in the sixth, some of the abuse being charged to a sievelike infield.

Humphries learned quickly that he had picked the wrong day for displaying his wares. Stanky, the first man to face him, slapped a double down the left field line. A subsequent single by Cavarretta and a double by Goodman built up the two run opening inning Cubs' lead which the Sox promptly reduced to a tie. This was done on Carnett's single, a triple by Dickshot, a single by Trosky, Stanky's fumble of Hodgin's roller, and a single by Cuccinello.

Up Pops Trouble for Humphries.

The second inning, which developed into four run proportions and brought about Humphries' dismissal, began calmly with York's infield out, but trouble popped when Easterwood and Derringer singled. Stanky atoned for his error by tripling to right center for two runs. Schuster followed with a single that scored Stanky and Schuster skipped home on a triple to right by Cavarretta. Humphries' work for the day was completed when Dallessandro bounced to Schalk for the third out.

Bill Schuster's fumble, coupled with a looping double by Johnny Dickshot, who immediately withdrew because of a minor leg injury, furnished the Sox their last run in the fifth, but the Cubs replied quickly with that six run salute off Maltzberger in the sixth. Erickson touched off the greeting with his homer, Stanky singled and was safe at second on Don Yohe's bad throw of Schuster's roller. Cavarretta singled to score Stanky and Yohe let loose another wild toss on Ival Goodman's tap, two runs scoring. The remainder of the six run plastering was done by Dom Dallessandro's single and Roy Easterwood's double.

Cubs to Meet Reds Today.

The Cubs will open a two day stand against the Reds tomorrow in Louisville but, at least for the first of the pair, Boss Jim Wilson is going to be in a bad way for pitchers. Dale Alderson is away because of illness in the family. Johnny Miklos came down with the sniffles today, and most of the other pitchers are temporarily used up. Thus Wilson's choices for tomorrow probably will be limited to the youngsters unless Bill Fleming, another cold victim, should report himself fully recovered.

TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT

YANKEES BEAT ATHLETICS, 13-5; LEVY MAKES FIVE STRAIGHT HITS

Atlantic City, N. J., April 7 (AP).—Ed Levy, New York outfielder, hit an inside the park home run, two doubles, and two singles today in five trips to the plate as the Yankees beat the Philadelphia Athletics 13 to 5. The A's had won six in a row.

Joe Berry, up from Milwaukee of the American association, was the victim of a seven run Yankee outburst in the seventh inning. He was touched for seven hits in the inning.

The Yankees sent Infielder Joe Buzas back to Newark of the International league.

Outfielder Johnny Lindell of the New York Yankees has been accepted for service in the navy, Jack Farrell, club publicity director, said tonight. Lindell will remain with the team until called for duty, Farrell said.

Charley Schanz went the full nine innings for the Phils and allowed 11 hits, one more than his mates made off three Baltimore hurlers.

Jimmy Wasdell hit a four run homer in the sixth, and Rookie Ted Cieslak of the Phillies had a perfect day at bat with a home run, a single, two walks and four runs batted in. Blas Monaco of the Orioles hit a homer in the eighth with two on base.

Rookie Zeb Eaton pitched one hit ball for the first five innings for Detroit. Johnny Gorsica finished, yielding five hits. The Tigers got all their runs off Sgt. Eddie Metro, who once pitched for Quebec in the Canadian-American league.

BROWNS TO MEET CARDS.

St. Louis, Mo., April 7 (AP).—After a brief morning workout, the St. Louis Browns ended spring training at Cape Girardeau, Mo., today and headed home to open a seven game exhibition series with the Cardinals tomorrow.

The Cardinals, who held their final workout at Cairo, Ill., yesterday, will present a lineup almost entirely of veterans for the initial game. Emil Verban, second baseman, and Pitcher Al Jurisich will be the only starting rookies.

The Browns are less fortunate. Only the infield will present a familiar appearance. The starting pitcher, Newman Shirley, the catcher and possibly two of the outfielders will be newcomers to the squad.

Turf Season in North to Open Today

New York, April 7 (AP).—William Woodward's Apache and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Devil Diver were installed today as co-favorites for the featured 6 furlong $7,500 added Paumonok handicap at tomorrow's Jamaica opening of the northern racing season.

Twelve other thorobreds were named for the inaugural classic, in which Devil Diver and Apache will carry top weight of 130 pounds. Apache won one division of the event a year ago when a topheavy field forced division into two sections.

Other entrants are Tom Heard's Boysy, the Howe stable's Cassis, the Millbrook entry of Alex Barth and Swimmin' Hole, Mrs. B. Di Giorgio's twosome of Flak and Mettlesome, the Havahome stable's Eurasian and Eye-for-Eye, Bill Sickle, Brownie, Go Gino, and Dartaway.

The seven race program is expected to attract 30,000 fans who probably will push $1,500,000 thru the pari-mutuel windows.

Ted Atkinson, 1943's second largest money winning jockey, will ride Devil Diver, but no boy has been named for Apache. However, Jimmy Stout, who has been astride the winner three times since 1939, probably will get the call to handle the co-favorite.

ROOKIE PITCHER REJECTS PIRATE CONTRACT OFFER

Terre Haute, Ind., April 7 (AP).—Ogden Wise, the young right hander who was offered a chance with the Pittsburgh Pirates, went back to his Springfield, Ill., home today, still a free agent.

The youngster, who attracted attention last fall by pitching four hitless innings against the Pirates in an exhibition game, couldn't agree on contract terms.

Marshall vs. Weber.
Mount Carmel vs. South Shore.

These will be the attractions tonight in the Chicago Stadium—the second annual all-city high school championship basketball double header.

Marshall High school, although eliminated in the City league semi-finals, was voted into the program as league representative when Parker and Hyde Park, league finalists, were disqualified. The Commandos are defending junior champions, having defeated Mount Carmel, 21 to 12, in last year's inaugural.

Return for Mount Carmel.

Mount Carmel, victor over Kelvyn Park, 48 to 24, last year, won a return engagement by capturing the senior Catholic crown for the second successive year.

Altho not a league champion, Marshall has championship qualities. The quintet, coached by Lou Weintraub, has won 98 of its last 99 games, in addition to capturing the City league junior titles from 1940 thru 1943,. The four consecutive championships set a league record. No league crown is being awarded this year.

Weber, the opponent for the junior all-city title, won its first league trophy by defeating Catholic High of Joliet, after having lost to Mount Carmel in the finals the last two years.

Unbeaten in 27 Games.

Frank McGrath, coach of the Weber Red Horde, has laid no claim to the all-city title, which probably he could do since Weber is the only champion appearing in the game. Rather he has stated the all-city award will belong to the winner of tonight's contest.

Mount Carmel, coached by John Tracy, has not been defeated in 27 games this year and so owns the only perfect record in the state besides the Illinois tournament winner, Taylorville.

South Shore, only 4 years old, romped thru the City league south section and play-offs, not only to win the senior crown, but also to represent Chicago in last month's state tournament. Tony Maffia's charges advanced as far as any previous Chicago quintet by finishing third at Champaign.

Two interesting games are assured. Both junior teams use the fast break exclusively, guaranteeing a high scoring battle.

Service Centers Will Win.

The South Shore Tars also employ the fast break, while Mount Carmel relies on a more slowly played, deliberate game, designed to make each scoring opportunity as favorable as possible.

The Tars play a zone on defense, while the other three teams use a man to man.

Certain winners of the evening's activities will be Chicago's service men's centers, to which all proceeds will go.

Because of the seating arrangement which must be maintained for tomorrow's hockey game, the capac-

Miami, Fla., April 7 (AP).—Apprentice Jockey Bobby Permane of Camden, N. J., set a record today by riding five winners at Tropical Park for the second straight day. His five victories today were in succession.

Available records of remarkable riding feats at major race tracks fail to show any previous jockey winning 10 races on successive afternoons. Altogether Permane now has won 13 of 21 races in three days since he had a triple on Wednesday. He has won 45 races in 29 days.

CUBS AGAIN GET JUMP ON SOX IN GRABBING FIELD

Lease French Lick Spot for Spring of 1945.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., April 7.—Vice President James T. Galiagher of the Cubs today announced the club will return here for spring training in 1945. No announcement of a possible third successive joint camp was made by the White Sox, but Gallagher explained his decision was made independently.

Gallagher's statement followed a conference with Tom Taggart, overlord of the mineral water empire hereabouts. On several occasions Taggart has expressed disappointment that the Sox made no effort to utilize "Dykes stadium," in nearby West Baden. He says that he has spent upwards of $4,000 on the premises. So far as can be learned, the Sox have spent nothing on the West Baden park. It is deemed unlikely the Sox will return here in 1945 if Dykes still is manager and he is asked to use the West Baden layout.

Retain First Call on Field.

The Cubs, thru the early decision to come back here, will retain first grabs on Gallagher field, the ball park on the 18th fairway of the golf course. The practice field, a basis of haggling this spring and last, got national notice a week ago as a showdown battle field when the Cubs evicted Dykes and his Sox.

The Cubs had tolerated Sox poaching until Dykes scheduled a game with an army team which would have moved the Cubs off their own field. Since then Dykes has asked permission to use the field such times as the Cubs did not want to themselves. Thursday the Sox used the field to admisinster a 4 to 1 whipping to their landlords.

Golf Has Fairway Right of Way.

Gallagher gateway, built of wallboard, was erected before either of the teams arrived here for training this spring. This is an arch which proclaims the field exclusive Cubs property, except for the golfers who want to play thru. Whenever anybody hollers "fore," the baseball practice must halt, even for the Cubs.

Aside from the excitement over the prospect of returning here next spring, the Cub players who did not make the trip to Vincennes today got their principal thrills for the day out of watching for the heralded arrival of Lou Novikoff. The Russian afforded a final note of suspense by not showing up at all.

The White Sox will have no competition over the week-end. There is to be an intraclub game Sunday, but it is not likely to amount to much. Not even a keg of amber is at rtake.

The Sox and the Cubs will play at Camp Atterbury, near Columbus, Ind., on Monday and the Sox will break camp the following day. The Cub exodus is scheduled for next Wednesday.

NEW YORK CITY PUTS USE TAX ON RACE HORSES

New York, April 7 (AP).—On the eve of the opening of what is expected to be New York's most prosperous racing season, New York City imposed today a 1 per cent compensation use tax on all horses racing within the city limits.

William P. Florich of the city controler's office said the tax applied to all horses entered in tomorrow's opening card at Jamaica and would apply later at Aqueduct. The other three New York tracks—Belmont, Empire City, and Saratoga—are located outside the taxing area.

For the purpose of determining the tax, Florich said, horses are valued as follows: [1] By the purchase price, or [2] claiming price, or [3] if neither of these are available, by the determination of the comptroller.

WILDCATS MEET FORT SHERIDAN IN GAME TODAY

Northwestern university's baseball team will open its 17 game schedule against Fort Sheridan on the diamond north of Dyche stadium at 2:30 today. The game is the first of five practice tilts which will precede the Big Ten opener with Iowa, April 28.

Lt. Phipps Leads Soldiers.

Five lettermen, three of them infielders, will be in the starting lineup. They are Ben Schadler, first base; Larry Savage, shortstop; Jim Homco, third base; Bob Lindberg, left field, and Don Trompeter, who saw action as a reserve pitcher last year. Coach Fry hopes to give trials to several members of his pitching staff. Dan Murphy, a transfer from Wisconsin, will catch.

Fort Sheridan, with a lineup composed of former minor leaguers and college players, is expected to provide stiff competition for the Wildcats. This service nine is headed by Lt. John Phipps, manager and first baseman. Ex-collegians on the squad are Sherill Hayden of Illinois, second base, and Ralph Hursey of Iowa, outfielder.

In the Wake of the News

Birthday Party.

Patrick was three years old today—
The neighbor children from over the way
Gathered to help him celebrate,
They came very early and stayed quite late;
Suzanne and Sara, the twins from next door,
Ellen and Billy—a good many more,
A tiny gift in each tiny hand,
A quick shining glimpse of Happyland.

How comforting in times like these
To know little minds can still be at ease,
That little hearts in this land of the free
Can still be happy as children's should be;
And when Pat blew the candles out on his cake
And the children all bade him a wish to make,
I can't speak for him, but, standing there,
I know what I wished, and I made it a prayer!
—Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

Easter Morn.

The lovely flowers are on their way
To unfold their beauty for Easter day.
In their graves almost a year
They come again with their beauty to cheer
Our hearts and lives another year.

In their resurrection we can see
The Man who died on Calvary.
He rose in triumph from the tomb,
Like the flowers unfolding in their bloom.
To man a glorious hope He gave
That they should not perish in the grave.

The resurrection, a wonderful plan,
The grave shall not hold the soul of man,
For he like Christ on Easter morn,
He, too, shall rise and be reborn;
To eternal life beyond the grave
His life for this our Savior gave.
—The Rev. LyCurgus Kendall.

Tough Break.

The other day I got off a train at the Dearborn street station and about 300 starry eyed girls greeted me—blondes, brunettes, and redheads. They waved at me and swooned and yelled, "There he is. Isn't he cute, etc." I straightened my bow tie and put on my best smile and waved back at them, wondering what it was all about. Then I remembered the Wake Contributors' contest. Gee, I bet I won it! Just then a burly cop gave me a shove and said, "Get going, jerk, so the newspaper cameramen can get some pictures of that Sinatra guy!" —Perly.

Friends Send Tackle, Hooks for Sea Bees

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishing tackle for the Sea Bees in Bermuda who want to fish and have no equipment is beginning to arrive from Tribune readers. Daniel Bright, C. M. M. an Illinois boy, is the Sea Bee who sent out the call for tackle. His letter, printed in this department several days ago, told how 200 to 300 members of his construction battalion were trying to catch big fish with practically nothing in the way of suitable hooks, lines or trolling lures. He asked this department if it could round up some equipment.

Gifts to Be Forwarded.

We want to acknowledge with thanks, on behalf of the Sea Bees, the gifts of tackle which will be forwarded next week. Nick Dire, chairman of the Board of Examiners of Mason Contractors, City Hall, sent in a sackful of lures ranging in size from metal trolling spoons to muskie and bass plugs. Mr. Dire wrote: "Just a few nick-nacks for the boys over there who in the days gone by lived to fish and who may now have to fish to live."

C. Rowe, 1926 Race st., included in the box of tackle he donated a 50 yard spool of 30 pound test linen line which will be a welcome gift to the boys on Bermuda.

Donates 2,500 Hooks.

Scheduled to arrive Monday for shipment to the Sea Bees are 2,500 salt water hooks from Orville F. Cullerton, head of the W. J. Jamison Bait company, 5809 W. Division st. Cullerton, an ardent fisherman, says that all of these hooks are large—the type the boys will use to catch big grouper, amberjack, and other scrappers down there in the salt water.

If readers have any tackle that they would like to send to the Sea Bees, especially linen lines, salt water spoons, salt water reels, etc., please write or call us. We will box and ship everything received at this office. The commanding officer has sent us a letter of authorization to postoffice officials which will permit the shipment of the tackle.

Wakefield Studies at Navy Pre-Flight School

Iowa City, Ia., April 7 (AP).—Cadet Dick Wakefield, batting and outfielding star of the Detroit Tigers last season, has begun a three month physical, military, and academic training course at the navy preflight school here.

FOUR FREEDOMS AND MARRIAGE TO RACE TODAY

Miami, Fla., April 7 (AP).—The winners of the two richest races of the winter will fight it out tomorrow in the $10,000 Tropical handicap which tops off Florida's first hundred million dollar betting season.

Coward and Dupuy's 8 year old gelding Marriage, victor in the $25,000 New Orleans handicap in February, will go to post for the mile and one-eighth event the favorite at approximately even money.

But Greentree stable's Four Freedoms outran Marriage in racing to a triumph in the $25,000 Widener handicap in March, and will be heavily backed — particularly since the wonder jockey, Eddie Arcaro, will be in the saddle.

Marriage was fifth in the Widener, but came back to score decisively in the Coral Gables handicap at Tropical Park two weeks ago and has been training impressively. Billy Thompson will ride the story book thorobred.

Third choice in the field of six is W. W. Crenshaw's Grasshopper II., in at 114 pounds, winner of the Ponce De Leon handicap last Saturday. Wendell Eads will have the mount.

COAST LEAGUE STARTS TODAY; OUTLOOK BRIGHT

San Francisco, Cal., April 7 (AP).—Pacific Coast league baseball starts its 42d season tomorrow and in the face of diminishing man power, increased amusement taxes and the uncertainty of war conditions, the outlook for the sport appears brighter than it did a year ago.

Relaxation of dim-out regulations will permit night games. As a result, attendances are expected to triple last year's when day ball was played thruout the schedule.

Seattle, third place team at the end of the 1943 season, looms as the club to beat. It boasts a veteran pitching staff and strong catching, on paper the best in these departments.

Bob Snyder of Bears Has Spinal Operation

Bob Snyder, veteran quarter back of the Chicago Bears, is recovering from a spinal operation in Michael Reese hospital. The operation, to correct a condition caused by an old football injury, was performed Tuesday. Snyder is undecided about playing football next season.

CHEAPER, BETTER MILK IN POWDER FORM FORECAST

Widespread Use Predicted After the War.

BY GAIL COMPTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., April 7.—A post-war quart of milk costing only 9 or 10 cents and conveniently packaged as a powder, was forecast here today at a meeting of dairy experts and faculty men of the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois.

In a symposium on whole milk powder, which needs only the addition of cold water to turn it into full strength fluid milk, Prof. P. H. Tracy, chief of dairy manufacturers for the college, predicted widespread use of the dried milk after the war for drinking and cooking.

Better Flavor Claimed.

Studies have shown that the process of making whole milk powder removes certain undesirable flavors common to fluid milk so that the reconstituted milk may be superior in flavor to fresh milk, Tracy said.

"An important factor in the future of the milk powder is its convenience," Tracy said. "The housewife hates kitchen drudgery and the powder does away with daily milk deliveries, washing and returning bottles, and makes it possible to keep a large supply of milk on hand without extra trips to the grocery."

The cost of a quart of powdered milk will be considerably less than present fluid prices because the powder avoids such costs as property rents by distributors, local advertising, losses from handling, returns, dating regulations, and local licenses, Tracy asserted.

Less Labor Required.

The labor involved in turning out powdered milk is less than required to handle the fluid and it will enable the dairy industry to concentrate production in those sections of the country best suited for it, he added.

The army has found the powder useful and much is being sent abroad under lend-lease. The dried milk occupies less space than evaporated milk, is more palatable, is not damaged by freezing, and when properly made will keep six months or longer, he said.

Lt. Robert J. Remaley of the quartermaster depot in Chicago, told the audience of more than 75 dairymen that the army demand for the powder had exceeded the normal peace time supply and had resulted in a considerable expansion of the dried milk industry.

TWO THOMPSON BOXES WILL BE OPENED TODAY

Hunt for more hidden wealth of the late William H. Thompson, former Chicago mayor, will be resumed this morning when two safety deposit boxes in National Boulevard bank, 400 N. Michigan av., will be opened in the presence of state and federal officials.

James A. Galbaugh, inheritance investigator for State Treasurer Stratton's office, reported that the two boxes had not been opened in the last 10 years, altho the former mayor had paid the rent regularly on them. One box in the American National Bank and Trust company contained $1,466,250 in currency and another in the First National bank disclosed $112,000 in securities.

James W. Breen, former personal attorney for Thompson, has received more than a dozen letters from various parts of the country, claiming relationship to Thompson or asking to be given money from his estate.

Merchant Marine Taking Only Men Older than 26

Sexton, regional enrolling officer for the United States maritime service, said yesterday that only men more than 26 years old are being accepted for merchant marine apprentice training. The recruiting of younger men was halted earlier this week by an agreement with selective service. Enrollment of older men is conducted at 844 Rush st. Applicants who qualify start "boot" training two weeks after applying.

RELIEF MERGER URGED AS CASES DECREASE 809

Klupar Favors Step for Economy.

Continued decrease in the number of relief cases in Chicago in March for the 43d consecutive month brought a statement yesterday from George J. Klupar, Chicago welfare commissioner, that all public aid in the city should be unified to save expense and promote efficiency.

Persons on relief in March numbered 34,450, compared with 35,259 in February, and 56,133 in March, 1943. There were 476,000 persons on relief in 1935; the decline has been almost regular since 1939, when 278,000 persons were on the roll.

Different Procedures Used.

"Having more than one unit of the government responsible for public welfare programs not only involves duplication of administrative costs, but causes confusion in family management where members of the same family receive support from two or three public agencies; each organization has different allowances and different procedures, yet the family must plan as a unit," Klupar said.

State Aid Again Decreases.

The Illinois public aid commission reported a state-wide drop for the 26th consecutive month in February, with a 36 per cent decrease from February, 1943. An estimated 254,391 persons received aid from the four major public assistance programs, at total cost of $6,329,547, or 80 cents per capita for the state's population, Raymond M. Hillard, director, reported.

The number of old age pension recipients continued to drop, Hillard explained, primarily because of contributions from sons and daughters under a new state-wide program. Old age pensioners numbered 139,562 in February.

Toilet soap, razor blades, toothbrushes, hair cuts, an occasional motion picture, newspapers, magazines, aspirin, laxatives, and bandages are some of the items provided for relief recipients in a recent action of the state commission. Hilliard said the new items would cost an estimated $98,000 a month.

AWARDED $15,000 FOR INJURY THAT ARMY IGNORED

Corp. James R. Connolly, 21, of Belmont rd., Downers Grove, was awarded a $15,000 judgment by a jury in Superior Judge E. I. Frankhauser's court yesterday for automobile accident injuries that failed to keep him out of the army.

Connolly, then a civilian, was a passenger in an auto that struck a state truck that had been left parked on La Grange rd. in Franklin Park Feb. 15, 1942, by Joseph Tomasino of 1250 S. Fairfield av. Connolly's upper jaw was fractured in three places, his lower jaw in one place, his nose was broken and he suffered a pelvic injury. He was in the West Lake hospital, in Melrose park, 13 days.

In December, 1942, 10 months after the accident, Connolly was inducted into the army. He was given a leave this week to return to Chicago from Camp Howze, Tex., to testify in the personal injury suit against Tomasino.

BUGS CONSUME TENTH OF FOOD RAISED IN U. S.

One-tenth of the food raised in the United States is eaten by bugs every year, Alexander Sprunt Jr. of Charleston, S. C., last night told 200 persons in the Chicago Academy of Sciences in Lincoln park.

Sprunt, southeastern representative of the National Audubon society, discussed the preservation of feathered wild life for protection against the destructiveness of the insect world. Preservatiton of bird life is nothing more than life insurance, he said.

"If it were not for wild life, we couldn't have agriculture because of the stupendous damage which would be done by the bugs," Sprunt said.

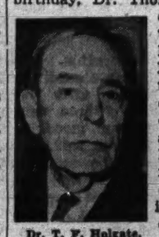
DEAN HOLGATE, 85, IS OPTIMISTIC FOR THE FUTURE

Expects Education to Solve Issue.

Yesterday, on the eve of his 85th birthday, Dr. Thomas F. Holgate, dean emeritus of the college of liberal arts at Northwestern university, recalled some events of his long life and expressed himself as optimistic about the chances of solving at least one of the major problems that now confront the country.



Dr. T. F. Holgate.

His memory went back to Civil war days. He was a boy in Foxboro, Ont., at that time and he remembered an American officer visiting his father to buy horses for the Union army. He also remembered the black bordered columns of the newspaper that announced the death of Lincoln. He said that the Canadian people were strongly pro-North. "We were a part of the struggle," he declared.

Bicycles a Traffic Problem!

Even during his early days in Evanston—he came to the university in 1893—the traffic problem existed. "It was dangerous to cross Sheridan rd.," he recalled. "You might get run over by a bicycle!"

On racial tolerance—a subject on which Dr. Holgate is peculiarly well qualified to speak because for years he was active in the cause of Negro education—he said that he thought antipathies might gradually disappear as the standard of education in both races rose.

Wants Oportunities for Negroes.

"Race trouble does not come from the educated groups," he declared. He believes that human beings can live together harmoniously, if they will. He deplored the present lack of full economic opportunities for Negroes and advocated their employment on the basis of their qualifications.

Dr. Holgate's son, Robert Burdette Holgate, is expected to arrive in Evanston from Rio de Janeiro today to attend a birthday dinner to be given for his father at the Orrington hotel tonight. Two of Dr. Holgate's grandsons also will be there.

Dr. Snow was one of the best known leaders of the Unitarian church in the United States. He held pastorates in Boston, Montreal, Concord, N. H., and Palo Alto, Cal., and in 1928 was named president of the Meadville seminary. He was chairman of the commission of the American Unitarian association to investigate the Unitarian church in Transylvania in 1920.

He is survived by his widow, Margrette Kennedy Snow, a son Donald of Kenosha, Wis., and two daughters, Mrs. John Frosst of Montreal and Mrs. Roger Maher of Waltham, Mass. Services will be held at 3 p. m. Monday in First Unitarian church at 57th st. and Woodlawn av.

THEATER OF AIR TO HONOR QUEEN OF EASTER SEALS

Chicago's Easter Seal queen is to be presented to the public tonight in a ceremony in connection with the Chicago Theater of the Air's presentation of "H. M. S. Pinafore" at Medinah temple. The queen is Esther Liebscher, 18, of 1900 Roosevelt rd., a senior at the Spalding High school.

When the broadcast which runs from 8 to 9 p. m. ends, Howard Willett, chairman of the Easter seal committee of Chicago, will hand a bouquet to Marion Claire, W-G-N prima donna, who will present it to Miss Liebscher. The seals are sold to help crippled children. Miss Liebscher, a polio victim who relies on crutches in walking, designed one of the winning Easter seal posters displayed this week at the Chicago Public library. Students from every public high school in Chicago who have been active in selling the seals will be among the 4,000 guests at the broadcast.

The broadcast of "Pinafore" will be heard over W-G-N, WGNB, and the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak.

STRIKERS DECIDE TO END WALKOUT AFTER APPEALS

Five hundred employes of Majonnier Brothers & Co., 4607 Ohio st., engaged in war production, voted yesterday to end a strike and return to work Monday. Their action followed appeals by navy officials and representatives of the war labor board and the war production board.

The strike was called Wednesday in a dispute over a demanded 5 cent an hour wage boost. The strike leader was named by Lt. George Barnes as Angelo Inciso, ex-convict international representative of the United Automobile Workers union [AFL]. Lt. Barnes also charged Inciso with having called several other recent strikes in war plants, and said he would ask federal investigation of Inciso's conduct.

The Majonnier employes were once granted the 5 cent wage boost by a panel of the WLB, but on a showing by the company that their employes had been granted a total of 40 per cent in pay boosts since Jan. 1, 1941, the WLB reversed the panel recommendation. At the meeting yesterday, a review of the entire case by the WLB was promised.

MATRON SHARES HER EYES WITH A BROOM-MAKER

New Orleans, La., April 7 (AP).—Richard Bienvenu, 33, practically blind all his life, now can see by means of a gift eye donated to him by a stranger, Mrs. E. E. Johnson of Marrero, La.

The attractive matron, hearing that the broommaker might be able to see thru the transplanting of a live cornea to his left eye, donated her right eye in which she lost sight at the age of 8 by being accidentally struck by a rock.

The surgeon who preformed the delicate operation here lifted Bienvenu's bandage yesterday and found that sight had been restored.

Bienvenu was overjoyed. And so were his wife and their son, Richard Jr., 5. The three journeyed to Marrero and thanked Mrs. Johnson for the gift.

Mrs. Johnson, embracing the child, told Bienvenu she was "glad it worked out all right." "I can still see out of my left eye," she said.

15 OVERCOME BY GAS.

Wilmington, Del., April 7 [AP].—Escaping gas in a Pennsylvania railroad electric locomotive repair shop today overcame 15 men and women employes. They were treated at Delaware hospital where three were held for observation. Railroad officials closed the shop to investigate the source of the gas.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

EXPECT PROXY FIGHT TO RULE C. & E. I. BOARD

V. V. Boatner Group Seeks Control.

A proxy battle for control of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad apparently will take place at the road's annual meeting in Chicago on May 12, with V. V. Boatner, a director, leading a faction endeavoring to increase its representation on the board.

Boatner, who resigned recently as head of the railway division of the office of defense transportation, when reached by long distance telephone in New York yesterday, would not say whether he had filed with the securities and exchange commission a request for authority to solicit proxies from stockholders. However, Chicago sources close to him indicated he had. The law requires that SEC have at least 10 days in which to pass on such requests.

Management Has Control.

The management of the road controls five of thirteen directors and the Boatner group five, but three directors representing the Reconstruction Finance corporation have favored the management's views, and the Boatner group has been in a minority position. Were the Boatner group to obtain a majority on the board of directors it could control the road's affairs, even to the extent of replacing the president, C. T. O'Neal, with a man of its own choice.

A proxy solicitation statement received by stockholders yesterday disclosed that Boatner on March 24 was beneficial owner of 1,900 shares of common stock, 3,200 class A shares and $40,000 of general mortgage income bonds. In last year's proxy statement he was said to own 10,000 common shares, 5,200 class A shares and $106,000 of bonds.

Vote on Cumulative Basis.

On Feb. 29, 335,452 shares of common stock and 378,190 shares of class A stock, all with voting rights, were outstanding. Voting of the stock is on a cumulative basis. Thus the owner of 13 shares may vote one share for each of 13 directors or all for one director or he may split his vote among several directors. This voting method is used to provide minority interests with representation on the board.

Boatner opened his drive for control with an attack on RFC which owns $10,246,000 of first mortgage series A bonds. In a message sent Thursday thru the law firm of Walter, Burchmore & Belnap to Sen. Wheeler, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, Boatner asked an investigation of RFC Chairman Jesse Jones and of the RFC's connection with the C. & E. I.

Boatner charged that Jones and other RFC officers and agents used undue and improper influence in blocking reduction of debt and savings in interest charges and in interfering in other ways with the policy of the railroad contrary to the best interests of the line and the public.

RFC Obtains Rail's Bonds.

The RFC obtained C. & E. I. bonds when the railroad was reorganized some years ago. Its three representatives on the board are: James R. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company; Will Hays, movie czar, and Frank O. Watts, honorary chairman of the board, First National bank of St. Louis.

Other directors have said Boatner has his eye on the presidency of the road and hopes to succeed O'Neal. These board members have differed with Boatner on certain policies, including that of refinancing the road's bonds at lower interest rates than the 4 and 5 per cent now in effect. Objections to Boatner's suggestion on refinancing, it was said, are that it would involve nearby maturities which may cause the road further complications and it may be better in the long run to retain present maturities.

The road last year paid dividends on its stock for the first time in more than 30 years. Net income last year was $1,846,421, equal to $3.44 a share on the common, compared with $2,035,369, equal to $3.77 a share in 1942.

Illinois' Oil Output Rises Half Million Barrels

Springfield, Ill., April 7 (AP).—Total Illinois oil production in March was estimated today by the state geological survey at 6,699,000 barrels or 216,000 a day compared with 6,153,000 for the month and 212,000 a day in February.

WARD'S WILL IGNORE WLB UNION ORDER, SPOKESMAN ASSERTS

Montgomery Ward & Co. will not comply with the order issued Thursday by the war labor board to restore contractual relationship with the CIO Mail Order, Warehouse, and Retail Employes' union at its Chicago mail order house and store, a company spokesman said yesterday.

The company considers the order illegal, it was said, and will continue to seek judicial determination of the issues thru a suit which it has pending against WLB in the federal District court in Washington, D. C. The court last month denied a motion by the WLB to dismiss the suit.

The spokesman added that the board's latest order does not alter the situation produced by a similar directive last January.

War Created Problems of Field's Told

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

War created problems, especially merchandise and man power shortages, are becoming more serious in the operation of Marshall Field & Co., Hughston M. McBain, president, told stockholders yesterday at the annual meeting in the Merchandise Mart.

More and more items which the store normally stocks are now unobtainable, he said, and it is necessary to place orders with many manufacturers further in advance than normally. He said that government agencies, such as the war production board and office of price administration, are devoting more attention to the problem of civilian goods than they were a year ago and it is hoped progress has been made.

Improvement Is Possible.

When the military can see a little further ahead, probably after the invasion is launched, "there may be improvement in our merchandising situation," McBain said.

He described the man power problem as highly critical and said the company's mills for the first time are finding it impossible to get certain kinds of help. Labor turnover in the retail division is high. In the Chicago stores approximately 3,500 applicants for jobs have been interviewed this year. In the same quarter last year nearly 6,000 were interviewed. McBain said that of those now being interviewed a high percentage is not available because of United States employment service clearance requirements. Fewer persons are leaving the company than a year ago, he said, probably because of the company's retirement plan.

Future Depends on Government.

"I think it is about time for all of us to face one inescapable fact," McBain continued. "The future course of our business is contingent upon the conduct of government to a greater extent than at any time in our history. We believe firmly that the government must plan vigorously and intelligently to take up the shocks which so clearly lie ahead. Problems of reconversion, contract termination, and the disposal of surplus merchandise, plants, and equipment are merely illustrative of the many huge tasks facing the government."

McBain said sales results for the first quarter of this year were not yet fully available. February sales in the retail division were substantially less than a year ago because of last year's buying stampede on fears of apparel rationing. Substantial gains were made in certain lines late in March as a result of purchases to escape the higher taxes on luxury items which went into effect April 1. He said he was sure that retail profits for the first quarter of this year will not equal 1943.

April Sales Hold Level.

McBain said that despite the retarding influence of the higher excise taxes on certain lines, total sales in April have continued at high levels. Sales were described as being particularly strong in the departments carrying high quality merchandise.

Shipments by the manufacturing divisions in the first quarter of this year are expected to exceed last year. However, profit ratios in these divisions are running slightly below last year.

He said the Merchandise Mart is nearly 100 per cent rented and that the first quarter profit will be higher than a year ago.

The funded debt has been reduced from 29 million dollars to $23,100,000 since 1939. The reserve for possible future decline in market value of inventories has been increased to 5 million dollars.

PRICES OF HOGS WEAKEN ON LAG IN PORK BUYING

Bearish news from wholesale pork markets, particularly the inactivity of lend-lease buyers, sent a large part of yesterday's hog market back to the $13.75 floor price "supported" by the war food administration for good to choice 200 to 300 pound stock. The average slumped 20 cents to $13.70, equaling the lowest sales in four weeks.

Declines in various classes ranged from 10 to 25 cents. Prices were mostly 50 to 60 cents under last month's high point and $1.75 to $2 below a year ago.

Cattle sold mostly steady and sheep and lambs were strong.

Russeks Sales Reach Record of 12.8 Millions

Consolidated net sales of Russeks Fifth Avenue, Inc., in the fiscal year ended Feb. 29, increased to a new record of $12,800,544 from $9,024,080 in the preceding 12 months, Max Weinstein, president, reported to stockholders yesterday. Net income amounted to $406,275, equal to $1.63 a share, compared with $292,581, or $1.12 a share. The branch stores in Chicago and Brooklyn, N. Y., contributed to the gains in sales and profit, Weinstein said.

GOLD HOLDINGS SHRINK; PUZZLE TO OBSERVERS

Government Silent on Decrease.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

There is a mystery about the shrinkage in American gold holdings that was not cleared up by the department of commerce announcement Thursday that Latin American countries are building up large gold and foreign exchange balances.

After more than a decade of unprecedented imports, the inflow of gold has been reversed in a period when the United States is pouring out goods to other nations. In the last 12 months there has been a decrease of more than a billion dollars in the American gold stock which now totals 21¼ billion dollars. Only part of this decline can be accounted for by the transfers of gold to Latin American countries, it is said in financial quarters.

Used to Buy Goods.

The gold transferred to the account of other countries in this hemisphere has not actually moved out of the country. It has been credited to accounts of those countries in payment of goods purchased by the United States and is no longer included in holdings reported by the treasury. Because of war conditions shipments of American goods to these countries have been restricted.

In addition to the gold earmarked to the account of other countries there have been actual shipments, it is reported. The purpose and destination of these shipments have been cloaked in secrecy.

For months there has been a gradual shrinkage of official gold holdings listed by the treasury and the federal reserve board. Persons who follow the weekly statements have been puzzled by the trend. They are unable to find an explanation for the outflow of gold. Inquiries at the treasury department have elicited no information.

Vast Supplies Shipped.

The United States is supplying tremendous quantities of goods to England, Russia, and China and getting little in return in the form of payment. These goods are being shipped under lend-lease.

Why America should be sending gold, except for emergency use in military zones, is baffling to those who watch such developments. It is hardly conceivable, they say, that United States would be making gold payments for goods purchased from countries getting our lend-lease materials. Reverse lend-lease does not begin to pay for the American goods. The situation will remain a mystery until the treasury gives an explanation.

CUDAHY PACKING 14 MILLION LOAN IS FILED WITH SEC

Cudahy Packing company yesterday registered with the securities and exchange commission 14 million dollars series B 3 per cent first mortgage sinking fund bonds, due in 1964.

Proceeds, together with treasury funds, will be applied to the redemption of the company's $17,182,500 outstanding series A first mortgage 3¾s, due in 1955, at 102. Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., will head the underwriting group.

The packing company proposes also to borrow 3½ million dollars on its unsecured serial notes from the First National bank and Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company of Chicago and Chase National, National City, Guaranty Trust company, and Manufacturers' Trust company of New York. Proceeds of the bank loan will be used in redeeming at 101 the outstanding 4 millions of 4 per cent debentures, due in 1950.

SHOW 'FUTURE PLANE' MADE OF PLASTICS, WOOD

New York, April 7 [Special].—Consolidated Vultee Aircraft corporation today exhibited what was described as the first full scale model of a passenger plane of the future. It is made of wood and plastic.

The plane, designated the "model 39," will be built to carry 48 passengers by day and 24 at night, and will have a club car and a business office for private transactions.

Other features are polaroid windows which will permit the regulation of outside light, soap treated paper for washing, pillow radios inaudible in the next seat, and a modern toilet room equipped with a full length plastic mirror.

SHORTAGE OF SIRUP MAY CLOSE SOME OF CITY'S CANDY PLANTS

Candy manufacturers in Chicago said yesterday that they may have to close some of their plants because of a shortage of corn sirup, a basic ingredient. Corn products manufacturing companies have been closed by the shortage of grain.

"The situation is critical and many candy plants face shutdowns," said F. A. Bunte, of Bunte Brothers. G. A. Urban, owner of Close & Co., said his plant closed for a time last week, and may close again next week. Most manufacturers are operating on their reserve supplies.

Chicago produces 65 per cent of the country's candy and the industry here employs about 25,000 persons.

LOANS TO BUSINESS

Alco Output Shifted from War Specials

Pressing demand for locomotives, the progress of the war, and the development of new sources of specialized war products made possible American Locomotive company's gradual shift in 1943 back to locomotive power products, William C. Dickerman, chairman, told stockholders yesterday in his annual report.

The company's 1943 sales volume attained a new record and profit increased over 1942, the statement disclosed.

Adjustments 245 Millions.

"Large orders for war products were canceled and were replaced to the capacity of our output by orders for locomotives and related products under a high priority," Dickerman said. "Cancellations and adjustments of contracts aggregated approximately 245 million dollars. These orders involved subcontractors to a greater extent than our normal products, so this company's actual manufacturing activities will not be materially affected. New orders for locomotives and related equipment are expected to keep our operations at capacity production."

Sales last year totaled $428,905,000, compared with $302,492,000 in 1942. Profit, after reserving 2.7 million dollars for post-war adjustments, was $6,626,515, equal after a $350,000 preferred stock sinking fund requirement to $2.78 a share on the new common stock outstanding or issuable after the recapitalization of last September, which eliminated preferred dividend arrears. Before allowance for the sinking fund, the profit was equal to $3.06 a share.

War Shipments 84.6 Per Cent.

The 1942 profit was $5,051,593, after providing 2½ million for post-war adjustments.

Despite the return to normal products, 84.6 per cent of Alco's 1943 shipments were against war contracts, the remainder being on commercial

FILE YOUR 1944 TAX ESTIMATE BY SATURDAY

Pay as You Go System in Full Effect.

Next Saturday, April 15, is the deadline for filing the declaration of estimated income tax and victory tax liability for 1944.

The declaration, and the accompanying quarterly payment, if one is due, are intended to place every individual on a pay as you go basis so far as the income tax is concerned.

Many taxpayers are not required to file a declaration because the levy is covered by sums withheld from their wages or salary.

Others, such as ministers of the gospel, farm workers, domestic servants, and business and professional people, whose earnings are not subject to withholding, and persons living on investment or pension income, must file. Declarations are required also from persons in the upper income brackets because the withholding tax may not be sufficient to cover their total tax liability.

Those Who Must File.

Any person who was required to file a declaration of estimated 1943 tax liability last Sept. 15 or Dec. 15 must file a declaration for 1944, regardless of the size of his estimated 1944 income.

Others who must file are:

1. Single persons, including family heads and married persons not living with husband or wife, if [a] estimated 1944 income from wages subject to withholding tax exceeds $2,700, or [b] estimated income from all other sources, such as interest, dividends, rents, or wages not subject to withholding, exceeds $100 and total income is expected to amount to $500 or more.

2. A married person living with husband or wife if [a] the estimated 1944 combined income of husband and wife from wages subject to withholding tax exceed $3,500, or [b] estimated income from all other sources [interest, dividends, etc.] exceeds $100, provided that total combined income from all sources is expected to be $1,200 or more, or if the individual spouse's separate income is expected to exceed $624.

Tax May Be Paid Quarterly.

The declaration must be filed on a small slip of paper called form 1040-ES. No other papers are to be sent to the collector of internal revenue.

The taxpayer is not asked to state his estimated income for 1944, but only the amount of his estimated income tax and victory tax. From this he deducts the estimated amount of tax to be withheld by his employer during 1944, and the balance, if any, represents additional tax which may be paid in four instalments due April 15, June 15, Sept. 15, and Dec. 15.

The treasury department is not concerned with the method by which the taxpayer estimates his 1944 tax liability so long as he comes within 80 per cent of the correct final figure. A mild penalty is assessed for underestimating the tax by more than 20 per cent. However, the penalty will not apply if the estimate is based on 1943 income at 1944 rates and exemptions.

Tax Higher than for 1943.

Because of changes in the tax law, such as elimination of the earned income credit and the credit for federal excise taxes paid, 1944 income tax and victory tax bills will be a little higher than for 1943.

An amended declaration may be filed on or before the 15th day of any quarter subsequent to that in which the original declaration was filed, and any increase or decrease in the estimated tax may be spread evenly over the remaining instalments. Only one amended declaration may be filed in each quarter.

If a husband and wife file a joint declaration, they may nevertheless file separate annual returns next March 15. The liability for the estimated tax on a joint declaration is joint and several, however.

BUSINESS TOPS FIVE QUOTAS FOR RED CROSS

Martin H. Kennelly, Red Cross campaign general chairman, reported yesterday that five of the 67 groups in the business division had exceeded their quotas, 13 had reached 75 per cent of quota, and 26 had passed the 50 per cent mark.

The alcoholic beverage industry has given $104,544, or 201 per cent of its $52,000 quota. Other groups which have passed their quotas are: Stocks and bonds, 103 per cent; tobacco, 102; music, 102, and coal and ice, 101 per cent. The business division drive will close April 30.

A check for $3,549 from employes of the United Air Lines who live in Chicago was given to the Chicago chapter by Malcom W. Stevenson, district traffic manager. Employes living outside Chicago have given $2,363 to suburban Red Cross funds. The air lines management contributed $20,000 to the Chicago chapter.
